EXPLAINS HIS COURSE

Believed Testimony of Reputable Witnesses Ought to be Made Public.

WILLCOX NOW STEPS IN

"What Was Written?" Asks Republican Chairman—Time for "Frankness and Honesty," He Says

Special to The New York Times.

NORTH ADAMS, Mass., Oct. 31.—Addressing a Republican rally here tonight, Senator Cabot Lodge again took up the controversy regarding a postscript to one of the Lusitania notes. Senator Lodge said:

"The President of the United States has denied that there was any postscript to the Lusitania note, and we are all bound, of course, to accept the President's denial just as he makes it.

"I need hardly say that I would not willingly bring an unfounded charge against any one, high or low, and if misled into doing so I should be quick to retract it. The President makes one mistake. The statement which he characterizes as untrue, that there was such a postscript, was not mine, but was made by Mr. Breckinridge, a former Assistant Secretary of War, according to the evidence of two independent witnesses, both gentlemen of high character, responsibility, and veracity, and Mr. Breckinridgs was in a position to know, if, as he is reported to have said, he had seen the postscript.

"Bearing in mind the public and hitherto uncontroverted fact that Mr. Bryan had informed the Austro-Hungarian Ambassador that the 'strict accountability' note of May 15 meant nothing, which fact was at once cabled by the Ambassador to Berlin, it seemed to me that Mr. Breckinridge's statement as testified to by two independent witnesses ought properly to be laid before the public.

The Arbitration Proposal.

"The President, it will also be observed, says that the clause proposing arbitration 'was suggested' and after consideration he rejected it.

"This suggestion rejected by the President covered the exact proposition said by Mr. Breckinridge to have been embodied in the postscript, and may have been what Mr. Breckinridge had in mind when talking to Dr. Bailey and Mr. Jeffries about the postscript which was rejected without having been referred to the Cabinet, and it may also have been the reason for Mr. Bryan's statement to the Austro-Hungarian Ambassador that 'the note meant nothing.'

"I would also call your attention to a statement by Mr. Charles Warren, a Republican Presidential Elector of New Jersey, who states that he was told by a member of President Wilson's official family that the proposition to arbitrate the loss of life on the Lusitania was to be embodied in a note to Ambassador Gerard and was not to be a postscript to the 'strict accountability' note.

"He states further what Mr. Tumulty did to prevent such action, and Mr. Tumulty, when Mr. Warren's statement was brought to his attention, said that he apprised the President that there was a proposition for arbitration from a member of the Cabinet. I mention this only because the President and Mr. Tumulty both agree that there was a proposition for arbitrating the loss of American lives on the Lusitania to accompany the 'strict accountability' note which was suggested by some one, considered by the President and by him rejected.

Assails Foreign Policy.

"As I have previously pointed out, the suggestion for a proposition of arbitration to accompany the 'strict accountability' note, whether as a postscript or as a separate note, and the methods of its suggestion, consideration, and rejection are only of interest as throwing light on the manner in which our foreign relations have been dealt with by this Administration.

"This question of the arbitration proposition does not in the least alter the essential fact that the 'strict accountability' note meant nothing, as Mr. Bryan declared to the Austro-Hungarian Ambassador, and as events since that time have painfully demonstrated. The utter emptiness of the note of May 15, with its threat of 'strict accountability' and 'omit no word or act,' has been strikingly shown once more within forty-eight hours, if press reports are to be believed, by the destruction of the lives of Americans rightfully on board the steamship Marina, which was blown up by a submarine."

WILLCOX DEMANDS "WHAT WAS WRITTEN?"

Republican Chairman Says President "Denies a Charge That Was Never Made."

Chairman William R. Willcox of the Republican National Committee, last night issued a statement on the controversy regarding a postscript to the Lusitania note.

"It is time for frankness and honesty," Mr. Willcox said, "not for technical denials and concealment. It must be evident to every one now that something of a seriously important nature was written or done or approved by the President in that connection. One of Senator Lodge's informants describes the additional writing as a 'postscript.' The President declares that no 'postscript' was written. The President's sticking for the exact use of words makes it

Budget $212,000,000, Increase $13,000,000 Manager to Supervise School Expenditures

The Board of Estimate, sitting until early this morning, adopted the municipal budget for 1917, totaling approximately $212,000,000. This represents an increase over the budget for 1916 of between $13,000,000 and $14,000,000, the budget for municipal purposes for 1916 having been $198,981,156.

The biggest salary increases in the 1917 budget were those for the Police and Fire Departments, totaling $795,000, divided as follows: Police, $587,000; fire, $208,000.

The item which caused the biggest fight in the Board of Estimate was that for the Board of Education. The 1916 appropriation for the public schools of the city was $39,865,981; the 1917 appropriation was fixed at $41,425,447. With this increase in the appropriation for the Board of Education the city authorities determined upon the installation of a new business system in the conduct of the schools.

Leo Arnstein was named Executive Manager of the Public Schools, a new position which will carry a salary of $10,000. Mr. Arnstein was formerly assistant to George McAneny when he was President of the Board of Aldermen. He recently resigned from the Board of Education. This action on the part of the Mitchel administration denotes a decision to have a new conduct of the public schools as far as the disbursements go.

The total budget for last year was $212,956,177, but this included the city's share of the direct State tax of $19,000,000, which was $13,975,021. However, the total increase in the budget, so far as the expense of conducting the municipal government goes, is between $13,000,000 and $14,000,000.

It was said by the city authorities early this morning that the 1917 budget would not cause a change in the tax rate of more than 1 cent on $100.

The tentative budget as presented to the Board of Estimate for adoption was $214,904,385.05. The budget, as adopted, therefore, represents a pruning of about $2,000,000.

Under the law the budget must be signed by midnight of Oct. 31. Mayor Mitchel left the Board of Estimate meeting early in the evening and returned about midnight, when he took up with the other members the consideration of the final details. At midnight the big clock in the meeting room was turned back so that the Mayor's signature could be affixed when it was still legally Oct. 31, 1916.

A large part of the $14,000,000 increase is accounted for by a jump of $6,500,000 in the debt service cost.

SHOTS ROUT THIEVES IN DESTINN'S HOME

ONE INTRUDER IS WOUNDED

When Detectives McGuire and Naimoli, after a fast automobile run from the Fourth Branch Bureau, halted last evening before the home of Mme. Emmy Destinn, 94 Riverside Drive, they found excited residents of the neighborhood gathered around the house, which has been closed for some time in the absence of the opera singer abroad. The alarm that burglars were in the house had spread after Miss Helen Simon, daughter of Franklin Simon, and L. C. Higgins, son of Charles M. Higgins of the Standard Oil Company, whose homes adjoin the Destinn house, at 95 and 93 Riverside Drive, respectively, had telephoned to the police that they could hear noises through their walls.

The detectives saw nothing wrong with the doors, and, at Mr. Higgins's invitation, passed through his house to the roof, whence they crossed to the Destinn roof and examined the scuttle. This also seemed all right, but, leaving McGuire to guard the roof, Naimoli descended and, with Policeman Meaney of the West Sixty-eighth Street Station, forced open the grated door in the basement.

Every window in the neighborhood by this time framed the face of some excited householder and the back yards were filled with men and women. But none of the throng outside offered to follow as Naimoli and Meaney entered the basement door. They stood, breathless with excitement, until there came to them the reports of two revolver shots, a chorus of yells, and then the blasts of a police whistle.

They could not see what went on within the house, but they saw McGuire, on the roof, draw his revolver and creep toward the scuttle of the Destinn home, and presently they saw this scuttle rise and the head and shoulders of a man emerge from the opening.

Then they saw McGuire aim his weapon and heard the report as he fired. The man in the scuttle shouted and fell back out of sight. McGuire bounded across the roof and leaped down the scuttle after him. For a moment there was quiet again, while the watchers held their breaths, and then there was a crash. The glass in a window in the fourth floor rear of the Destinn home was smashed and, one after the other, two men mounted to the sill and leaped off, to alight heavily on the roof of a two-story extension in the rear of the Higgins home.

"There they go!" cried men and women at rear windows, but before the fugitives could make another move to escape young Higgins and Policeman Mojeski appeared in rear windows of the Higgins home, leaped to the extension, and held the men at the point of revolvers.

As they stood thus, the fugitives crouching partly behind a chimney, Detective Naimoli raised a window on the third floor of the Destinn home and leaped off onto the extension, where he seized the men and snapped handcuffs on them. With Mr. Higgins and the policeman he led them through the Higgins home to the house next door, where he met McGuire descending the stairs with a third prisoner whom he had handcuffed.

Then lights flashed through the Destinn home and every room was searched, but no more intruders were found, and the police were satisfied at last that they had all the thieves. Naimoli said that when he and Meaney had entered the basement they had been unable to find the electric light switches and had climbed to the drawing room on the first floor front in darkness. As they stood there feeling for the switch they heard sounds in the rear room, and Naimoli fired two bullets in the direction of these noises. The next instant they heard men running upstairs.

They followed as fast as they could in the darkness and Naimoli whistled the warning to McGuire. Their unfamiliarity with the interior of the house handicapped them, and they were on the third floor when they heard McGuire's shot and knew by the sound that one of the men had toppled back on the others, carrying all three back to the fourth floor. They had started up the stairs when they heard the cries that the men were on the extension, and then Naimoli had made his jump out the third-floor window. McGuire said he had fallen on his man when he jumped through the scuttel and had got him without a fight.

It was not until they came to take count of their captives that they thought to inquire if McGuire's bullet had found a mark in one of the men. Then they found that one of their prisoners, who said he was John Webb, 21 years old, of 1,465 Third Avenue, had received a glancing blow from the bullet on the head, and the missile had then plowed down into his right shoulder. They called Dr. Summers from the Knickerbocker Hospital, and after he had probed for the bullet Webb exclaimed:

"Here, I'll get it for you!"

He reached over his shoulder, pulled at the skin and presently brought forth the bullet, which had lodged near the surface. He insisted he wasn't hurt, but he was taken to the hospital a prisoner. The others, who said they were Walter Page, 22 years old, of 226 West 147th Street, and Frank Smith of 218 East 118th Street, were taken to the Fourth Branch Detective Bureau. Smith had made the jump to the extension with Webb, and Page said he would have followed except that he is a cripple and has to walk with a cane.

COAL AT $20 A TON A POSSIBILITY HERE

RAIL CONGESTION A FACTOR

Relief Promised by Dec. 1, and Householders Warned Not to Buy Heavily at This Time.

With coal retailing as high as $13 a ton in some parts of the city, New Yorkers face the possibility of having before long to pay the record price of the strike days of 1902, which was $20 a ton. The Sept. 1 price for domestic size coal was $7.25 a ton.

The situation is complicated by transportation difficulties. With the greatest industrial activity the country has ever known, which is keeping factories on night and day shifts, the railroads are facing the most serious car shortage in their history because of the enormous demands of present business.

The interwoven coal and transportation problem is national. To the fact that operators are hurrying to ship the Winter supply to the West and Northwest, before ice ties up Great Lakes navigation on Dec. 1, is due in part the shortage on the Atlantic seaboard. Some dealers doubt, however, that the relief promised New York after Dec. 1 will bring normal prices. Interstate Commerce Commissioner McChord will begin an investigation of the car shortage in Louisville tomorrow and the State Public Utilities Commission of Ohio yesterday ordered railroads in that State to file at once statements of the number of coal cars they had available.

There is also a labor shortage in the mines. Coal dealers explained yesterday that many miners had gone to Europe to fight and that those left behind could get higher wages in munition factories. About as much coal has been mined, however, as the roads could haul.

While prices charged by small dealers here have gone sky-rocketing, many of the larger concerns have undertaken to keep the prics down, but for old customers exclusively. Burns Bros., who announced on Monday that they would make daily prices only, sold coal for domestic use yesterday for $7.75 a ton in Manhattan and $8.75 in Brooklyn. The coal was parcelled out as the company thought best and all orders from new customers were refused. It was said at the offices of Burns Bros. late yesterday afternoon that they would have the same prices today, but would not guarantee them for longer than twenty-four hours.

A factor in the New York situation is the limited facilities for storing coal here. Practically none of the dealers has large reserves on hand, for which reason they have been buying almost frantically for two months, paying premiums of 50 cents to $2 a ton. Some big dealers have been partially successful in getting their orders filled and so are able to sell at less than $10 a ton. One big dealer offered evidence yesterday that some of the coal he was selling for $7.75 a ton had cost him $9.50 a ton. A part of his supply, he explained, he had bought weeks ago at a cost of $5.50 a ton and by averaging the cost, he said, he was able to sell for $7.75 now. His contention was supported by an article in the Coal Trade Journal yesterday, which said:

"Within the last few days sales of domestic sizes have been made at $11 a ton f. o. b. New York harbor points, which is equivalent to $9.60 at the mines. Coal has been sold for line shipment on nearly as high a basis. The whole range of quotations on speculative coal is up from two to three dollars, as compared with a week ago, the most violent advances having occurred at tidewater, where the tonnage in the hands of the middle houses is very small."

George H. Cushing, editor of the Black Diamond, gave this advice yesterday:

"The safest thing for any householder to do in this frenzied market is to buy as little coal as possible. I've got only three tons in my cellar. I know it will be cheaper in a few weeks."

"There is no sense in paying $12 a ton," said Olin J. Stephens, one of the big dealers. "If the people will only let this flurry blow over, we shall have normal prices again in a litte whie."

It was pointed out yesterday that the continuance of the warm weather would do much to relieve the situation, not only because of the smaller amount of coal used, but because cold weather sends the average householder who hasn't filled his bin, out into the coal market. The dealers yesterday denied that they were trying to take advantage of the shortage, and all said they would be pleased if their customers would buy less coal.

Many manufacturers yesterday were trying to make sure of a continuance of their fuel supply. Most of them have contracts, but there is doubt that all the dealers will be able to make good on their promises. Soft coal, which sold at the mines in July for $1.60 a ton, is now selling for $6. It is reported that some large manufacturing plants on Long Island face an acute shortage in their supply. One manufacturer yesterday recalled the strike days of 1902 when coal sold by the bag instead of by the ton.

HUGHES AGAINST PUTTING EMBARGO ON WAR SUPPLIES

Also Opposes Any Legislation Warning Americans Off Merchant Ships of Belligerents.

HIS REPLY TO A HECKLER

TOURS SOUTHERN INDIANA

Special to The New York Times.

EVANSVILLE, Ind., Oct. 31.—Charles E. Hughes received a series of demonstrations on his tour of southern Indiana today which seemingly left him confident that he would carry the State. It was estimated that he spoke to not less than 50,000 people. His welcome in this city, a Democratic stronghold, was much like the boisterous welcome he received in Columbus, Ohio, last night, only on a smaller scale. There was a parade which took an hour to pass, and the streets were crowded. There was much cheering for Hughes as he rode through the throng standing in his automobile and waving his hat. There were also shouts for Wilson, but not enough to seriously mar the demonstration.

Accused by a heckler Mr. Hughes today rounded out his declaration of principles on which he asks election by asserting that if elected he would not place an embargo on munitions of war to Europe or countenance the passage of any legislation calling upon Americans to stay off merchantmen of the warring nations. These were questions which his managers had long believed would be asked before the campaign ended.

Mr. Hughes went at the job as if glad of the opportunity to tell the American people where he stood on these issues without taking the initiative. They were questions which had been asked him in paid advertisements in every city he had visited.

Replies to the Heckler.

The opportunity came at Columbus, Ind., where Mr. Hughes made his first speech of the day. A man who afterwards said he had come all the way from Louisville to ask the questions interrupted Mr. Hughes while he was talking about "false prosperity."

"As a personal admirer," he shouted, "may I ask a question?"

There was a shout of disapproval from the audience, but Mr. Hughes quieted it.

"Certainly. Go ahead," he replied to the heckler. "Let him alone!" he continued, turning to those in the crowd who were for putting the man out. An officer started toward the man, but Mr. Hughes called him back.

"Officer, let him ask the question," he said.

"In the event of your election," called out the heckler, "will you or will you not favor or oppose an embargo against the shipment of munitions from this country to Europe, or the passage of a war resolution warning Americans not to travel on ships owned by nations at war?"

Here is a transcript of what Mr. Hughes said in reply:

"I, Sir, am in favor of the maintenance of every right, including the right of travel and the right of shipment. It is very important at this time, when the great war is raging, that we should vindicate neutral rights and maintain the integrity of international law. To my mind it is a very thoughtless policy that would surrender any of these important rights because of any sentimental consideration, when we have the vast necessities of neutral commerce and the importance of the rights of neutrals to consider with respect to the future of the United States.

"In all these matters—I dislike very much to strain my voice in my earnestness, and must not do it—but in all these matters we are looking far to the future. We must consider our place as a great nation devoted to the interests of peace. When these crises arrive we are trustee, really guardians, of our future. We may ourselves, though Heaven forbid, be involved in difficulties, when these rights will be of the utmost importance.

Rights That Must Be Protected.

"We should have the right to buy. We must maintain the right to buy. We have the need, in the absence of a merchant marine such as we should have—we have the need of utilizing the facilities of travel, and we must protect American citizens in every right with respect to life, property, and commerce, as to all nations.

"What we want is an America standing for its own rights, facing the world with a sense of justice, asking naught but that to which she is entitled, but fearless and courageous. We need an America four-square to the world, commending itself by the firmness and consistency of its policies, vindicating, as I have said, the principles of international law, and showing itself as to all the champion of the rights of neutrality."

"Thank you!" called back the heckler, and retired. Later he went to the train to cheer with the others when Mr. Hughes left. He said he was a Democrat.

In his address here tonight Mr. Hughes replied to President Wilson's Shadow

SIX AMERICANS LOST IN THE MARINA; SHE HAD NO WARNING, SURVIVORS SAY; DEUTSCHLAND·REACHES NEW LONDON

SECOND TRIP FROM BREMEN

THREE WEEKS ON THE WAY

CAPT. KOENIG IN COMMAND

He Says Passage Was Uneventful—Boat Said to Bring Large Stock of Chemicals.

NEW LONDON, Conn., Wednesday, Nov. 1, 3 A. M.—The German merchant submarine Deutschland arrived in the harbor here early this morning.

The Deutschland was the first merchant submarine to visit America. She arrived in Baltimore on July 9 last, and sailed on her return trip to Germany on Aug. 2.

Captain Koenig said the Deutschland left Bremen on her present voyage Oct. 10 and made the trip here without special incident. The entire crew comprises twenty-five men.

The Deutschland appeared in the outer harbor shortly after midnight and proceeded to the dock of the Eastern Forwarding Company.

Captain F. Hinsch of the Forwarding Company, accompanied by Dr. R. E. Black, the Health Officer, and other officials, met the submersible on a tug. The usual quarantine regulations were waived and the Deutschland tied up at the dock near the North German Lloyd steamer Willehad.

The Deutschland was said to have a large cargo of chemicals.

The submersible, under her own power, slid at 2:35 o'clock into a "pocket" that had been prepared for her at the wharf. The craft's entry into the harbor was so silent that only a few persons were aware that she was here.

Captain Koenig said that the boat originally was supposed to leave on Oct. 1, but she was injured in a collision and put back to port, delaying her sailing ten days. The clearance papers were made out for "Baltimore or any Atlantic port." Until the last three days extremely rough water was encountered, Captain Koenig said.

Plans were made to transfer the crew to the steamer Willehad, where quarters have been in readiness for some time. All the men were in excellent health, it was said, and in high spirits over the successful termination of the second transatlantic venture.

Soon after the craft was tied up a pontoon, carrying a high fence, was swung into position between the dock and the Willehad. With the company warehouses on one side, this combination successfully hides the submarine from view.

Special to The New York Times.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Wednesday, Nov. 1.—James McGovern of this city, Collector of the ports of Connecticut, received word early this morning that the German submarine Deutschland had docked at New London. He will leave for that city in the morning.

The Deutschland reached Baltimore on her first trip on July 9, bringing a cargo of dyestuffs. She made the crossing in sixteen days. She sailed from Baltimore on Aug. 2, submerged at the Virginia Capes and made the trip home in twenty-three days under the guidance of Captain Paul Koenig.

Several days before she left Baltimore it was reported that a second undersea merchantman, the Bremen, was on its way to this country. Since three weeks after that date there have been scores of reports of the approach of another submersible merchantman. A week after the Deutschland sailed officials of the North German Lloyd, which had acted as agents for the Deutschland at Baltimore, went to New London, Conn., and from that time until yesterday there had been reports that another submarine was coming to land at New London.

When the U-53 arrived at Newport several weeks ago almost the first question asked by its officers was what had become of the Bremen. Recent reports from semi-official sources in Washington have said that the Bremen was captured in submarine nets by the British and towed into the Firth of Forth. It was said that the Germans had tacitly admitted that she had been lost. It was reported by a traveler from Europe who landed at Galveston three weeks ago that the first Bremen had been captured by the English, the second by the French, and that the third was on its way to this country. There was a denial of this from German sources. It was also later reported that the Deutschland had been painted and renamed the Bremen and had started for this country.

There is a coincidence in the return to Germany yesterday of the U-53 only a few hours before the Deutschland reached New London.

On the day of the Deutschland's arrival at Baltimore it was announced by Captain Koenig that she was only the first of a line of undersea traders that was to ply between Germany and North

SHADOW LAWN, N. J., Oct. 31.—After receiving unofficial information that six Americans had lost their lives by the sinking of the British steamer Marina, President Wilson communicated with Secretary of State Lansing tonight and directed that all possible haste be taken in obtaining the facts concerning the sinking of the vessel.

Secretary Lansing informed the President that, in addition to asking the American Embassy in London for information, informal inquiries had been sent to the German Government.

While it was made clear here that no action would be taken pending the collection of all the facts, it was indicated that the view was taken that the situation contained grave possibilities.

Secretary Lansing stated that he was not in possession of sufficient facts on which to base a judgment of the case. While preliminary reports have indicated that the Marina was sunk without warning, additional information on that point is desired.

U-Boat Struck Without Warning, Gave No Aid, Americans Say

DUBLIN, Oct. 31.—Twenty-eight American survivors of the steamer Marina arrived at the Seamen's Home here tonight from Bearhaven. In a statement to The Associated Press they said:

"We reached safety after more than thirty hours in a rough sea in an open boat. Captain Brown was last seen lowering himself to a raft.

"The Marina, with a cargo of whisky from Glasgow to Baltimore, was struck by a torpedo, without warning, on the starboard side, off Skelligs Rock, at 4:14 o'clock Saturday morning, and sank in a few minutes. A second torpedo struck the port side of the vessel about ten minutes after the first.

"All Americans aboard were members of the crew except one, a passenger named Middleton, of Fredericksburg, who was drowned, and two stowaways, who also were drowned. The submarine watched our boats for half an hour and offered no assistance."

U-53 RETURNS TO GERMAN PORT

APPEARED AT NEWPORT

Leaving There the Afternoon of Oct. 7, She Sank 5 Steamers Off Nantucket Next Day.

BERLIN, Wednesday, Nov. 1, (via London.)—The German submarine U-53 has returned safely to a German port, according to an official announcement.

The arrival of the U-53 at Newport, R. I., on Oct. 7 and its startling behavior during its subsequent brief stay in American waters aroused more excitement than did the successful crossing, a few weeks previous, of the submersible freighter Deutschland.

During the daylight hours of Sunday, Oct. 8, while the U-53 rampaged off Nantucket Lightship, not very far outside Newport Harbor, she sank five merchant vessels, from which every soul was rescued. A life-saving race from Newport of several destroyers of the United States Navy, in response to the first S O S call, was a spectacular feature of the day, and was largely responsible for the saving of every person aboard the victims of the raider.

The Strathgena, a British freighter, was sent down off the lightship at 7 o'clock in the morning after her crew had received ample time to take to their boats in a calm sea. Two hours later the Norwegian freighter Christian Knudsen, her crew likewise salvaged, was at the bottom of the sea.

At 11:10 o'clock the British freighter West Point was held up, abandoned, and sunk. Then the British passenger liner Stephano was torpedoed at 5:30 in the afternoon. By then the United States destroyers were already on the scene. They stood by till the Stephano's passengers were in their lifeboats. Then they rescued those who had been forced to take to the open sea.

Forty minutes later the U-53 claimed her last victim—the Dutch freighter Blommersdijk, not far from the spot where she fired her first torpedo.

U-BOAT HALTED AID COMING TO ANGELIKA

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Wednesday, Nov. 1.—The Chronicle today says:

"Further details regarding the torpedoing of the Greek ship Angelika shows that another crime against the usages of civilized warfare must be added to the ghastly history of the German submarine warfare. The vessel left Piraeus at 7 o'clock in the evening, having on board 150 officers and men who were going to Saloniki to join the national defense movement. After nightfall the Angelika was sailing off Fleves with all her lights burning and showing those signs of nationality which the Germans themselves advised, more than a year ago, that Greek ships should display.

"At 9 o'clock the vessel, according to her Captain, who has just returned to Piraeus, was torpedoed without the slightest warning. The torpedo struck her amidships, but as she was sailing near shore the Captain had time to turn her head toward land and beach her, thus saving many lives.

"It is believed fifty persons perished

LANSING PROMPTLY CABLES TO BERLIN

ASKS PAGE ABOUT WARNING

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—Under instructions from President Wilson, the State Department has cabled to the American Embassy in Berlin to make informal inquiries of the German Government concerning the sinking of the British freight steamer Marina, with a view to ascertaining what information Germany has on the subject, and, if such information is at hand, what is the version of the German submarine commander responsible for the sinking. The embassy is instructed to make these inquiries at once and report immediately to the State Department.

Walter H. Page, the American Ambassador at London, has been instructed to obtain all the facts available with particular reference to the loss of American lives and whether the Marina was sunk without warning. Ambassador Page was also instructed to send full information along the same line with regard to the sinking of the British freight steamer Rowanmore by a German submarine.

The President's instructions to Secretary Lansing to make inquiries of the Berlin Foreign Office in the case of the Marina are in accord with the course that this Government has pursued on several similar occasions where merchant ships were sunk by German submarines. It has been the practice, however, not to make these inquiries of the German Government until all the available facts had been ascertained elsewhere.

President Acts Promptly.

The action of the President in the present instance indicates that he regards the sinking of the Marina with concern, and that he is anxious to bring the incident to an issue promptly, if it should be shown that there has been a violation by a German submarine commander of the pledges given by his Government to the United States that merchant ships would not be sunk without warning unless they offered resistance or attempted to escape.

The case of the Rowanmore does not appear to officials to afford ground for the belief that a German submarine commander violated the pledges of his Government in sinking her. Preliminary information received by Secretary Lansing indicates that the Rowanmore devoted the better part of an hour in attempting to escape. If this is corroborated by full official information the incident will not threaten a break in the relations of the two Governments, unless it is established that the Rowanmore was shelled by the German submarine after she had come to a stop.

It is the case of the Marina that occasions the deepest concern in Washington, where State Department officials, while not willing to comment, are unable to disguise the fact that the preliminary official, and fuller unofficial, accounts of the loss of the Marina tend to create a serious situation. Tonight's unofficial reports, which stated that six Americans were killed in the sinking of the Marina, according to information reported from London to have been received by Consul Frost at Queenstown, did not allay the anxiety of officials. Confirmation of the report that Americans had been lost and also of the allegation that the Marina was sunk without warning would present the first concrete case since the sinking of the Sussex involving the pledge of the German Government that submarine warfare would be so conducted in the future as not to involve the sinking of merchant vessels without warning and

TWO U-BOATS IN ATTACK?

HEAVY SEA ON AT THE TIME

51 AMERICANS WERE SAVED

American Consul Will Take Depositions of the Rescued Men as to the Attack.

LONDON, Oct. 31.—Six Americans were killed in the sinking of the British steamer Marina, according to a telegram received by American Consul Frost at Queenstown, says the Press Association. The telegram declared that fifty-one Americans had been saved.

The Americans reported killed, the Press Association says, were two men named Brown, two named Thomas, and one named Middleton and one named Robertson. Edgar Miller and Jack Davis, who were injured, are now in a Cork hospital. They are suffering principally from shock.

Consul Frost has arranged to take the depositions of twenty-eight American survivors who have proceeded to Dublin. Thirty-four additional survivors, including fifteen Americans, are expected to arrive at Cork tonight.

A dispatch from Dublin tonight says the American survivors of the Marina who are there are:

Engley, Hamlin, Hanley, Haskey, Hines, Hunt, Jones, Ryan, and Sinclair, all of Baltimore.
Robinson of North Baltimore.
Barton, Clark, and Hancock, all of Richmond.
Blayney and Cullen of Philadelphia.
Anderson of Oklahoma.
Bang of Charlotte.
Clark of Chicago.
Devlin of Norfolk.
Foley of Salem.
Hoven of Lancaster.
Kendall of St. Paul.
Krieg of Springfield.
Lancaster of Yonkers.
Riley of Brooklyn.
Schearer of Washington.
Wentz of Wyoming.
Rogers of Ocean View.

An Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Skibbereen, where some of the survivors of the Marina have arrived, says that the steamer was attacked by two submarines.

The Marina sank within ten minutes after being torpedoed, Consul Frost reported to the American Embassy today. He said that fifty-two more survivors had been landed, and added:

"Survivors state the vessel was torpedoed without warning in heavy sea and sank within ten minutes."

One of Mr. Frost's telegrams to the embassy was as follows:

"Fifty-two more survivors of the Marina landed at Castletown Pier. Only thirteen now missing, believed dead. Not less than thirty-six Americans aboard, of whom sixteen saved at Crookhaven. There will probably be some American fatalities."

The American Embassy today received a telegram from the American Consul at Glasgow stating that the Marina left Glasgow Oct. 25 for Baltimore and Newport News with fifty Americans aboard.

A private telegram received today from Crookhaven by Robert P. Skinner, American Consul General, says that among the survivors from the Marina who were landed at Crookhaven are sixteen Americans. One of them is Frank Howard Smith, a veterinary surgeon.

According to the telegram received by Mr. Skinner, survivors report that two boats containing sixty-three men left the Marina at the same time and have not been accounted for. (This telegram evidently was sent before news had been received that fifty-two more survivors had landed at Castletown.) The weather was unusually severe at the time the Marina was sunk, and has been since then.

The Marina was first struck amidships. A terrific explosion occurred on the starboard side. The second torpedo struck the bow, and the steamship went down almost immediately, in two parts. It is reported that seven men were killed while attempting to get into boats.

Sailors saw the wake of a torpedo, according to these advices, and until the ship was struck thought it was a fish.

Ask What Wilson Will Do.

Basing their comments on the earlier news that a large number of Americans lost their lives when the Marina was sunk, the London evening newspapers are again asking what the United States Government will do. The Westminster Gazette, however, says:

"We as yet are without information as to the status of the Marina and the precise nature of the attack. In the absence of such information it would be hardly be profitable to discuss questions which the sinking of the Marina may or may not raise."

The Globe says: "Germany in her new submarine campaign apparently has thrown to the winds all consideration for neutrals and such pitiful shreds of international law as she still professed to maintain."

The Pall Mall Gazette says: "If the facts bear any resemblance to the first versions, it is clear that President Wilson will be confronted by an awkward dilemma."

Referring to President Wilson's "strict accountability" note and his election appeal of having "kept America out of the war," The Pall Mall Gazette says:

"Even his firmest supporters may feel some anxiety as to the possibility of reconciling his diplomatic notes with his election posters in such an incident as this. Whether America has any real protection to confer upon her subjects at all is a question which the Marina case may carry to a final answer."

Included among the Americans on board the Marina, according to a list issued on Monday by the United States Shipping Company of Newport News, agents for the vessel, were P. D. Brown, Upperville, Va.; J. C. R. Brown, Washington, D. C.; H. B. Middleton, Fredericksburg, Va.; Daniel P. Thomas and John P. Thomas, both or Wilmington, Del.; Andrew G. Robinson, Baltimore; Edgar Miller, Baltimore; F. C. Davis, Wake Forest, N. C., and Jack Davis, Roanoke, Va. All the men named above were classified as horsemen.

The late report from London saying that fifty-one Americans had been saved would indicate that there were fifty-seven on board instead of forty-nine, as first reported.

MILLER A BALTIMORE BOY.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, Md., Oct. 31.—Andrew G. Robinson and several other horse tenders who were on the Marina's list as residents of Baltimore cannot be traced here, and probably were from Virginia or some other adjoining State and shipped from this port.

Edgar Miller, one of the injured, is 19 years old and is a son of Mrs. Margaret Miller or North Collington Avenue, Baltimore. Others on the ship whose parents have been found here are Charles Horky, aged 19; Millard Leroy Hunt, 22, and H. F. Jones, 19. The last named is a son of Harry Jones, a member of the Fire Department.

Several months ago a strange man frequented the neighborhood where the Millers and Joneses live and told interesting tales of the sea. A short time afterward the young men left home and have not been heard from since. Neither had any previous experience in tending horses on ships.

ONLY BIG GUNS BUSY ON THE SOMME FRONT

BERLIN TELLS OF SUCCESS

LONDON, Oct. 31.—The bad weather continues on the Somme front and no fighting of importance is reported by either the British or French War Offices. Berlin, in reporting yesterday's events on this front, says the British attacked north of the Somme but were repulsed, while French advances south of the Somme met with no success.

The artillery, however, has been busy on both sides along the Somme and at Verdun.

There was considerable hostile shelling against our front in the Ypres area, at Hebuterne and south of the Ancre, especially around Stuff and Schwaben redoubts and the Regina trench.

Otherwise, there is nothing to report.

The British day report says:

With the exception of intermittent shelling on both sides there was nothing to report during the night.

The report issued this evening by the French War Office says:

The day was relatively calm on the whole front. Only fairly lively intermittent artillery fighting was reported in the regions of Sailly and St. Pierre Vaast Wood.

Berlin Says Allies Attacked.

BERLIN, Oct. 31, (by Wireless to Sayville.)—Attempts of the French and British troops on the Somme front, near Les Boeufs and La Maisonnette, to advance yesterday were defeated by the Germans, the War Office announced today. French attacks in the region of Ablaincourt and on both sides of the Chaulnes-Lihons road also were without success. The statement follows:

Army Group of Prince Rupprecht—The activity of the fighting on the Somme was limited by unfavorable weather. Detachments of the enemy which advanced against our positions northeast and east of Les Boeufs were driven back by our fire. An attack of a French company against La Maisonnette failed. Equally without success were attempts of hand grenade squads to enter our new trenches south of Biaches. Attacks of stronger French forces against Ablaincourt and on both sides of the Chaulnes-Lihons road were not carried out, owing to our defensive fire.

The War Situation

BY THE MILITARY EXPERT OF THE NEW YORK TIMES.

One of the most interesting statements in regard to the war that has recently been made by any one in authority is the statement yesterday by Field Marshal von Hindenburg to an Austrian press reperesentative.

This statement is deserving of the deepest attention. In the first place, it may be noted that it was made to an Austrian representative. This at once gives to the statement a political tinge. We know the condition of Austria. We have seen the reports of the meetings of the Austrian Reichsrath, undiluted and uncut by the censor, showing the dissatisfaction that exists at the constant drain on Austria's reserves. We have seen Austria beaten, her lines shattered, the Russians pouring through, capturing them by the thousands, until German troops came to their rescue.

We have seen also the Germans ousting Austria from anything resembling control even of her own forces. Germany is and has been in the saddle for months, retaining undisputed control of the situation. With this knowledge it is but natural that we should suspect that perhaps politics dictated, in part at least, the optimistic statements of general conditions.

Von Hindenburg's statement of the condition of affairs in France is one which Germany has been making in one form or another since the beginning of the battle of Verdun last February. It is one which Germany devoutly wishes were true. But nothing that has yet happened gives the slightest indication that it is true. France was bled white on the hills of Verdun. Yet before the glow of the Verdun fire died out, we saw the French take the lead in the terrible fighting on the Somme. And while the Somme fighting was at its height, we saw enough reserve force left to strike a blow at Verdun which snatched from the Germans in a short fight of a few hours all that they had taken in two months of fighting.

It is undeniably true that the French have lost heavily during the last year, both at Verdun and on the Somme. But is it possible that the Germans have not, too, suffered heavy casualties? As a matter of fact, what has so far happened on the Somme indicates that the relative, if not the absolute, loss of the Germans has been greater than that of the Allies.

The fair implication of von Hindenburg is that the British are not fighting, but are throwing the burden on the French, while the British sit back and endeavor to direct the fighting. It has become habitual to attack the British for their failure to do what has been considered their part in the war. There can be but one opinion as to the fact that at a certain period of the war, this seemed justifiable. But today Great Britain is doing her part. The French are fighting, yes, but the British are fighting just as hard, and putting their best into the struggle. It is but necessary to see the British casualty lists of the fighting on the Somme to realize this. Their latest report shows that 400,000 men have been either temporarily or permanently incapacitated since July 1. In order to understand the real facts of the fighting in the west since the middle of last February, we can pretty nearly arrive at the truth of the respective losses and see which side has the advantage as a result.

The advantages of terrian which the French had at Verdun are well recognized, and have been exhaustively discussed. The German losses in this fighting unquestionably exceed those of the French, by how much we do not know. The probabilities are that this fighting cost the Germans at least 500,000 and the French about 350,000. A comparison with the known losses on the Somme, where the fighting has been over a territory which gave neither side any dominant advantage, and where the fighting has been in progress a much shorter time, makes this a reasonable figure. On the Somme the British have lost about 400,000 men. The French loss has not been so great for several reasons. The British have been more desperately resisted, there is better cooperation between the artillery and infantry in the French Army. It is doubtful, indeed, if the French loss exceeds 250,000 men.

The German loss has been extremely heavy. The Allies report the capture of about 78,000 prisoners since the first of July. Taking the German ratio between prisoners and casualties, the German loss could not have been less than seven times the number of prisoners, or about 550,000 men. In other words, the French loss has been 600,000 men, and the German loss over a million men in both battles.

Germany has asserted that on the western front she is outnumbered two or three to one. She probably is. Who, then, will be exhausted first? Von Hindenburg may have no idea at present of shortening his western front. But as time passes the disproportion between his numerical strength and that of his opponents will become greater, and then he will have to shorten up somewhere. It may not be in the west. It is not apparent, however, where else it could be.

Several indications have been given us that the theory of Germany's growing weakness in the west is correct. Take the case of Thiepval. It will be remembered that the British did their utmost for months to take this small village, but without result. Then, while they were fighting in a major attack in some other field, they turned on Thiepval and captured it in a few hours. The French did exactly the same thing at Verdun. It is obvious that the attacking force must, if they hope for success, effect a greater concentration of men than is necessary for the defense of the same place. The French in the case of Verdun and the British in the case of Thiepval, therefore, probably had greater forces fighting the major battles than the Germans had against them. And yet they still had enough reserve strength to strike at points far removed from the scene of the major effort, and achieve a signal success. And these successes were made possible only because the Germans, in order to defend themselves from the major attacks, were forced to weaken their lines at other points to a degree which proved dangerous in the extreme.

There is still another point in the relative rate of decline in man power of France and Germany. France has, it is true, a contingent before Saloniki. But this contingent is almost insignificant compared to the forces which Germany is forced to maintain on other sections of the eastern front. Germany's losses on the east, or, to put it another way, on fronts other than the western front, are naturally much larger than those of the French. Combined, the ratio of losses between the two is somewhere near 3 for the Germans and 2 for the French, which is just the ratio of the respective populations of the two countries. It is impossible to conceive, therefore, of any combination of circumstances which can destroy the French man power which will not at the same time destroy the German man power. Between the two therefore, it is a stand-off. But the great numbers which England has recruited have not been considered. Russia's reserves have been ignored. These will weigh heavily in the balance against Germany when the final summing up is made.

ITALIANS SHELL BULGARS.

French on Macedonian Front Occupy Singieri Monastery.

LONDON, Oct. 31.—In reporting further progress by the French and Serbians on the Macedonian front the Paris War Office announces that the French took possession of the Singieri Monastery and mentions the Italian artillery as being in action in the Doiran region. The statement follows:

West of Lake Presba we occupied Singieri Monastery.

A British War Office bulletin says:

With the exception of a sharp patrol action near Kalendra, the situation is unchanged.

Rome issued the appended official statement today:

Saloniki front: An enemy airplane while reconnotring was shot down near the railway station of Akindzali (Yakinjali) on the Doiran-Demir-Hissar line. A Bulgarian detachment endeavored to recover the machine, but was dispersed by our artillery, which completely destroyed the airplane.

SOFIA, Oct. 30, (via London, Oct. 31.)—A series of desperate attacks by the Serbians in the Cerna River region, southeast of Monastir on the Macedonian front resulted in a sanguinary defeat for them, the War Office announced today. The official statement reads:

In the bend of the Cerna there has been serious fighting. During the day the Germans by a counterattack repulsed two strong enemy attacks near Valjinelo. Toward evening the enemy made several further desperate attacks on a more extended front, but was driven back with sanguinary losses.

We attacked the Serbians and drove them from trenches south of Nonte. An enemy group north of the Liumnitsa (a western tributary of the Vardar in Serbia) was annihilated by our fire.

as the result of the explosion of the torpedo. Another Greek vessel came along and encountered the submarine and was warned not to go to the assistance of the Angelika under pain of being torpedoed also. The lack of help resulted in the loss of lives which might have been saved."

FOUR MORE SHIPS ARE SUNK.

Two Are Norwegian and Two Are Greek.

LONDON, Oct. 31.—The Norwegian steamers Falkafjell and Tordal have been sunk, according to an announcements made by Lloyd's shipping agency today.

The destruction of the Greek steamers Massalia and Germaine was also reported to the agency. The crews of both of these ships have been saved, the men from the Massalia being landed at Gibraltar.

LANSING PROMPTLY CABLES TO BERLIN

without safety to passengers and crews, except in cases where the steamers resisted or attempted to escape.

Hinges on Warning.

The Marina case turns around these two points:

First—Was the vessel sunk without warning?

According to statements made at the German Embassy today, it is not the opinion there that Germany's pledges have been violated by the commander of the submarine that sank the Marina. It is explained at the embassy that rigid instructions have been given to German submarine commanders, and that it cannot be believed that a trained naval officer would violate these instructions. It is perhaps significant that the statement was made at the embassy that if the submarine commander should be found to have violated or exceeded his instructions, the German Government would be prompt to disavow his act and would administer severe punishment.

There is considerable conflict of statement regarding the way in which the Marina was sunk. The first cablegram from Consul Frost yesterday to the State Department asserted that the Marina had been sunk by submarine shellfire without warning. In the unofficial news accounts the statement is attributed to survivors that they saw the wake of a torpedo and that the vessel was sunk by torepdo attack without warning.

The vital point with the State Department is not whether the vessel was sunk by gunfire, or by torpedo attack, but whether warning was given, or whether the Marina lost immunity by trying to escape. To have lost such immunity the vessel must have actually been endeavoring to escape.

Inquiry is being made into the status of the Marina to determine whether she was a merchant ship in the ordinary acceptation of that term or whether she was taken over by the British Government for use as a military transport. All evidence thus far indicates that the Marina was not under charter as a transport and not commandeered by the British Government, but that she was engaged in regular merchant traffic. If this was the status of the Marina, she was entitled to the immunities of other merchant ships flying belligerent flags, and not subject to attack unless she forfeited immunity by resistance or attempt to escape. Numerous attacks have been made on British vessels plying between Newport News and British ports with mules and horses. Some of these vessels have been sunk, but most of them have tried to escape and have succeeded in outrunning the German submarines.

It may be a week or more before the German reply is received, as the submarine or submarines which made the attack on the Marina probably would not return to their bases and report under several days. Unless there is an unreasonable delay at Berlin, no serious action will be taken here pending the reply, even though complete information from other sources should make it evident that there must be action.

Discussion of the Marina and Rowanmore cases today developed the fact that the State Department never has learned what punishment was imposed by Germany upon the submarine commander who sank the Sussex, although Ambassador Gerard was instructed some time ago to make inquiries on the subject. A department official said this was one of the subjects that would be taken up with the Ambassador when he called before starting on the return trip to Berlin after his vacation.

Scherrer an ex-Soldier.

Three of the American members of the crew of the Marina are put down as having given Washington as their residence when they signed as members of the crew. They are J. Hancock, J. R. C. Brown, and Edgar C. Scherrer. The names of Hancock and Brown do not appear in the City Directory. Scherrer belongs to a well-known family in southeast Washington, and resided here with his sister, Mrs. John Jaeschke of 540 Ninth Street S. E. He was born in Washington in 1887 and served two enlistments in the United States Army. He left the army in 1915 and was employed last Winter in a steel plant, making munitions, at Giesboro Point, south of Washington. His sister said today she believed her brother had shipped on the Marina owing to a friendship he maintained with Preston Devine of Virginia, a veterinarian, but she said she did not know whether Devine had also taken service on the Marina. It was asserted at the Pension Office today that Scherrer had recently applied for a pension, claiming disability from malarial poisoning contracted in the line of duty in the army. This pension has just been denied.

Scherrer's papers at the Pension Office show he was a horseshoer and corporal in Company C, Thirteenth United States Cavalry, for a time, and later served in the Quartermaster's Corps in the army. He enlisted in 1908, was discharged in 1911, re-enlisted in 1912 and was discharged in 1915. He had served at Fort Myer, Fort Slocum, N. Y.; Fort Riley, Kan., and Galveston. His father and mother are dead.

DEUTSCHLAND HERE ON SECOND TRIP

and South America to show England that her blockade was useless. He even went so far as to say that the names of the next two ships to sail would be the Bremen and the Amerika. In the absence of more definite information the fact that the Deutschland has made a second trip to this country prior to the arrival of any sister submersible merchantmen would seem to indicate that the Bremen and the Amerika were not so successful as their sister ship.

The entrance of the Deutschland to the harbor of New London was made under conditions similar as to point of time to those which attended her entrance into the Virginia Capes. At that time Captain Koenig approached the coast toward the end of day, submerged, and waited until dark before he attempted the entrance past the Capes. He made the entrance in pitch darkness, guided only by the steady flare of the Cape Henry light and the intermitten flashes of the Cape Charles beacon.

He was "picked up" by a pilot boat, whose Captain greeted him with the words:

"I'll be damned if it ain't you!"

The pilot Captain helped him to find the tugboat Timmins, under charter to the North German Lloyd, which had been hovering about the Capes waiting for him for a week. Under convoy by the Timmins the Deutschland made her way to the Baltimore harbor under her own power, where she was tucked into a nest on the south Baltimore waterfront near Cape McHenry and guarded by a corral made of freight barges and interned German liners.

Last Friday, Captain Guy Gaunt, British Naval Attache here, told a reporter for THE TIMES that the next German undersea merchant vessel was expected to arrive on Nov. 1, and that it would be the Deutschland. He would give no information as to what he believed had become of the Bremen or of the Amerika.

RUMANIANS WIN ON NORTH FRONT

Victory Called "Brilliant" Reported to Have Been Gained in Szurduk Pass Region.

WHOLE LINE HOLDS FIRM

Berlin Reports Capture of 10,000 Prisoners by Falkenhayn's Army Since Oct. 10.

LONDON, Oct. 31.—The battle that has been in progress in the Szurduk Pass region on the Rumanian-Transylvanian frontier has ended in a brilliant victory for the Rumanians, according to a wireless message from Bucharest today. The Austro-German forces, it is declared, have been repulsed from the frontier after having lost much artillery and many prisoners. Along the whole front of the Transylvanian Alps on the northern Rumanian border the Teutonic lines have been shaken by the Rumanian attack, the dispatch adds.

> Northern and northwestern fronts: From Tulghes to Bicaz the situation is unchanged. At Bratocea a small detachment surprised and repulsed the enemy on Mount Rosoa, causing him heavy losses. In a single trench we found two officers and forty men dead. We have occupied Mount Rosca, making some prisoners and capturing a machine gun and a searchlight.
>
> At Predelus the bombardment slackened. In the Prahova Valley and in the region of Dragoslavle, north of Campulung, we repulsed several enemy attacks. To the east of the River Alt (Aluta) the action is proceeding. In the Jiul Valley (region of Vulcan Pass) the pursuit of the enemy continues. At Orsova (on the Danube) the bombardment was less violent.
>
> Southern front: The situation is unchanged.

> Transylvania—Enemy attacks in the region of Bushteni, in the Prahova Valley, were repelled.
>
>
> In the Jiul Valley (Transylvania) the Rumanians continued to press the enemy toward the north, and in this region they have taken a further 300 prisoners and four machine guns.
>
> In Dobrudja there is no change.

10,000 Prisoners Taken by Teutons.

BERLIN, Oct. 31, (by Wireless to Sayville.)—Efforts of the Rumanians to recapture positions along the Transylvanian frontier yesterday were without success, the War Office announced today. Since Oct. 10 the Austrians and Germans have captured more than 10,000 Rumanians. The announcement follows:

> Army group of Archduke Charles Francis: Quiet prevailed on the Transylvanian eastern front. In the southern frontier mountain fighting goes on in spite of heavy fog and snowstorms. North of Campulung, near Boerzeny and north of Orsova, the Rumanians attempted in vain to take back heights captured from them.
> Since Oct. 10 General von Falkenhayn's army has captured 151 Rumanian officers, 9,920 men, and much war material, including thirty-seven cannon, forty-seven machine guns, and one flag.
> Army group of Field Marshal von Mackensen: The situation in Dobrudja is unchanged.

AMSTERDAM, Oct. 31.—Emperor William, says an official announcement made in Berlin, has sent a message to Field Marshal von Mackensen thanking him for the successful operations he has conducted in Dobrudja and the capture of Cernavoda. The Emperor announces the West Prussian Infantry Regiment 129 will henceforth bear Field Marshal von Mackensen's name.

The comparatively slow progress of the Austro-German forces since capturing the passes south of Kronstadt is explained by the Tageblatt's correspondent at that front as due to the fact that the Rumanians occupy strongly fortified positions in the mountains, every peak of which during the last two years has been converted into a fortress with batteries built in at every available spot. Good highways have also been constructed between the different peaks, enabling the Rumanians to reinforce quickly threatened points.

Owing to the situation, says the correspondent, the invading forces have found it necessary to execute wide flanking movements over difficult mountains. Nevertheless, they are making steady, though slow, progress.

"Our volunteers on Oct. 27 attacked by surprise the hostile camps near Sheikh Saad. They advanced until they had destroyed one shed and one British aeroplane, and then returned unharmed.

"The British took revenge for this bold raid by dropping bombs on Bedro, north of Kut-el-Amara. One child was killed and three civilians were wounded."

RUSSIANS IN VOLHYNIA TAKE TEUTON TRENCHES

Berlin Reports Success by German and Turkish Troops Southeast of Lemberg.

LONDON, Oct. 31.—Austro-German first-line trenches in the region of Pustonyty and Oshchest, on the Vladimir-Volynski front in Volhynia, were captured yesterday in a heavy attack by Russian infantry, which then repulsed all attempts to retake them. The Petrograd official report telling about it reads:

> In the direction of Lutsk, in the region of Pustonyty and Oshchest, south of Sviniusky, our detachments after having destroyed the enemy's wire entanglements, captured his foremost trenches and consolidated themselves. Enemy counterattacks made with the object of regaining the trenches captured by us in the region of Oshchest were repelled by our fire.
>
> South of Brzezany, in the region of the villages of Michishchuv and Lipsitadolna, the enemy, after fierce artillery fire, launched a series of successive attacks on our positions, but all attacks were repelled by us.
>
> At about 4 o'clock in the afternoon the enemy, who attempted another attack, was again repelled by our reinforcements, which had been hurried up. We captured here a number of prisoners.
>
> North of the village of Svistelniki hand-grenade fighting took place during the entire night, slackening in the morning.
> In the wooded Carpathians an artillery duel is taking place. Our scouts also are making reconnoissances.

Important heights further to the south were taken by German contingents, who repulsed Russian counterattacks. Russian attempts to advance southwest of Stanislau were futile, according to today's Army Headquarters announcement, which reads:

> At dawn the Russians attacked our Shara position near Krashin after a brief increase of fire, but were sanguinarily repulsed.
>
> Northwest of Berestechk, on the Upper Styr, outpost engagements had a result favorable to us.
>
> On the east bank of the Narayuvka, Turkish troops captured several advance positions of the enemy northwest of Molochov at the point of the bayonet. Further south, German regiments took important positions on the heights west of Folv-Kasnolesne and repulsed Russian counterattacks. Four officers, 170 men, and 9 machine guns were brought in.
>

BERESFORD DENIES CENSURING OUR NAVY

Admiral Says His Comments on U-53 Incident Were Not Criticism of Washington.

HE HOPES FOR NEW LAWS

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Oct. 31.—Lord Beresford in an interview with THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent today replied to the criticism in American newspapers upon his comments on the U-53 incident. The Admiral wanted it made clear that he was not disposed to criticise the American Government or suggest anything it might do in the situation that is one essentially for Washington to handle in its own way.

"In what I have said about the U-53 incident," he said, "I made no criticism of the American navy, whose chivalry and courage are known the world over. Nor have I intended to criticise the Government at Washington. I have alluded to recent behavior of German submarines in American seas in the hope that some negotiations might be taken up between the American and British Governments to avoid a repetition of the incident that might cause a misunderstanding between the two great English-speaking nations. Such a misunderstanding would be lamentable. It would be a curious situation if German submarines were to be allowed to sink ships in American seas while counting upon the American navy to pick up the survivors. There is, danger ahead in such policy of the Germans and it is to avoid that danger that I have spoken.

"Great Britain and America, in my opinion, should do nothing that might interfere with the good relations existing between them. What I wanted was to remove the slightest chance for a serious disagreement between the two countries on any point arising from German submarine methods. To that purpose I urge consideration by the two Governments of the whole situation. That would enable them to come to a definite understanding on any point that may be in controversy.

"Although it may be held that from the standpoint of international law there may have been nothing illegal in the German attacks in American seas, still the Germans have brought about a situation that has caused us in England to believe that some changes must be made in German methods, some change by which they in their submarine piracy will not be allowed to take advantage of the chivalry of the American Navy. Whether the American Navy did or did not hear in advance that an attack was to be made by German submarines does not need to be considered. The point is, the Germans gave the appearance of utilizing the American Navy in saving the passengers and crews of torpedoed vessels, the American Government having stipulated that no ships should be torpedoed unless the passengers and crews were assured an opportunity for safe escape. Escape in this incident was impossible, except for the chivalrous action and good seamanship of the American men of war.

"Here in England we have always remembered with pride the fact that when a superior German squadron was thought to be about to attack an inferior American squadron at Manila the British Captain, Chichester, said nothing, but he got his ship under way and anchored her in such a position that the German squadron would have had to fire through the British ships to hit the American vessels. No action in history has ever occurred more likely to promote the friendly feeling of two nations than that of Captain Chichester. It was spontaneous on his part and appreciated by the British nation thoroughly, as by the American.

"We owe it to the gallantry and innate good feeling of the officers and men of the American Navy that the lives of the passengers were saved after the British ships had been torpedoed by the U-53. The German submarine relied on it. While the incident will require very delicate handling, with the good feeling existing between the British and American Governments I am confident a way will be found to solve the difficulty. It would be deplorable if anything should occur to cause misunderstanding or irritation between the two countries."

Lord Beresford, in conclusion, roundly described international law, in so far as it goes at present with regard to submarines, as a "farce."

"The enemy under international law as it was understood before the submarine was invented," he said, "had a perfect right to enter a neutral port for twenty-four hours, to receive supplies, and possibly get information, but that referred only to above-water ships, which stood a chance of being met by the enemy outside of territorial waters and destroyed or captured. It is different with the submarine, which can go into a neutral port, derive all the advantages, get information, and then submerge in territorial waters."

BRITISH ADMIT LOSSES IN CHANNEL RAID

Balfour Reports Six Drift Net Boats Sunk with a Transport and Two Destroyers.

LONDON, Oct. 31.—The loss of six drift net boats, in addition to the sinking of the transport Queen and the torpedo boat destroyer Flirt, in the recent raid by German destroyers in the English Channel, was admitted by A. J. Balfour, First Lord of the Admiralty, in the House of Commons today. In answering questions concerning the raid on the Channel transport service, the First Lord said that, while the raiders had all the advantages that raiders possess in choosing the moment for the attack, in this case it certainly failed.

The only 'cross-Channel steamer to be attacked, Mr. Balfour said, was the empty passenger vessel Queen, and she would have been saved, he added, had the Captain realized that she would float six hours after the attack.

The torpedo boat destroyer Flirt, he said, was surprised in the darkness by German destroyers, which fired on her at close range and sank her. The destroyer Nubian, torpedoed while attacking the German squadron, could have been brought to harbor, he said, but for the gale. He believed that the Nubian could be salvaged. He then admitted that six drift net boats had been lost.

"There is ground for thinking," Mr. Balfour declared, "that two German torpedo boat destroyers, after being hit during the action, struck mines and were blown up and probably sunk."

This is the first intimation from British sources that any ships except the Queen, Flirt, and Nubian were damaged in the raid. The British official statement said that two of the ten German destroyers had been sunk and the rest driven off. The statement admitted the loss of the Queen, said the Flirt was missing, and declared that the Nubian had grounded after being disabled by a torpedo.

The German official statement on the raid asserted that at least eleven outpost steamers and two or three torpedo boat destroyers or torpedo boats were sunk or damaged by the German squadron. The statement also said that the German ships had returned safely to their base without any loss.

RUSSIANS WIN IN ARMENIA.

Disperse Turkish Forces Southwest of Trebizond.

PETROGRAD, Oct. 31, (via London.)—Russian troops operating in the district of Gumuskhanah, in Turkish Armenia, forty-five miles southwest of Trebizond, have dispersed Turkish forces along the Koroun Darasi River by a sharp attack and repulsed a Turkish advance in the same region.

In Persia, in the Hamadan sector, the Russians have captured additional villages. The official statement reads:

"On the right bank of the Koroun Darasi River, northwest of Gumuskhanah, detachments of one of our gallant regiments launched an energetic attack on the Turks who had constantly troubled us in this region and dispersed them. An attack made by strong enemy reconnoitring patrols on our advanced guards northwest of Gumuskhanah and south of Kigi was repelled.

"On the morning of Oct. 28 battles began near Bidjar.

REPUBLICANS TELL WHERE MONEY WENT

ONLY $5,000 SENT TO OHIO

The Republican National Committee's statement of expenditures in the present campaign was made public yesterday, and showed that up to Oct. 20, the last date included in the statement, $52,000 had been sent to Massachusetts for the national campaign there, $25,000 to Pennsylvania, and only $5,000 to Ohio, where the campaign has become a great deal more vigorous since Oct. 20, on account of reports that it was beginning to lean toward Wilson.

The statement showed that $1,450 had been paid to Hal Reid, the playright, who got up a moving picture on the Mexican troubles for the Republicans. The film was much criticised and the committee decided not to present it.

Indiana had received $72,250, more than any other State, from the committee up to Oct. 20, according to the statement. The hard fight being made in Kentucky by the Republicans cost the committee $40,000, and the fight in Tennessee $25,000.

In explanation of the large amount sent to Massachusetts and several other States which the Republicans have listed as "sure for Hughes," it was said at Republican Headquarters last night that unless the money was very badly needed elsewhere an effort was made to return to each State an amount proportionate to the contributions from that State. The statement showed the following disbursements among States:

Indiana	$72,250	Utah	$15,000
Massachusetts	52,000	New Mexico	20,000
Pennsylvania	25,000	Nevada	15,000
Maine	43,000	Wyoming	15,000
Ohio	5,000	West Virginia	15,000
North Dakota	15,000	Idaho	15,000
Arizona	15,000	Montana	15,000
Nebraska	31,000	North Carolina	10,000
Kansas	8,000	Colorado	85,000
Kentucky	40,000	Tennessee	25,000

The committee report showed that it had spent more than $90,000 for advertising through the American Association of Foreign Language Newspapers. The national campaigns in New York, Illinois, and other States not included in the list had not got under way at the time the statement was made up, it was said, and up to that time no disbursements had been made in these States. The large amount sent to Maine was largely for the State election, which was hotly contested by both parties.

New Jersey Candidates' Names Sent to Border by Telegraph.

To enable the 125 members of Battery C of East Orange, now at Douglas, Ariz., to vote next Tuesday, there was sent last night from the Western Union Telegraph office in Newark a 10,000-word telegram containing the names of all the candidates to be voted upon at the general election. The telegram was sent by Dr. Watson L. R. Rodemann, clerk of the Essex County Board of Election, at the direction of Secretary of State Thomas F. Martin. It cost $200.

Captain Edward C. James of the battery telegraphed to Dr. Rodemann requesting that the names of the candidates be sent to Douglas, so that the enlised men and officers could prepare their ballots.

WESTERN NEW YORK INCLINES TO WILSON

WORKING HARD FOR BUFFALO

Special to The New York Times.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Oct. 31.—In all the counties of Western New York for which this city serves as the political clearing house, a canvass taken under Republican organization auspices points to reduced Republican majorities. Conservative estimates based on this canvass, however, indicate a Hughes victory in the State, unless an abnormally large vote is cast for President Wilson in New York City.

The canvass covers counties which had caused the Republican leaders great worry, including railroad centres, where a heavier vote is expected for Wilson than has been cast for a Democratic nominee for President in decades. Here is a table showing the estimated majorities for Hughes as compared with the combined Republican and Progressive majorities in 1912 and 1914:

Cattaraugus	2,500	3,421	3,894
Chautauqua	9,000	9,522	8,595
Erie	3,000	12,020	22,069
Genesee	2,000	2,686	3,288
Livingston	2,000	2,309	2,441
Niagara	1,500	2,263	6,226
Orleans	1,500	1,967	2,445
Wyoming	2,500	2,567	3,036
Total	27,500	40,310	54,406

These figures show a falling off of nearly 18,000 from the vote four years ago, and nearly 27,000 from the vote cast for Governor Whitman two years ago. Examination of the figures shows this falling off is due primarily to an estimated slump of large proportions in the Republican vote of Erie County.

Puzzling Influences Active.

Great uncertainty prevails here as to the outcome of the election, owing to the large railroad vote, and the strength of organized labor, which is expected to go very largely against Hughes, as well as the influence wielded here by the liquor and brewing interests, which is expected to arrest any decided tendencies among German-American voters to support Hughes. The Republican nominee is feared by the liquor magnates on account of his advocacy of the Federal woman suffrage amendment, which they regard as a first step toward national prohibition.

In some instances Republicans active in the campaign, are not contesting Democratic claims of a Wilson victory in Erie County. Responsible leaders on the Hughes side, however, claim Erie County for him by not less than 5,000, and are betting big money on it.

The Democrats are banking upon the effect of the Adamson eight-hour law among the railroad men here for a bumper vote for Wilson. If figures included in the test covering railroad districts which THE TIMES correspondent has had an opportunity to examine may be regarded as an indication, the Wilson vote among this class of workers will not reach the proportions the Wilson managers believe it will.

It is admitted by the Republican managers that the visit of President Wilson here tomorrow may have an effect that may call for a revision of their estimates. They are bitter against the men directing the campaign from Republican national headquarters for having sent Mr. Hughes here during the dog days, leaving them no big card to play to offset the President's eleventh-hour visit.

Big Wilson Reception.

The Democratic leaders are planning to give President Wilson a big reception and to make his visit here a general reunion of Western New York Democrats. The railroads are to run special trains from nearby cities to carry Democratic pilgrims to Buffalo.

A matter of comment and speculation is the fact that Norman E. Mack, Democratic National Committeeman and prominent local leader, will not be on hand to welcome Mr. Wilson. Mr. Mack left Buffalo this afternoon, announcing that he would not be back until Monday.

The Republicans have abandoned any attempt at spectacular effects during the closing hours of the campaign, but are working very hard. For today, for instance, there were not less than fifty meetings on the Republican campaign schedule in this city alone. For the last ten days twenty noon meetings have been held daily in big industrial plants in and about Buffalo, with night meetings before labor audiences or district gatherings. At the same time a special campaign is being carried on among railroad brotherhood men by speakers drafted from their own ranks. The Republicans are working much harder than the Democrats, and have been for weeks. The tariff is their favorite theme.

Daniel J. Riordan, Chairman of the Democratic County Committee, told THE TIMES correspondent today that he expected to see Erie County go for Wilson by at least 3,000.

"It may give Mr. Wilson even a bigger majority, if the effect of his visit here turns out to be what we hope for," said Mr. Riordan. "There has been a steady drift toward Wilson for weeks. If the Republicans believe they have it checked, they are badly fooled."

Conners Working Hard.

The water front, the Polish wards, and the big railroad districts are looked to by the Democratic leaders for a record vote and record majorities for Wilson. William J. Conners, ex-Chairman of the Democratic State Committee, who is one of the largest employers of labor in America, and whose influence among the longshoremen here and in other localities on the Great Lakes is undisputed, is working heart and soul for Wilson. Ten thousand is his estimate of Erie's prospective Wilson majority. His two newspapers here are supporting Wilson strongly.

The result in Allegany, Genesee, Livingston, and Wyoming Counties will be determined by the trend of the farmer vote. THE TIMES correspondent was in touch today with leaders in all of these counties. Except in Allegany, according to the talk of men responsible for the conduct of the campaign in those localities, there is very little Republican defection among the farmers in prospect. The peace argument, if these reports are true, has not been so potent among the farmers here as in the Middle West.

In Allegany County, Frank Uutter, Republican County Chairman, on a recent visit to eight towns found in each from five to fifteen farmers, mostly with grown-up sons, who declared that they would vote for Wilson because he had kept the country out of war. The vote to a town is about 400, and if this proportion should hold good in the rural voting throughout the State it would be a serious menace to Republican success. It would mean the loss of 40,000 Republican votes.

In this particular locality, the leaders have not been able to discover any particular Democratic drift toward Hughes among the farmers to compensate for this loss. The Democratic farmers are pronounced firm for Wilson. In some of the other counties, however, reports indicate a counter current in Hughes's favor in the rural sections, due to the Adamson law.

Trend in Railroad Towns.

Reports from Cattaraugus indicate that, contrary to expectations, the Republicans will about break even in Salamanca, the biggest railroad city in Western New York, except Buffalo. This community is dominated by the railroad vote. In ordinary years it has given a Republican majority.

Olean, where the Pennsylvania Railroad has big shops, Republican reports indicate, will be carried for Hughes by about 400. The shopmen were not directly benefited by the eight-hour law, and, aside from resentment, are said to be actuated in their attitude toward that measure by fear that shorter working hours or higher pay for the brotherhood men will lead to a curtailment by which they themselves may suffer.

Rock-ribbed Republican Chautauqua, with a small railroad vote, but an industrial vote of some proportions, according to reports, will return a majority of 9,000 for Hughes. This would be nearly normal.

The Democrats throughout this part of the State are very poorly organized. They are lacking the sinews of war. THE TIMES correspondent was told by one Democratic leader that the Democratic allotment for getting out the vote on Election Day is only $50 to an election district. The Republicans have twice that, in addition to what will be spent to haul farmers to the polls.

WILSON ON FINAL TRIP.

Starts for Buffalo, and from There Will Come to This City.

Special to The New York Times.

ASBURY PARK, N. J., Oct. 31.—The President left Shadow Lawn at 10:55 o'clock tonight on his final pre-election trip. His advisers are expecting a strong finish to the campaign in Buffalo and New York City. Mr. Wilson's speeches will be made as usual before non-partisan audiences and will avoid direct reference to politics.

Mrs. Wilson, Secretary Tumulty, Dr. Cary T. Grayson, Miss Margaret Wilson and Miss Helen Woodrow Bones are with the President on the trip. The party will arrive in Buffalo at 1 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, and in New York at 9 o'clock the following morning.

Messages from all parts of the country continue to come into the Executive offices with assurances that the Democratic campaign is constantly gaining momentum. State Senator Robert F. Wagner telephoned Secretary Tumulty today that the President would carry New York State by 100,000, and that William F. McCombs had told him that up-State New York was full of Wilson enthusiasm.

PROGRESSIVE VOICE RAISED FOR WILSON

POINT TO RECORD OF LAWS

William Allen White and I. N. Stevens Among Five Who Did Not Join in Indorsement.

Eleven out of nineteen members of the Platform Committee of the Progressive National Convention of 1912, which nominated Theodore Roosevelt for the Presidency, met yesterday, indorsed President Wilson and issued a statement calling upon all members of the party to support the President. It was stated that five more members of the committeo were in accord with the sentiments of the eleven, but refrained from naming a Presidential choice. This is the statement:

"We, the undersigned members of the Resolutions Committee that framed the platform of the Progressive Party adopted at its first national convention, held at Chicago, Ill., on Aug. 7, 1912, and which we termed 'Our Contract with the People,' and which Mr. Roosevelt described as his 'Confession of Faith,' do hereby reaffirm our unswerving allegiance to the progressive principles embodied in this platform, and do herewith call the attention of the American people to the unparalleled achievement of progressive legislation secured during the past four years.

"The Progressive Party, formed as a party of protest, became a party of principle. Allegiance to any one man must always be subordinated to these principles. They should never be sacrificed to party or personal political expediency.

"Of thirty-three planks in the Progressive platform of 1912, twenty-two have been wholly or partly enacted into laws. Of eighty propositions embodied in these planks, more than half have been carried out by administrative acts or by laws.

"Measures like the Federal Reserve act, Child Labor act, Alaska railroad law, Clayton Anti-Trust act, Rural Credits, Federal wokman's compensation law, eight-hour law for women in the District of Columbia, Federal Trade Commission, non-partisan Tariff Commission, the Railroad Valuation act, Good Roads act, Parcel Post, Inheritance and Income Tax and the National Defense acts, are all striking exemplifications of progressive legislation.

"No man could be a true Progressive and fail to be in favor of the enactment of a Federal Corrupt Practice act. Such a measure was passed by the House, and is now slumbering in the Senate, owing to the active opposition of Senators Penrose, Smoot and Gallinger, leaders of the Republican Party in the Senate.

"This is a great national crisis. We are Progressives, supporting John M. Parker of Louisiana for Vice-President. Without a candidate of our own for President, we are unalterably in favor of the retention in office of President Woodrow Wilson, under whose guidance and leadership more Progressive principles have been enacted into law than we believe might have been accomplished had the Progressive party been in power."

The signers are John M. Parker, ex-Governor Lucius F. C. Garvin, of Rhode Island; ex-Governor Carey, Wyoming; Judge Albert D. Nortoni, Missouri; Hugh H. Talbert, Minnesota; Frank N. Howard, Vermont; M. C. Debaca, New Mexico; James M. Ingersoll, Idaho; Arthur G. Wray, Nebraska; Clarence B. Strouse, Virginia, and J. W. McCormick, Texas.

Added to this statement was the announcement that the five other members of the committee who favored the views of the eleven were: William Allen White, Kansas; George B. Hynson, Delaware; Andrew J. Stone, West Virginia; William R. Fairley, Alabama, and Isaac Newton Stevens, Colorado.

DENVER, Col., Oct. 31.—Isaac N. Stevens tonight announced that he had sent the following telegram to the publicity department of the Republican National Committee: "As a member of the Resolutions Committee of the National Progressive Convention of 1912, I signed a statement giving credit to the present Administration for enacting many of its planks into law. I never indorsed the present Administration otherwise, and I am supporting and intend voting for Mr. Hughes."

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 31.—William Allen White of Emporia, Kan., denied tonight, in a long-distance telephone conversation, that he had indorsed the statement given out by former Progressive Party leaders in New York, in which the "legislative achievements" of President Wilson were commended. He said:

"Please make it clear that the statement was shown to me and that I absolutely refused to sign it."

HARVEY READY TO BET HAT.

Will Back His Hughes Forecast as Secretary Lane Suggests.

Franklin K. Lane, Secretary of the Interior, yesterday telegraphed to Vance McCormick, Chairman of the Democratic National Committee, suggesting that Mr. McCormick offer to bet Colonel George Harvey a new hat that his prediction of 269 electoral votes for Hughes would not be fulfilled. The Colonel's forecast was made editorialy in the current issue of the North American Review on Monday.

"Why not offer George Harvey a new hat that he cannot name four States west of the Alleghanies that Hughes will carry?" Secretary Lane asked. Mr. McCormick did not take up the matter in persons last night, as he got in late from Chicago, but Colonel Harvey, when asked whether he would accept the bet, replied:

"I should be pleased to make happy response in kind to Secretary Lane of the Interior of the North and the Exterior of the South but for the fact that it seems hardly fitting, under all the circumstances, for me to presume to answer a telegram addressed by a member of the Cabinet to the Chairman of the Democratic National Committee."

John H. Perry of Seattle wired the following to the National Committee regarding the Harvey forecast:

"Observe 'Kernel' puts Washington State for Hughes. Will bet $1,000 even money that Wilson carries this State. If any one desires to accept this, they may wire me collect."

Colonel Harvey said he could not take this bet, as he was unacquainted with Mr. Perry.

ODDS CHANGE OFTEN IN ELECTION BETTING

ONLY $50,000 BET ON CURB

Wilson Now a Favorite on Result in Ohio—3 1-2 to 1 Offered on Whitman.

In the Wall Street election betting odds yesterday there were indications of a bear movement by some brokers to establish a wager figure of 10 to 7 on Hughes to beat Wilson. It was "announced" by several commissioners that 10 to 7 was the figure of the day, but investigation failed to show any large bets at those odds.

The general odds for the day were 10 to 8½ on Hughes to beat Wilson; there were bets made at 10 to 9, 10 to 8, and even money, with 10 to 8½ a close average. This marked a slight weakness of the Wilson money, the prevailing odds since last Friday having been about 10 to 9. There was much comment yesterday over the fact that, although the Sunday newspaper polls showed Wilson getting stronger, the odds had not shifted in his favor. On the other hand, there had been daily announcements of "avalanches" of Hughes money, and yet there was no appreciable increase in the odds the backers of the Republican standard bearer were willing to offer. Brokers predicted yesterday that Friday and Saturday and Monday would see some big wagers.

About $50,000 was bet on the Curb yesterday on election results. Two wagers of $10,000 each were made on Hughes against $8,000 on Wilson. These bets were the result of an offer of $25,000 on Hughes at 10 to 8. Another bet of $9,000 to $10,000 on Wilson to beat Hughes was reported, and it was estimated that about $12,000 was placed on Hughes in small bets at odds of 10 to 9. It was said by representatives of several big brokerage houses that they had a lot of Hughes money if they could get inviting odds.

The fact that there was no real betting on the Presidential result at 10 to 7 was shown by the circumstance that at the close of the market one of the biggest commissioners was offering large sums of money at 7½ to 10 on Wilson with no takers.

It is known that a large proportion of the Hughes money in Wall Street comes from big brokerage houses.

A man from Wisconsin offered on the Curb yesterday to bet $1,000 to $3,000 that Wilson would win the thirteen electoral votes of his State, which has never gone Democratic in a national election.

The odds yesterday on Hughes to carry New York State were 10 to 6, with the Democrats asking 9 to 4. There was any amount of Wilson money at evens that the Democratic candidate would carry Ohio, but without takers. One commissioner offered $1,000 to $900 on this bet without placing his money. One freak proposition of the day was an offer by a broker of $1,000 to $2,500 that Hughes would carry New York, New Jersey, Indiana, Illinois, and Ohio. No one took the bet.

Governor Whitman's odds jumped yesterday from 2½ to 1 early in the day, and in the afternoon one Stock Exchange firm offered to bet $7,000 at odds of 3½ to 1 that he will be re-elected. There were no takers.

Most of the bets outside of the Curb were at 10 to 9. From outside of the city many bets were reported at this figure, and from the South came news of several large wagers at even money.

At the Waldorf-Astoria Tex Rickard was offering 10 to 8 that Wilson would carry Ohio and 8 to 9 that he would carry the nation. Several bets on Hughes were made at the Waldorf at 10 to 9; several of $1,000 to $900 being recorded. A traveling man bet $1,700 to $1,200 on Hughes. Odds of 2 to 1 that Wilson would carry New York City by 50,000 got no takers. A bet of $5,000 at even money was made that Whitman would carry New York State by 100,000, and there was an offer of even money that he would get more votes than Hughes. There was another wager reported at even money that Hughes would not have a plurality of 100,000 in this State. Another State bet was $300 even that Whitman would not come down to the Bronx with a plurality of 200,000.

Fred Schumm, the Brooklyn betting commissioner, reported a combination bet yesterday of $500 to $600 that Hughes would be elected and would carry New York, New Jersey, and Ohio. He placed a bet of $1,000 even that Wilson would carry Kings and another bet of $1,000 that he would get a plurality of 90,000 in New York City. Another bet was $5,000 even that Hughes would not get 75,000 more votes in New York State than Wilson. Schumm placed $500 even that Hughes would carry Ohio.

Calder is an overwhelming favorite in Kings in his contest for the Senatorship. A bet of $1,200 to $2,000 was made on him yesterday. There was another wager that Calder would not get 15,000 plurality in Kings; this was at even money. Schumm reported a bet of $600 to $500 that Cropsey would win the Supreme Court Justiceship in his contest with Brennan, and another bet of $600 to $500 that Lewis would be the next District Attorney of Kings.

At Considine's, Forty-second Street and Broadway, Hughes remained a 10-to-9 favorite, with one good-sized wager by a bookmaker at even money that Wilson would be the next President.

Wilson Wins at Hamilton College

Word was received at Democratic National Headquarters yesterday that a straw vote taken among the Faculty of Hamilton College, at Clinton, N. Y., Elihu Root's Alma Mater, had resulted: Wilson, 13; Hughes, 8. The college is in the heart of a "rock-ribbed" Republican district, and several members of the Faculty are actively campaigning for Hughes.

WHITMAN DEFENDS COURSE OF HAYWARD

GRAFT CHARGES RIDICULED

Governor Addresses Manhattan Audiences and Motion Picture Committee.

In answer to the charge that he had appointed William Hayward Public Service Commissioner solely because Mr. Hayward was a Republican and an old personal friend, Gov. Whitman challenged his opponent, Samuel Seabury, last night to substantiate the allegation with facts showing wherein Commissioner Hayward was not deserving of the office.

"If Judge Seabury is unable to do this much," declared the Governor, "he should apologize. I know that I would if I made such statements about a man and then couldn't back them up."

Governor Whitman's remarks in this matter were received with enthusiasm by the 5,000 persons he addressed last night, speaking at one meeting in White Plains and two others in Manhattan.

"I have been asking my opponents for the past two weeks to make some specific charge against one department under my administration which would bear out his accusations of corruption. It is easy to charge graft. Why, can any man in the audience remember a political campaign where the representatives of the party that was out did not accuse the party that was in with being grafters? I did myself. But I specified. I told you two years ago that if I were elected Governor there were certain men who would not stay in office, and I named them, and I was elected and they did not stay.

"Then, a few days ago, my honorable opponent—my opponent, anyway—named the Civil Service Commission and its head, Samuel H. Ordway, as examples of extravagant, wasteful government. And what happened? Just this: The Chairman of Judge Seabury's Campaign Committee, John Agar, and a member of it, Henry de Forest Baldwin, wrote to Mr. Ordway, apologizing for the attack and repudiating it.

"Now, according to the newspapers, Judge Seabury has made another specific charge for which he has not yet apologized—I suppose I'll get one in the morning. He has said that I appointed an unworthy man to the Public Service Commission.

"In answer, first let me tell you this: I am the only Governor of the State who ever appointed a man of the opposite political party to the position of Public Service Commissioner. I did this in the case of Professor Irvine, whom I knew as a good man, a Democrat, and a man with whom I had not personal acquaintance.

"My opponent points to one man, Mr. Hayward, and says that he is a Republican and a friend of the Governor's, and that therefore I appointed him. Is that fair? Just because a man is a Republican and a friend of mine he is disqualified from holding office. Why does he not attack one of the other Public Service Commissioners whom I have appointed, Irvine and Carr, Straus, Whitney, and Hervey?

ATTACKS WHITMAN'S RECORD

Seabury Challenges Him to Give His Views on Proposed Franchise Tax.

Former Justice Samuel Seabury, Democratic candidate for Governor, addressed seven meetings in Brooklyn last night, and was greeted by enthusiastic audiences, which aggregated, it was estimated, fully 22,000. He said that if elected he would investigate complaints that have been made about the management of the Banking Department. He attacked Governor Whitman's "white book," issued recently to tell of the present Governor's acts while in office, saying that this book contained "misstatements, understatements, overstatements, half-statements, and everything except fair statements."

"During the whole campaign Governor Whitman has refused to indicate where he stands upon any of the constructive measures that I have brought forward," Mr. Seabury declared.

"I call upon Governor Whitman to tell the people whether he opposes my plan to compel the public service corporations to pay taxes upon their public franchises at the same valuation that other taxpayers pay taxes upon their property. I call upon Governor Whitman to tell the people whether he opposes my plan for a genuine executive budget, or for law reform, or for foods and markets legislation to bring the farmer and consumer closer together."

Mr. Seabury said that the Governor's attitude toward popular self-government was shown by his support last year of the proposed new constitution, which was defeated when submitted to popular vote.

FEARS WAR UNDER HUGHES.

Official Organ of Knights of Labor Wants Wilson Re-elected.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—The Journal of the Knights of Labor, the official organ of the order, will advocate strongly the re-election of President Wilson in its issue to be published tomorrow.

"Mr. Hughes, through his chief advocate, Mr. Roosevelt," The Journal will say, "will, if elected, force this country into war. He will, through his fighting associate, Mr. Roosevelt, take the young men of the country from mother, from wife, from sister, and from sweetheart and make them targets for the bullets of foreigners. He will fill our peaceful land with cripples, with widows and orphans, and make desolate the now happy homes of our people.

"It was one of the greatest blessings that ever fell to the lot of the American people that Mr. Roosevelt was defeated in the last election. Were he our President today, we would be in a three-cornered war, fighting with Japan, the Mexican people, and with Germany. We have been saved this humiliation through the wisdom and decision of the voters by the election of Mr. Wilson. He has kept us out of war with Mexico and he has kept us out of war with Germany, and he deserves for this, if for no other reason, a re-election."

The Journal also points to the eight-hour law, the Rural Credits act, and the establishment of a merchant marine as reasons for President Wilson's re-election.

Food Not the Cause of Indigestion

It is not the food you eat that causes indigestion and stomach distress. It is your lack of saliva, gastric and digestive juices. Your circulation is poor. You do not excrete the waste from your body. That's where the trouble comes.

Man-a-cea, that clear, non-laxative table water, helps to stimulate and promote the secretion of these digestive juices, increases the circulation and the action of the excretory organs, and by re-establishing normal digestion enables you properly to assimilate all the good, nourishing food you eat. Try Man-a-cea Water with your next meal and see if it does not make a difference. Sold by druggists and leading grocers. Served at hotels and cafes.—Advt.

McCORMICK IS CONFIDENT.

"We've Got Them on the Run," Says Chairman, Back from Chicago.

Chairman Vance McCormick of the Democratic National Committee returned from Chicago last night, where he conferred with Western leaders. He issued this statement:

"We've got them on the run, and they are in for the worst trouncing in years. The West is aflame with Wilson sentiment. Frank H. Hitchcock, in a formal forecast published in Chicago yesterday, admits the loss of Ohio, yet contends that Indiana and Illinois are in line for the Republican candidate. How absurdly ridiculous for the Republicans to attempt to measure political sentiments by imaginary State lines! As a matter of fact, the people of Indiana and Illinois are just as patriotically loyal to the President of the United States as are the people of Ohio, and you may take it from me that President Wilson will make a clean sweep of these three States."

After reiterating the charge that the Republicans had circulated a report that New York State was for Hughes and that the Democrats realize it, Mr. McCormick asserted:

"Such a statement is wholly without foundation. New York is not for Hughes today, and will not be for Hughes next Tuesday, as the Republicans have very good reason to know that President Wilson will carry this State by a surprising plurality.

"Newspaper polls and straw ballots confirm our private advices to the effect that the bottom has dropped out of the Republican campaign in the Republican strongholds. The Macedonian cry of the Republicans for the help of such old guardsmen as Barnes, Penrose, Crane, et al. cannot change the situation now. The picayune and destructive abuse of the President at this stage of the game will avail the Republicans nothing. The American people cannot be goldbricked."

LODGE RETRACTS, SHIFTING BLAME

necessary for me to ask 'What was written?' If not a postscript, what was it—part of the original draft, an amendment suggested afterward, a supplemental instruction to the Ambassador, or what? There surely was something.

"The President asserts that: 'The public is in possession of everything that was said to the German Government.' So far as I know, no one has contended to the contrary. It is not a question of what was sent to the German Government, but of what it was proposed to do to the note, or to send to Gerard. The President denies a charge that was never made.

"Mr. Breckinridge, cited as authority by the informant of Senator Lodge, cries 'scoundrel' and 'sneak' and bursts into a stump speech in support of Mr. Wilson, but does not deny that he told the very story related to Senator Lodge.

"Mr. Tumulty, who was also reported to have been active in the effort to prevent the writing, whatever it was, from becoming effective, makes a similarly technical and unconvincing denial.

"Secretary Houston denies that he threatened to resign, but there the force of his denial ends. So it goes. Meanwhile Mr. Garrison, who was Secretary of War at the time and is understood to have been fully informed of all that went on, maintains complete silence. And Mr. Burleson and Mr. Lansing, who were reported in the account that comes from Mr. Warren to have been involved in the transaction, are not furnishing any help to the public in reaching a full understanding of the matter.

"Now, I say that this was all the public's business, and it is of the highest importance that the public know how its business was conducted. It is time for frankness and sincerity to manifest themselves.

"Some action was certainly taken at that time with some such intent as reported. Why does not the President come forward frankly and take the people into his confidence? Why does he content himself with a mere technical denial of charges some of which were never made? Why does he not make public the whole transaction and let the people have the full and complete information to which they are absolutely entitled about their own business?

"The President is now appealing to the electorate for re-election as a mark of national confidence and approval of his conduct of national affairs. It is of supreme importance that he shall justify the confidence he asks by telling the whole truth about this critical affair without technicalities or limitations."

In discussing the controversy with reporters Mr. Willcox said that he "thought he knew what really had happened," but that he wanted to be absolutely sure of his ground and to have positive proof of every assertion before issuing any complete statement on the subject.

"I don't want to promise anything that I can't support, as the Democrats did in their hyphenate charges," Mr. Willcox said.

The "Mr. Warren" referred to by the Republican Chairman was George C. Warren, Jr., of Jersey City, a candidate for Republican elector in New Jersey, who said that he had heard the "postscript" was really a second note, and that it got as far as the telegraph for transmission to Ambassador Gerard before Secretary Tumulty and Mr. Lansing induced the President to recall it, and that the fact that it was recalled was responsible for Bryan's resignation as Secretary of State. He said that he had received the information from "a member of the President's official family," and that therefore he was not at liberty to make public at the present time the name of his informant. It was hinted in Republican circles yesterday that Mr. Warren's informant was a former and not a present member of President Wilson's Cabinet.

JEFFRIES REPEATS STORY.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Oct. 31.—John Temple Lloyd Jeffries retold, tonight, the circumstances under which Henry Breckinridge related to him the story of the postscript which it is alleged President Wilson added to the first Lusitania note and later withdrew.

"You know," began Mr. Jeffries, "this isn't a pleasing task; it is a sad one. I am very fond of Mr. Breckinridge. I assure you that I hesitated some time before writing to Senator Lodge, and I only did so after his veracity had been assailed, the Republican cause perhaps endangered, and my telegram to Mr. Breckinridge unanswered."

Mr. Jefferies said he had no interest in politics. He does not know Mr. Hughes, Mr. Garrison, Mr. Bryan, Mr. Wilson, or Professor Charles H. Bailey.

"It is hard for me to recall the exact words which Mr. Breckinridge used," Mr. Jeffres continued. "The one phrase which I do remember is 'not to be taken seriously.' I am sure he used those words in describing the postscript or the addenda to the Lusitania note. You know, had I foreseen this mixup, I could probably have taken care to remember his phraseology carefully, but we talked casually, as two men would who meet at tennis, or tea, or dinner, or in the theatre."

"Can't you remember what led up to the subject of Mr. Breckinridge's remarks?" asked the caller.

"Certainly," the young man replied quickly.

"We were all damning Wilson, telling what we thought of the Administration, and Mr. Breckinridge told us the postscript incident offhand. I heard him tell it probably half a dozen times. Even though the exact words do not recur to me I could not be mistaken in his meaning. The substance of his remarks was that Wilson had added a postscript to the 'strict accountability' note telling Germany that the note was meant for home consumption, sort of a joke."

"Do you remember the names of any others to whom Breckinridge told the story of the added postscript?"

"Yes, I do. But it doesn't seem to me that a gentleman would mention them. I can't see my way clear to mention them to you. I hope they will come forward of their own free will, for undoubtedly they, too, remember the story in questoin. I had hoped ex-Secretary Garrison would say something.

"Did Mr. Breckinridge say anything about Secretary Garrison?"

"It is my impression that he did," he answered. "However I can't recall his exact words and I am afraid of doing him an injustice. I am of the opinion that he said Garrison resigned because Mr. Wilson 'doubled crossed' him in the matter of army appropriations. I am also impressed with the belief that Mr. Breckinridge said Garrison was the one who objected most strongly to the Lusitania note postscript."

This Straw Vote Was a Tie.

The National Surety Company yesterday canvassed its home office force of over 500 employes. The vote cast by the 182 legal voters resulted in a tie—91 for Wilson and 91 for Hughes.

Black & White Cab

Begins Business Today on the European System

A BRAND NEW COMPANY AND A BRAND NEW CAB

THESE ARE THE RATES:

20 cents the first third of a mile—10 cents for each succeeding third; or in other words—40 cents for the first mile—30 cents each succeeding mile. Only one tariff (with green flag) regardless of number of passengers. HOUR RATE: $2.50 per hour. Notify garage when you telephone in order to make this hour rate effective.

Fifty of these handsome, comfortable, sanitary cabs, driven by selected men, go into commission today and will operate on the European System at the lowest rates ever established for a high-class, responsible cab service.

Back of the Black & White Cab Company is a group of responsible business men who have banded themselves together to give New York the kind of cab service that it has been crying for for years.

The BLACK & WHITE CAB is purely an experiment. If the people of New York want it, it will stay and multiply. If they don't want it, it will be abandoned.

It is entirely up to YOU.

If you people of New York decide, after six months' trial, that the Black & White cab fills "the long felt want" and is your deliverance from inefficient, unreliable and unsanitary taxi-cabs, you will say so with your patronage. In that event we will add new cabs every week until we have a sufficient number to care for the New York trade.

The BLACK & WHITE cabs will be roomy, comfortable, easy-riding, utterly safe and wholly sanitary. They will be driven by chosen men whose capability, dependability, courtesy and intelligence will be their chief assets.

The cabs will be operated on the European, or all-cash system. Charge account cannot be extended because the very low rates make it impossible. The vast clerical hire required by charge accounts would impose an expense that the extra low rates can't stand.

The cabs may be found at any public cab stand or may be called by telephone—a vast advantage that the European cabs do not have.

Every night the cabs will be washed and scrubbed with soap and hot water. They will be disinfected and carefully inspected for possible mechanical defects.

In wet and slippery weather, Safety Chains will be used on three wheels of each cab to make skidding out of the question.

Reckless driving will not be tolerated and the drivers have been told that they will be held strictly accountable for the safe conduct of their passengers.

Although the rates on the Black & White cab are lower than the rates fixed by the city ordinance, we propose to keep on lowering the rates as rapidly as the volume of patronage makes it possible.

The Black & White Cab Company is an independent corporation, and has no connection with any other concern. It is composed of business men whose standing and integrity are unquestioned in the business world.

If this cab system is the system you want, and you prove it by your patronage, we will flood New York with Black & White Cabs. We'll give you all the cabs you can use.

We will send a cab anywhere in the city limits free of charge.

HUGHES AGAINST WAR EMBARGO

Lawn address of Saturday, saying the Cabinet Mr. Wilson had appointed would never be forgotten by the American people. He also accused the Administration of passing "double-faced legislation" to win votes.

Raymond Robins, who spoke before Mr. Hughes arrived, assailed Secretary of Commerce Redfield, asserting that the investigation of the Eastland disaster by Mr. Redfield was "either incapable or crooked."

"I said the other day," Mr. Hughes remarked, "that it would be my desire to select the ablest Cabinet that I could select. Thereupon the spokesman of the opposing party had a little word of pleasantry, saying, in effect, that the members of Republican Cabinets could not be called to mind. I want to say in answer to that suggestion that the Cabinet of this Administration will never be forgotten.

"If we are to have progress in this country, we must learn to conduct the nation's business not for the purpose of partisan expediency, but for the purpose of serving the people of the United States—straight, business government, impartial, fair, efficient, for the purpose of building up all the activities of American life that are under the supervision of these great agencies of government. That is what I propose to do.

"Now, the President has a very important relation to legislation. I believe in the leadership of the Executive. I believe that it is his duty, so far as he can, by his recommendation and by his powerful influence, to promote the passage of beneficent legislation. But we want less legislation that is two-faced and has a double meaning for the purpose of catching votes. We are living in a time which is full of opportunity for the American people, and also a time full of grave dangers. It is no time to be contented with legislative phrase-making, without reference to the power of the statutes that are enacted to accomplish the purposes for which they are designed. We must have in this land more candid, thorough-going, more direct and explicit, legislation if we are to accomplish the purposes we have in view.

"The Executive is the guardian of the nation's honor. He is entrusted with our diplomatic instrumentalities. He is the man who represents the country in all the dealings with foreign nations. It is today of the utmost importance that we have a proper consideration of the rights of American citizens, the dignity of American citizenship, and I desire to see and if I am elected I propose, so far as in me lies, to see that the rights of American citizens with respect to life, property and commerce are safeguarded throughout the world. That is not a policy that leads to war."

The enthusiasm which marked all of the meetings during the day was started off with a rush at Columbus, Ind., where Mr. Hughes spoke at 8:30 A. M. to fully 10,000 people. The same picture was found at the other stops—Bedford, Washington, and Evansville, on the regular schedule, and Vincennes, Seymour, Mitchell, Shoals, and Princeton, where the train was halted for a few minutes because crowds had collected.

His Platform in Brief.

To all these crowds Mr. Hughes spoke much about Americanism and the safeguarding of the country's honor. After a discussion of the Adamson Eight-Hour act, he said:

"Change your laws, if you find them bad; perfect your institutions, if you want to improve them; proceed according to the rule of reason, but don't wreck the finest country God ever saw or gave. Let us be true Americans, serving the welfare of the entire people, conserving the American honor, conserving American prosperity, building up the opportunities of labor, and counting as our priceless heritage the fact that we do not do things by rule of armies and strength, but by the rule of reason in a community fair-minded and intent upon justice.

"That is my platform, fellow-citizens. If you want my services, take me on that basis."

In another place he said:

"I want to see America at peace, but I know full well that it is an idle dream to suppose that America can enjoy a lasting peace if we forfeit our self-respect. A vote for me is not a vote for war. It is a vote for lasting peace. It is a vote for the maintenance of American rights on land and sea, throughout the world. We can have no prosperity, we cannot achieve the ideals that we desire to attain unless we are free from the decadence of a people corrupted by materialism."

"I would not want to be President of a country that thought more of dollars than of human lives. I would not want to be President of a country that did not have the old spirit of 1776 and of 1861. The way that we will conserve our peace is to stand erect before the world, with our flag a symbol of justice, courteously, firmly, and consistently standing for our just rights in a world which desires our friendship, and where we desire the friendship of every nation."

Explains Danbury Case Again.

At Washington, Ind., Mr. Hughes was heckled about the decision of the United States Supreme Court in the Danbury hatters' case, in which he participated. He replied with a statement in some detail, similar to that made earlier in the campaign at Philadelphia. The court, he said, had simply to decide a question of law after the case had been passed upon by a jury in another court.

"I want to say," he added, "that, whether as Judge or President, I should not have any respect for myself, and I would not take any office that anybody wanted to give me, if I took it at the price of failing to perform my constitutional duty of enforcing the laws adopted by the people of the country."

Summing up his reply, he said:

"The court of which I was a member, reviewing the record, could not find any error made by the trial Judge in submitting the case to the jury, and hence the judgment of the jury, as expressed in its verdict, was affirmed. That is a statement of that case which simply represents how a Judge of our high court endeavored to do his duty according to the law of the land.

People Cordial Everywhere.

Mr. Hughes's audiences were all cordial. People flocked in from miles and all of the halls were jammed long before the candidate appeared. There were big and cordial crowds at all stations, and at every town along the line the residents had decorated their homes and turned out to cheer as the train passed.

At Princeton a score of Boy Scouts burned red fire on a hillside in the dusk. A great sign, illuminated by the glare, bore the inscription in huge letters, "Not too proud to fight." As the nominee's train pulled by the boys in their khaki uniforms stood at attention. When Mr. Hughes arrived in this city he found a great throng at the railroad station.

At 8 o'clock he drove to the outskirts of the city, where his automobile was placed at the head of the parade, in which about 7,000 marched. The Stadium where Mr. Hughes spoke was filled hours before he got there, and it holds more than 10,000. Another big crowd was in the streets, unable to get in.

Mr. Hughes will conclude his campaign in Indiana tomorrow night at Terre Haute and then will leave for the windup in New York State.

HUGHES WOMEN AT JOLIET.

Campaign Train Stops There and Will Return to Chicago.

Special to The New York Times.

WITH WOMEN'S HUGHES CAMPAIGN TRAIN, Joliet, Ill., Oct. 31.—Forgetful of the indifference that Chicagoans displayed toward them three weeks ago, the women campaigners tonight decided to return and conquer the city. Leaving here at midnight the orators hope to turn loose their arguments in behalf of Mr. Hughes in Chicago before 8 o'clock tomorrow morning, and when the train pulls out at 1 o'clock in the afternoon for the last lap of the jaunt the campaigners hope to leave a Republicanized city in their wake.

The party drew a crowd of about 1,200 to the Grand Theatre tonight in Joliet, and, though the city is now under Democratic administration and Wilson buttons were worn by many of their auditors, the speakers were not interrupted. The meeting was preceded by a dinner at the Woodruff Hotel, where the orators were welcomed by the Mayor. About 2,000 employes at factories in Aurora, Plainfield, Napierville, Lockport, and Manhattan, Joliet suburbs, heard the speakers in the early evening.

The meeting in Streator this afternoon promised for a time to fall through because the committee there had not had time to make necessary arrangements. Finally, fewer than 500 persons were collected in the Christian Science Church to listen to the speakers. Just what the Streator voters thought of the talks no one will ever know, for they neither approved nor disapproved; they just came in, sat down, listened, and stole out.

While the campaigners will not be able to visit Louisville, Ky., that city will not be wholly lost if the members of the Reception Committee, who were to have welcomed the train, put through a plan they have hatched. The money the women had collected to entertain the Eastern orators will be used to buy carriages to take the mountaineers down to the polling places on Election Day. By this scheme—for apparently the committee believes that every mountaineer is Republican by birth—it is hoped to swell the Republican vote in the Blue Grass State.

Tokyo Gives Greater Range of Selection says the Gotham Press

"TOKYO Bond has given our customers satisfaction in all cases in which we have used it, particularly in duplicate orders, because of the general uniformity of colors, which enables us to match the former order without noticeable deviation in shade and quality.

"The great variety of colors available in Tokyo Bond, affords our customers a greater range of selection than in most any other bond paper, and as the quality compares so favorably with many of the higher priced bonds it makes the choice of Tokyo quite general."

WANTS CANAL ZONE FOR U.S. TRADE DEPOT

Gen. Goethals Tells Traffic Club Entire Strip Should Be Permanently Acquired.

PRESENT TOLL PLAN UNFAIR

British Ships with Deckloads Get Through for Less Per Ton of Freight Than American.

Major Gen. George W. Goethals, who was the guest of honor last night at a meeting of the Traffic Club at the Waldorf, said the United States should modify its treaty with Panama so that the Panama Canal Zone could be made a great American commercial depot. He also said that the methods of collecting tolls should be changed for the reason that the present charges bore more heavily on American commerce than on that of Great Britain and some other nations.

"I want to see great American warehouses and shipping houses along the canal," he said, "so that it will become a great commercial station for the trade between this country and South America. In order to make it a centre of commerce it is necessary that the United States shall take control over the Canal Zone after the actual building of the canal is completed."

General Goethals explained that the Taft treaty with Panama provided that jurisdiction over parts of the Canal Zone should revert to the Republic of Panama when the strip of land ceased to be used strictly for canal purposes. Because the United States has only a leasehold on this part of the strip, much friction has arisen, General Goethals said, in the handling of mails and other Governmental functions, which can be done away with only by the acquisition by the United States of complete jurisdiction over the entire zone. General Goethals said that Americans would not invest their money in Canal Zone property, build homes there, or erect substantial business structures, unless they were certain that they would continue to be wholly under the jurisdiction of the United States.

"I want to see the whole thing in the hands of the United States and run as a business proposition, without any politics," he said.

Another thing that the United States ought to do, General Goethals said, was to charge tolls on the earning capacity of vessels instead of on registered net tonnage.

"Under the present system," he said, "we are in effect charging higher rates to American ships than we are to ships of other nations, particularly the British."

Under the plan of collecting on registered net tonnage, only the freight carried under decks pays toll. This plan, General Goethals said, is circumvented at the Panama Canal, as it has been at the Suez Canal, by British ships constructed to carry heavy cargoes on deck. American ships and those of all other nations would be treated equally, General Goethals said, if they were required to pay tolls according to their ability to produce revenue, which could be easily and simply measured.

"Under the plan of collecting toll according to the earning power of the ship," he continued, "we would soon have the Panama Canal paying interest on the money invested."

General Goethals said he hoped to see action by the Government on these two suggestions. He denied that there was any truth in repeated assertions that the Panama Canal was a failure and that it could never be freed from slides because of the character of the land through which it was cut. Instead of being cut through a marsh, as had been frequently asserted recently in the British press, General Goethals said it was cut through rock, but that some stretches of the rock were weak. He said that the slide evil, however, was one which could be definitely overcome, and that the danger of great slides seemed to be at an end.

The Traffic Club held its annual election last night and chose as President T. N. Jarvis, Vice President; H. L. Derby, Nat Duke, George F. Hichborn, J. B. Denison, L. C. Ivory; Secretary, Charles A. Swope; Treasurer, F. C. Earle; Governors, Paul M. Ripley, W. L. Woodrow, and S. M. Stevenson.

Commuter Travel Breaks Record.

The Long Island Railroad carried several thousand more commuters in October, 1916, than it did in the same month of any previous year in its history. There were 20,520 commutation tickets sold in the month, exceeding by 2,911, or 7 per cent., the number sold in the corresponding month of 1915. Commutation travel during October showed an increase of 229 per cent. over October, 1915, when the Long Island had only 6,258 commuters.

GLITTERING FARCE SMARTLY PLAYED

WORK OF CLARE KUMMER

This Song Writer's First Play Blessed with a Silken Performance That Becomes Its Idle Humor.

GOOD GRACIOUS ANNABELLE—A comedy in three acts by Clare Kummer. At the Republic.

James Ludgate	J. Palmer Collins
Wickham	Harry C. Bradley
Wilbur Jennings	Roland Young
Ethel Deane	Ruth Harding
Alfred Weatherby	Walter Schellin
Gwendolen Morley	Helen Lee
Alec	Mac Macomber
William Gosling	Edwin Holland
Titcomb	Willis Reed
George Wimbledon	Edwin Nicander
Annabelle Leigh	Lola Fisher
John Rawson	Walter Hampden
Harry Muchison	Harry Ingram
Lottie	May Vokes

A new playwright swam into our ken last evening when a glittering farce called "Good Gracious Annabelle" was presented, for the first time, at the Republic Theatre. It is the work of Clare Kummer, introduced by that alert adventurer in the land of undiscovered dramatists—Arthur Hopkins. He who has given us such celebrated first plays as "The Poor Little Rich Girl" and "On Trial" now presents the maiden work of the writer of songs who was responsible for "Dearie," a love-sick ditty with which this country was fairly obsessed some years ago. For "Dearie" she is now whole-heartedly forgiven, because "Good Gracious Annabelle," for all its palpable shortcomings, is that rarest of rarities—a brilliant farce by an American author.

Among farces Miss Kummer's may be said to belong to the leisure class. It is idle with a lorgnette and orange pekoe idleness. At times it is a little vague within, but it is always vogue without. It is a little like the English imitations of Wilde without being, in turn, an imitation of them. But above all—and this is why Miss Kummer is so welcome as a playwright—"Good Gracious Annabelle" taps a promising vein of nonsense.

It is a fine sense of nonsense that has provided the many priceless moments in the new farce at the Republic. No other sense certainly prompted the moment where Annabelle sits tearful in the corridor of the St. Swithin's Hotel and murmurs: "I am helpless, penniless, and a co-respondent." Nor that when the lord of the manor out on Long Island announces with drunken dignity: "Annie, this gentleman has done me the honor to have a chill in my kitchen."

The very slavey is a masterpiece of nonsense, a pensive under-cook, embittered by the fact that her uniform was designed by an interior decorator and that she is left alone in the great house because the other servants had sent a round robin that morning asking her not to go on their picnic. Who ever hoped to live to see May Vokes in a costume dreamed by Robert Edmond Jones? Yet of such unexpected stuff is "Good Gracious Annabelle."

There are quirks in this farce, then, at which Edward Lear and Lewis Carroll would have laughed till the tears rolled down their cheeks. But this same sense of nonsense leaves the story too fantastic to recount coherently. Just why Annabelle and all her friends go masquerading as the country house staff of a certain rich man at present escapes the memory, but you would no more ask for reasons than you would ask why the great she-bear, when she popped her head into the shop, cried: "What, no soap?" And this same irresponsibility so possessed Miss Kummer that she overlooked such trifles as climaxes and allowed the play to idle at times almost to the stopping point.

And Mr. Hopkins, in rising to this smart play's opportunity for a performance of silken, social ease, has suffered it to be almost too nonchalant. It is too leisurely, and if the entertainment slackens perilously at the end of the second act it is not merely because the act goes on playing ten minutes after it is over, but because Edwin Nicander is allowed to indulge in a long, progressive inebriation that achieves the dramatic climax of his going to sleep, and achieves this a little after the audience has been lulled into a like condition.

Yet, except for this matter of pace, the performance is exceptionally smooth—the work of a company assembled with rare discrimination. The best work is done by Lola Fisher, Mr. Nicander, May Vokes, and Roland Young. Lola Fisher, charming, sprightly, and entirely in the spirit of the adventure, plays with greater skill and better effect than ever before in this city. Mr. Nicander is in fine form and would shine more brightly if there were a little less of him. May Vokes, the perpetual slavey, has a delightful rôle, which she plays with great relish and Roand Young, a young English comedian, late of the Washington Square Players, plays a poet artfully. He knows that the art of listening is half the art of acting, just as it is half of the art of good manners.

All these help mightily a farce of which the distinctly feminine wit makes welcome the arrival as a playwright of Clare Kummer, who beamed on the proceedings last evening from a seat in the stage box next her broadly smiling cousin—William Gilette.

CHRISTINE MILLER SINGS.

Contralto's Recital Includes "Tone Poems" from the Chinese.

Christine Miller, contralto, gave a program of modern songs at her recital in Aeolian Hall last night. She began with a song by Robert Kahn and then sang for the first time in public Hubert Pataky's "Yearning" with text from the Chinese and John A. Carpenter's "Water Colors." The latter is a set of four songs also from the Chinese, and the composer has followed the latest fad in song nomenclature by calling them "tone poems." After that there was Hugo Wolf's "Kennst du das Land?" and a group of five other songs by the same composer, Burleigh's "The Gray Wolf," and four songs by Marshall Bartholomew, H. T. Burleigh, A. Walter Kramer, and James H. Rogers, sung for the first time, with Frank Bibb's more familiar "Rondel of Spring."

Miss Miller has by degrees won for herself acceptance as an interesting and well-equipped artist. While her range of repertoire is not as wide as that of some of the concert singers, she has succeeded in conveying the impression, and she did so again last night, that her voice and artistic personality entitle her to a place of importance. Her voice last night was in fine condition; lacking a little, so it seemed, of its former fullness on the low notes, it nevertheless was notable for its richness, its evenness, and the flexibility with which it was brought to the singer's purposes of variety in expressiveness and color.

AGAIN CALLS GIRL TO COURT.

Magistrate Resents the Failure of Woods's Cousin to Appear.

A second summons for Miss Mary Appleton Wood, 19 years old, daughter of Chalmers Wood, a lawyer, living at 723 Park Avenue, and a cousin of Police Commissioner Arthur Woods, was issued yesterday by Magistrate Barlow in the Yorkville Court, when he was informed that Miss Wood had torn up a previous summons handed to her on Monday by Patrolman Barry of the Health Squad. Barry said he found Miss Wood strolling in Fifth Avenue with her pet Scotch terrier unmuzzled.

When Miss Wood tore up the summons she asserted she would not appear in court, according to the patrolman. Magistrate Barlow then instructed a court attendant to call up Miss Wood's residence. The telephone was answered by a man, who asked if the case could not by adjusted over the telephone, according to the attendant. Magistrate Barlow answered emphatically to the contrary. When the policeman was sent to the home of Miss Wood with the second summons, he was informed she was not in the house.

"A mountain has been made out of a molehill," said Chalmers Wood last night in discussing the case. "On Monday my daughter was walking in Fifth Avenue with her dog, and its muzzle slipped off the dog just as she was approached by a policeman who became offensive in his manner and words.

"He handed a summons to my daughter, and she, being just a young girl, did not attach any significance to it. She did not tear it up, but she did tear off a corner of it, probably due to her embarrassment at the manner of the policeman. The summons was made returnable today, but the date, written by the policeman was almost illegible. As soon as the policeman learned who my daughter was he made profuse apologies. We have explained the whole matter to Magistrate Barlow, and my daughter or her representative will appear in court tomorrow morning."

Police Commissioner Woods said Miss Wood was a relative, but declined to discuss the incident.

CAUGHT WITH STOLEN GEMS

Special to The New York Times.

IRVINGTON-ON-HUDSON, Oct. 31.—A man, suspected of having committed several burglaries in this district in the last two weeks, was arrested here this evening.

The prisoner said he was Thomas Lynch of Toronto, Canada. He was caught by Patrolman Gallagher at 7:10 o'clock near the home of Mrs. Bathgate Becker. When the policeman ordered him to stop the man fled. He was overtaken, but the policeman had to club him into submission.

When searched at the police station Lynch had in his pockets jewels and gems estimated to be worth $4,000, and while the Chief of Police was questioning him Mrs. Becker, much excited, arrived to report that her house had been robbed while the family was at dinner. She identified some of the jewels found on the prisoner as part of the property stolen from her home.

Lynch will be taken before Police Justice Taylor in the Irvington Police Court tomorrow morning.

The homes of C. C. Paulding, Solicitor to the New York Central Railroad, and Mrs. Robert Hewitt were robbed on Saturday night, and that of Mrs. M. Cummings on last Wednesday. In addition to having two special policemen patroling the roads, many of the men of this vicinity have armed themselves and done guard duty for the last four or five nights.

LYON WINS IN PROMISE SUIT.

No Damages for Seamstress Who Says He Proposed Marriage.

The jury before Supreme Court Justice Tierney that heard Miss Margaret Connell's $100,000 breach of promise suit against Whitney Lyon, tooth powder manufacturer, returned a verdict for the defendant yesterday. The jury debated from 5 o'clock Monday afternoon to 1 o'clock yesterday morning before reaching an agreement.

The plaintiff testified that Mr. Lyon proposed to her at her apartments and on a train coming from Boston, but he denied any promise of marriage and said he was kind to her because she had been the family seamstress.

THE LITTLE SYMPHONY.

The "Little Symphony," one of the several creations of Mr. George Barrère, unwearied in founding chamber music organizations of varying sizes, gave a concert yesterday afternoon in the Cort Theatre, together with Miss Llora Hoffman, soprano. The place has excellent acoustics for such a performance, and the little orchestra of fourteen players, of strings, wood wind, trumpet, horn, and drums, was heard to excellent advantage. Mr. Barrère's program began with a suite of dances from Grétry's opera, "Céphale et Procris," music of a simplicity that today borders on baldness; the "passepied" has a more supple melodiousness, and the audience asked for it again. The other numbers comprised two "Aubades" by Edouard Lalo, of a characteristically Gallic charm in rhythm and tunefulness; a suite by Louis V. Saar, a composer formerly resident in New York, now in Cincinnati, that showed a light touch and a melodic gift unashamed, and a suite by Gabriel Pierné, "Pour mes petits Amis," in six movements. The performance of these pieces was refined, vivacious, and in most respects finished, and it gave obvious pleasure.

Miss Hoffman made her first appearance in New York a few days ago in Aeolian Hall. In some points her voice sounded better yesterday, perhaps because the acoustics of the theatre suited it better, and its production was somewhat freer. Miss Hoffman gave the American composer a chance; she sang nothing but American songs. Mr. Frank Bibb played her accompaniments charmingly.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

H. H. Frazee is making plans far in advance for William Collier, who is starring in "Nothing but the Truth" at the Longacre. The comedian will finish the season in this farce and a revival of "The Rivals," and will tour in the former all next season and in the Spring of 1918 will appear in London in his present role. Mr. Frazee will make the London production in association with Hugh Ward, the Australian manager.

The new Mary Pickford picture, "Less Than the Dust," will be shown simultaneously at the Broadway, Strand, and Academy of Music next Sunday.

"Girls Will Be Girls" is the latest title bestowed upon the Sydney-Smith-Kern musical play formerly called "Strike the Lyre."

E. H. Sothern came to the city yesterday from Litchfield, Conn., where he has been spending several weeks, to take charge of the final rehearsals of "If I Were King." His twenty weeks' tour for the benefit of the British Red Cross will begin next Monday at Providence.

The company that will appear in "The Right Litle Girl" will go to Syracuse tonight, and the first performance will be given there next Monday

A dramatization of "The Melting of Molly" by Maria Thompson was acted for the first time last night at the Apollo Theatre, Atlantic Cty. Irene Franklin is the star, and others in the cast are Grace Carlyle, Helen Tracy, Harold Vosburgh, George S. Trimble, and Raymond Van Sickle.

The Hippodrome will establish another record Sunday, Nov. 12, when for the first time in theatrical history a road show will be transferred from the pier of the Central Railroad of New Jersey to the pier of the N. Y., N. H. & H. in the Harlem River by ferry. The Hippodrome company will be en route on two trains from Philadelphia to Boston.

The date set for the benefit performance for the Seaside Home for Crippled Children at the Strand is Friday, Dec. 1.

Frank McIntyre, Harrison Brockbank, Elsie Alder, Zoe Barnett, and Wilmuth Merkyl have been engaged for the principal roles in the second company being organized to present "Miss Springtime on Tour." Joseph Urban will paint duplicate settings of the original production for the road company.

Gertrude Vanderbilt will join the cast of "Go To It" at the Princess tonight.

Cohan & Harris have acquired the rights to Sydney Rosenfeld's new comedy, "Under Pressure." They will produce it during the holidays.

W. M. IVINS ESTATE NETS ONLY $14,361

WIFE IS SOLE BENEFICIARY

William Barnes Was One of His Creditors at Time of Death, Appraisal Reveals.

William M. Ivins, for many years one of the foremost lawyers and public men of the State of New York, who died on July 23, 1915, after an illness partly attributed to the strain incident to conducting the plaintiff's side of the William Barnes-Theodore Roosevelt libel suit, left a net estate of only $14,361, and was indebted to his law firm of Ivins, Wolff & Hoguet at the time of his death. This was disclosed yesterday when the transfer tax appraisal of the estate was filed.

Mr. Ivins left a gross estate of $44,439, but the value was reduced by debts of $27,030 and other deductions aggregating $30,078. One of the debts of the estate was a balance of $8,214 to William Barnes. His debt to his law firm was $6,885, but he had an interest of 40 per cent. in claims of the firm aggregating $17,091, which were of doubtful value. His interest was appraised at $3,000.

Mr. Ivins gave the entire estate to his wife, Emma Yard Ivins. He left nothing to his children, but they were the beneficiaries of life insurance policies, which do not appear in the assets of the estate. He had $2,902 in cash, and the personal property in his residence at 145 West Forty-eighth Street, and in his law office at 27 Williams Street was appraised at $9,888.

Out of fifteen parcels of stocks owned by Mr. Ivins only three were of value. The most valuable was 1,000 shares of the American and British Manufacturing Company, appraised at $4,500. He owned a seat on the New York Produce Exchange which was sold for $632.

Mr. Ivins was City Chamberlain at $25,000 a year during the terms of Mayors Grace and Hewitt. He was the Republican candidate for Mayor against George B. McClellan and William R. Hearst in 1905, was special counsel for the Public Service Commission in 1908, and was regarded as an investigator second only to Charles E. Hughes at the time.

GIVES INVENTIONS TO PUBLIC

W. B. Wait's Will Frees Patented Devices for the Blind.

The inventions of William Bell Wait, widely known as an educator of the blind, who died in New York on Oct. 25, are bequeathed to the public in his will filed yesterday. The remainder of his estate, which includes personal effects and real estate in Philadelphia and Rhode Island, goes in about equal shares to his daughter, Lucy Wait Battles, his sons, Dr. Oliver B. Wait and William Bell Wait, Jr., and his niece, Hannah A. Babcock.

Mr. Wait was for many years Principal of the New York Institute for the Education of the Blind. He made his will last February, setting forth that "I hereby give and dedicate to the public the free use of the following inventions made for the purpose of reducing the cost, increasing the durability, and enlarging the amount and scope of literature for the blind in the New York point system; and I hereby authorize and direct my executor to do whatever he may deem necessary to carry out and effect this gift and dedication."

The patents are thirteen in number, and are described as follows:

Press for embossed printing of literature, music, and the like; apparatus for embossed punctographic writing; device for automatically adjusting plates; sheet-carrying apparatus; embossing device; device for bridging recesses in cylinders of embossing presses; marginal holding device; embossing machine; bookbinding machine; plate holding device; sheet delivery apparatus; sheet gauge, and strip-fastening device for embossing plates.

The decedent gave all his books relating to the blind to the New York Institute for the Education of the Blind.

THOUGHT WOERZ RATIONAL.

Witnesses in Will Case Uphold Aged Brewer's Competency.

Testimony to uphold the will of Ernest G. W. Woerz, brewer, made two days before his death, was offered before Surrogate Cohalan and a jury yesterday in the trial of the contest, brought on the ground of incompetency, on behalf of the decedent's grandchildren, the children of Charles P. Doelger, who were cut off with $5,000 each.

The chief witness was Henry C. Entrup, an employe of the Beadleston & Woerz Brewing Company, who said he had visited Mr. Woerz a week before Mr. Woerz's death and discussed business affairs with him.

The witness said Mr. Woerz listened attentively and appeared to understand what he heard. "Mr. Woerz was a man of few words," the witness said. "When he did talk he spoke in moderate tones and it was sometimes difficult to understand him."

Other witnesses who saw Mr. Woerz in his last illness testified that they considered him rational. The trial will be continued today.

WHITE PLAINS, Oct. 31.—According to the will of Mrs. Alice C. Foulds, who committed suicide at her Waller Avenue home here, on Oct. 17 last, she left no relatives and her $50,000 estate is inherited by friends and the White Plains Hospital. The will sets aside $2,000 and money she had on deposit in the Five-Cent Savings Bank of West Springfield, Mass., for the care of a burial plot, in the name of Benjamin D. Ashley, there. Other bequests are to friends, and the residue goes to Thomas A. O'Callaghan of White Plains to be held in trust for her husband, and in case of his death, the residue goes to the White Plains Hospital Association. Mr. Foulds died two years ago.

MURDERED BY CRAZED SON.

H. H. Langsdale of Easton, Md., Shot on Entering Office.

Special to The New York Times.

EASTON, Md., Oct. 31.—When H. H. Langsdale, a prominent man here, entered his office today his son Bryan, who was in an adjoining room, stealthily opened a door and fired a shotgun into his back. The father, who was not four feet from the muzzle of the gun, was mortally wounded.

Henry Burrows and Vaughn Smith, who were in the street, heard the shot. They found Mr. Langsdale upon the office floor and the son leaning against the wall, seemingly as cool and unconcerned as if nothing had happened. Mr. Langsdale said, "Henry, Bryan has shot me." Dr. Palmer soon arrived and in answer to his question, "Was it an accident?" the wounded man said "Yes, yes." Mr. Langsdale was taken to the Emergency Hospital, but died a few minutes after reaching there.

Sheriff Stevens and Chief of Police Gannon found the slayer with his mother, who had her arms around his neck and was weeping. He was taken away from her and locked up. He seemed unconcerned and laughed while being taken to jail.

State Attorney Charles J. Bettler visited Langsdale in his cell and obtained the following oral statement:

"I had been thinking over killing my father for a day or two. It was a question whether I would commit suicide or take my father's life. I had placed some arsenic in the stable and I went to the barn this morning to take it, but I changed my mind after I had reached the barn. I decided then I would go back to the house and take father's life. I went to the room back of the office and waited until father came in to the office. When he came in I went to the door between the two rooms and when father's back was turned I fired.

"Father injected bad blood into my veins and made me a bad man. I had a spell of insanity last Spring.

The prisoner is believed to be insane.

WHAT DOES MR. HUGHES MEAN?

It is fair to judge the words of Mr. Hughes by the interpretation put upon them by his supporters and friends. There is a case in point in the comment of The Kansas City Star, a newspaper of great influence in the West, upon what it calls the Wilson slogan, "He kept us out of war." A correspondent of The Star tells of meeting "a fine-looking, stalwart young man" who told him that he was going to vote for Mr. Wilson because "he kept us out of war." This fine-looking, stalwart young man supported his conclusion by this reasoning, if we may describe it as reasoning:

> There is no use of talking to me about patriotism and all that sort of stuff. So far as I am concerned I will vote for any man who keeps us out of war, and I don't care how he does it. He can apologize to every country in the world; he can get down and crawl in the dust; he can let the flag be trod in the mire, so long as he avoids war he is the man who gets my vote.

Our Kansas City contemporary refuses to believe that "this humiliating "expression is representative of feel-"ing in the trans-Mississippi region." But it argues that the tendency of the Administration's recent policies has been to soften the national fibre, to lower the tone of Americanism, to evade duty by adopting the easy way out. It continues:

> Certainly the appeal of the Administration's chief supporters in this campaign is frankly yellow. The slogan, "He kept us out of war," has been used to the limit. The inference has been that patriotism is old-fashioned and that loss of national self-respect is to be condoned if it is accompanied by peace.

Since the loss of national self-respect cannot be condoned, "the na-"tional spirit needs a different leader-"ship," says our Kansas City contemporary. It needs the Americanism embodied in the words of Mr. Hughes when he said:

> I stand for the honor of our country and, with respect to every American right on land and sea, its firm enforcement. This nation should vindicate the integrity of international law and the rights of neutrals. I stand for the interests of the United States and the protection of American lives, property, and commerce throughout the world. The path of preparedness and of the maintenance of American rights is not the path that leads to war; it is the path of security. The pathway to peace is to announce our rights and have the world understand exactly what we think and what we are prepared to do.

These are admonitions to duty, but "they are not an invitation to war, "they are an invitation to the peace "of righteousness, and justice and "self-respect." Now we are on solid ground. Mr. Hughes would preserve our rights and peace at the same time by making the world know "exactly "what we think and what we are pre-"pared to do." Can any man under the blue vault of heaven tell wherein Mr. Hughes's promise differs in the slightest degree from Mr. Wilson's performance? Mr. Wilson has announced our rights to the world, he has told the world what we are prepared to do. He told Germany what we are prepared to do if she did not cease her lawless submarine warfare. Germany has heeded his words—unless it shall prove that in the case of the steamer Marina she has after these many months disregarded them. So Mr. Wilson's peace of righteousness and justice is Mr. Hughes's peace of righteousness and justice. Mr. Hughes would have kept us out of war by precisely the policies Mr. Wilson has followed. If that would be "yellow" with one it must be "yellow" with the other, and of course there is nothing "yellow" about Mr. Hughes.

But do we not detect the insidious work of the Colonel's weasel in this statement The Star quotes from Mr. Hughes? In the first few sentences we are told that every American right on land and sea is to be firmly enforced; we should vindicate the integrity of international law and neutral rights; protect property and commerce throughout the world. How? At the cannon's mouth? When the Indians sent arrows wrapped up in the skin of a rattlesnake to our sturdy New England forefathers, they got their envelope back inclosing powder and ball. Would Mr. Hughes have carried on diplomatic correspondence in that tone? We should infer it, were it not for the concluding assurances about the path of security and of peace. One-half of this proclamation of unflinching Americanism devours the other half. The East, which demands firm policies on land and sea, is to be satisfied, but the peaceful West must not be disturbed in its mind. How any voter still in doubt about his duty can be persuaded to give his vote to Mr. Hughes on the statement that so completely satisfies The Kansas City Star passes comprehension.

But now, at the very end of the campaign, Mr. Hughes musters up courage to declare that he is "in favor "of the maintenance of every right, "including the right to travel and the "right of shipment." The statement was made at Columbus yesterday, in answer to the question whether he would favor or oppose the embargo upon shipment of munitions from this country to Europe or the passage of a resolution warning Americans not to travel upon ships owned by nations at war. It is a very satisfactory statement. Why was it so long deferred? The hyphenates have very plainly indulged the hope that Mr. Hughes might accept the chief article of faith in their Americanism, that the shipment of munitions should be stopped. They will be disappointed, but nothing Mr. Hughes can now say will cost him a German-American vote. They have nowhere else to go, and, after all, their chief desire is to defeat Mr. Wilson.

Again Mr. Hughes declares for the Wilson policies. He now says what Mr. Wilson has been not only saying but doing from the beginning of the war. The replies to Senator Stone's questions long ago stated the attitude of the Administration with regard to the export of munitions. Its demand for the tabling of the Gore and McLemore resolutions made plain its attitude in respect to the right to travel at sea. It is an ancient tale, a perfectly familiar Democratic tale, that Mr. Hughes has now told to his Columbus audience with that deep tone of conviction and emphasis of gesture with which we are so well acquainted. What boots it, what does it amount to? With every day of Mr. Hughes's campaigning the conviction has grown that in Mr. Wilson's place he would have done what Mr. Wilson did in respect to the war, in respect to Mexico. The argument for a change of Administration because of the need of a different leadership for the national spirit crumbles to dust. But is Mr. Hughes's party to be trusted? Of the 199 Republicans in the House of Representatives 102 voted against tabling the McLemore resolution demanding that the Government warn Americans not to take passage on armed merchant ships of belligerents. And if this is the faith that has been in Mr. Hughes from the beginning, why has he so long dissembled the firm resolve to defend American rights to travel at sea? Was it the National Committee that overcame his reluctance to speak? Did he make this all too belated declaration of adherence to the Wilson policies in the hope that, the West being already lost to him, he might save enough Eastern States to make a respectable showing in the Electoral College?

THE CUBAN ELECTION.

The Cuban Republic will today hold its fourth Presidential election, and there is reason to hope that the Conservative candidate, Mario Menocal, will be chosen to administer the affairs of his country for another four years. He has served faithfully, he has overcome formidable obstacles. He has greatly increased the nation's revenues, and his appointments have been as good as could be expected. It has been his complaint from the first that Cubans of high abilities generally shun political life and refuse, indeed, to take active part in political work. They are always stern critics of the administration, nevertheless, and often pessimistic as to the fate of the republic. This trouble is not altogether peculiar to Cuba or any other single republic. It might almost be called characteristic of democracies. But while General Menocal has not been quite as successful as might have been expected in inducing men of high quality to share with him the burdens of Cuban government, his Cabinet has been both efficient and loyal and Cuba has never been in a better condition in regard to its industries and its finances.

The President has missed no chance to promote the welfare of the people, and has especially been at pains to preserve the public health through his efficient sanitary officers. Cuba is prosperous. That the people will continue to prosper with so wise an Executive as Menocal is not to be doubted, and it is likely that in his second term he would find the means to carry out various reforms which have hitherto been blocked by the Liberals in Congress. Menocal's opponent, Alfredo Zayas, is an estimable gentleman, against whom personally there is nothing to be said. But behind him stands the ever-alert Gomez, who has been a more or less destructive force in Cuban politics since independence was secured and who turned his own four years in the Presidency to profitable account for himself. The election is expected to be quiet and orderly, but the strength of the opposition to Menocal's re-election is such as to prevent any safe prediction of the result.

SORROWS OF THE BRAHMINS.

Gentlemen of "a very well-known family in Boston," choice cuts of "cold-roast Boston," must now be mighty uneasy in their comfortable chairs in the ivied Somerset Club, that temple of the Trimountain Patriciate. Not there, not in their motor cars, can they talk in safety. The chauffeur may bewray them. Some other gentleman of a very well-known family in Boston may be in a neighboring easy chair, his ears astretch for some half-heard cock-and-bull story which the Hon. Henry Cabot Lodge will accept as proof of Holy Writ and repeat to a grinning world. The Boston Brahmins can't travel. Some gentleman of a very well-known Boston family is probably in the next chair in the Pullman, filling his ears, preparing to fill Mr. Lodge's capacious reservoir of credulity. It is sad, but it is funny. Almost any Massachusetts man must have an uneasy consciousness that there is a listener at his elbow, a telephone operator in communication with Central at Nahant.

The Hon. Henry Cabot Lodge is a historian. Did he swallow exsufflicate and vain surmise as greedily as he swallows it now? The Hon. Henry Cabot Lodge is a Brahmin of the true blue blood and breeding. We wonder what his grandfather, George Cabot, pacing up and down the Federalist Preserve of Elysium, thinks of the behavior of his grandson and biographer. Can you imagine George Cabot or Harrison Gray Otis spreading stagecoach tittle-tattle at second or third hand as political gospel truth?

MR. M'COMBS.

The Presidential campaign should not be allowed to obscure the importance to the Democratic Party and the State of New York of the election of a Democratic Senator to succeed the present Democratic Senator, James A. O'Gorman. The policies of Mr. Wilson require the continuance of a Democratic majority in the Senate, and if, as the signs now point, Mr. Wilson is to be re-elected, it is in the highest degree advisable that New York have a Senator in sympathy with his Administration. Inevitably a Democratic Senator would have more influence than a Republican Senator and be more able to further the great and manifold interests of New York State at Washington.

Of the two opposing primary candidates, Mr. Calder, however excellent his character and however considerable his acquaintance, is but the candidate of the Republican machine. He cannot be said to be the choice of his party. That would have been Mr. Robert Bacon, if Mr. Bacon had begun his canvass a little earlier. Mr. Calder is a respectable politician of the old Republican school. He can be depended upon to stick to the party program and tradition, the heaven-high tariff, and all the rest of it. He is regular and nothing more. To independent and progressive voters his candidacy means only the kind of politics and policies, of political habit and political orthodoxy, from which they have turned away.

Mr. William F. McCombs, the Democratic nominee, though only six years Mr. Calder's junior, is a modern to an ancient compared with him. He is one of the young Democrats who have followed and helped Woodrow Wilson in the revivification and modernization of the Democratic Party. He is a sound lawyer, a tariff reformer, a worker for that constructive and advancing Democracy which Mr. Wilson leads. He should be elected.

AFTER THE WAR.

It is not easy to imagine anything less American than the manner in which some of our leaders are proposing that we shall meet "after the war" problems. Mr. Hughes, Chairman Gary, and a host of lesser lights are clamoring for help from the law in meeting the competition of those who have been "bled white" in the war, and therefore are a terror to Americans, whose minds and bodies have been enfeebled by an excess of prosperity. If in fact we have got so rich that we won't work, it is true that the world has little use for us. It is a counsel of weakness and despair that we should make of ourselves a hermit kingdom by law, although McKinley saw that the period of our exclusiveness had passed, even in his time. It is a singular idea that domestic competition is so good for trade that it should be compelled by law, and that international competition is so bad for trade that it should be impeded by law. At a time when the high cost of living is every man's enemy, it is thought good politics to make and keep prices high by law. Those who bear in mind the results of previous collisions between law and economics are of opinion that there is no need of another demonstration.

It is pleasanter to pass from the fogs of political theory to the realism of the report of the Industrial Commission which has just returned from France. That shows us the other side of the shield, and tells us what our foreign competitors are planning to do in the period after the war. In the words of the Commission's Secretary:

> The Commission was impressed with the large number of plants operating under the latest standards of American efficiency and by the talent and fortitude displayed by the working classes. French business men are alive to the necessity for the best labor-saving devices and want the latest American machinery.

There is no idea of protecting themselves by law against the methods which we so distrust. There is to be no economic war after peace, according to the declarations of Lloyd George and Lord Reading. Even Germany is not to be boycotted. On the contrary, as concerns ourselves the Commission > found French business men willing to meet American business men in an effort to increase the trade between the countries. It found them alive to the importance of high standards of efficiency, anxious to learn the best in American business methods, and to introduce American labor-saving machinery. Their counterdemands upon us to increase their exports to America were modest, reasonable, and mutually beneficial in principle.

Those are words of international comity as well as of economic sanity. It is an example to us to lay aside our panic, and be stout of heart again. Instead of shackling our men of business let us leave them alone, except for the correction of their conduct when they err in morals. In foreign and domestic trade alike our men of business would readily forego Government help in consideration of the Government ceasing to hinder. The prohibition or discouragement of foreign trade is not the best way in which to meet after-the-war problems. Trade amenities in the manner which Mr. Davison advises are better than anything the politicians propose. The electorate has condemned high protection twice, and the Republican candidate is preparing to repeat the betrayal for which a Republican President was disciplined. Americans have yet to learn the uses of laws and politics.

A LITTLE MORE FOR POLICE AND FIREMEN.

Upon the Mayor's recommendation the Budget Committee of the Board of Estimate has approved the increase of pay of first-grade policemen and firemen from $1,400 to $1,450 a year. Engineers of steamers are to get $1,700 instead of $1,600. The salaries of Police Captains rise from $2,750 to $3,120, of Police Inspectors from $3,500 to $3,900, half the increase asked by Commissioner Woods. The pay of the Chief Inspector is to be $6,000 instead of $5,000, and that of the Borough Inspector of Brooklyn and Queens $4,200 instead of $3,500. The larger salaries are very moderate in view of the services rendered, and there will be general regret that the policemen and firemen, whose courage, efficiency, physical fitness, and admirable morale are appreciated by the community, cannot be paid more under the unavoidable demands upon the budget. Never have the two forces been so strong in discipline, so loyal to their duties, so permeated with a fine esprit de corps as they are today. They are the pride of New York City.

The Budget Committee has also adopted the Mayor's recommendation for the addition of 255 policemen to the force and the promotion of 43 patrolmen to be Sergeants. The increased expenditure in the two departments will be $795,100. It is one of the notable achievements of Mayor Mitchel's administration that by rigid and skillful economies in three years of rising prices, two of them years of jumping prices, the budgets of the departments generally under the Mayor's control have been reduced by $2,500,000. This represents a wise and brave policy, a real economy, of the Mayor. For the sake of keeping his departmental budget below the 1916 figures, as he might have done by not favoring these just increases for the uniformed men, he has not consented to be unjust either to the men or to the city. The increase both of pay and force will be approved by the community.

AVIATION LANGUAGE.

The invention and development of the automobile have placed many new words in the dictionaries. The word "automobile" itself aroused much hostility in the early days of self-moving cars, because it was an improper compound, because it was obviously an adjective rather than a noun, and because it was not English; but it has survived all opposition and is in the English dictionaries. So will "aeroplane" survive, though it may never be properly pronounced as a word of four syllables, the dieresis having been omitted, first by the printers, who always aim at simplification, and later by common consent. But the Aero Club is giving its attention to needful revision of the nomenclature of aeronautics, and Mr. Henry Woodhouse directs attention to the report of the National Advisory Committee on Aeronautics, which contains 115 terms used in connection with air navigation. Mr. Woodhouse himself has accumulated a collection of 2,500 terms relating to this subject.

What is aimed at is simplification. It is desirable that the accepted terms relating to what we call aviation should be such as express their meaning to the common mind. It is well at the beginning not to leave the vocabulary entirely to usage. Mr. Woodhouse obviously prefers aeroplane to the often suggested airplane. We have aerodrome, aerostatics, hydroaeroplane. Air squadron might be as serviceable as aero squadron, but it is likely that in most of the already long established terms we shall stick to the "aer" even if we pronounce it as a single syllable. Air service, however, will always be acceptable, but Mr. Woodhouse objects to the employment in the army of the term "Aviation Section" to cover both the lighter and the heavier than air machines. The Signal Corps, he thinks, must have an Aeronautic Service, instead, with an aviation section and an aerostatic section.

Airman may be accounted a better word than aviator, but shall we say airwoman instead of aviatrix, or shall we get along without bothering about the sex of the aeronaut? Surely we shall never call a woman an airman, although we have noted that they have lady Chairmen at some suffragist meetings. This much merely to glance at the difficulties to be overcome in establishing a permanent glossary of terms relating to a rapidly developing science. It is to be hoped that "sky pilot" will not stick, but "volplaning" is a word that demands consideration and scrutiny.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

That He Is Alive Disproves It.

If even half of the statements ascribed by a Zurich paper to the German Socialist, Liebknecht, were ever put on paper or made by him before the Reichstag Committee that tried him for treason, there is wonder only that he went to prison instead of to the gallows or the block. The fact that he escaped with his life is, indeed, an even stronger reason for doubting the authenticity of the document printed yesterday than is the general inaccuracy of news of this sort coming from Switzerland, for Liebknecht, who is very far from lacking in intelligence, would know perfectly well that no Government, in a situation anything like as serious as is Germany's could be expected to refrain from taking the most effective of all measures permanently to silence such an enemy.

To tolerate the existence in its capital of a man who said that the war, so far as Germany is concerned, was a plot of the military and capitalistic classes to increase and confirm their power over the workers would be to abandon the right of self-defense which is inherent in every Government, no matter how bad it may be. But while it is questionable that Liebknecht ever made the assertions credited to him, except possibly in a letter to, or a conversation with, a thoroughly trusted friend, it is not at all questionable that his view of the war is just about that set forth in the Zurich paper as translated by The Manchester Guardian.

That is because the view is in more than fair accord with the known facts. Presumably it errs in charging the Kaiser and his caste with having a conscious purpose to exploit the poor, but it remains true, as Liebknecht is declared to have written, that Germany—that is, the part of Germany long the object of his antagonism—did start the war, and that a German victory would perpetuate the sort of rule against which, until they yielded to the delusion of attack from the outside, the other German Socialists fought with as much vigor as his own.

But no Government in arms allows its own subjects to accept and promulgate the accusations of its enemies—to declare its case a bad one, and in effect to say that it deserves to be beaten. Such statements may be true, and often have been, but only successful revolution can save the makers of them from the severest of punishments.

At Least Analogy Is Found.

Much that is said by the admirers of German efficiency and thoroughness is true, and there is foundation for the praises of her care for the material welfare of her working classes, but it is a mistake to assume, as so many do, that the methods by which truly remarkable effects, industrial and governmental, have been attained in Germany are either unknown or unutilized in this country. As a matter of fact, they are all illustrated daily in our State prisons of the older sort.

There, as in the Fatherland, men are subjected in all the activities of their lives to the supervision and control of a superior caste that has and exercises the power to decide just what the objects of its benevolent solicitude shall and shall not do. They are told when to get up and when to go to bed. Their food is selected and portioned out to them in accordance with their needs as determined by their masters, and their labor is co-ordinated and systematized in a way that produces goods far more cheaply than those made outside the prison walls. In brief, the prisoners are made to subordinate all individuality, all private tastes and preferences, to the State.

But in this country, curiously enough, people do not like this sort of guardianship, though they must admit that it protects them from many dangers, relieves them of heavy responsibilities, and prevents them from doing no end of foolish and wicked things to which in their unenlightenment they are lamentably inclined. Ungrateful that they are, they find it irksome that they cannot do as they please and take the consequences of their own unwisdom.

There used to be in Germany great numbers of men and women who shared this strange notion as to the delights of personal liberty for the private citizen. To escape from conditions they considered intolerable, crowds of them, in other days, came over to this rude and unregulated country and either never went back at all, or, if they did pay a visit to the old home before arriving at extreme old age, they hurried back to the land where, though garbage collections were made in a deplorably slipshod manner, and discipline was conspicuously weak or altogether absent, one could take a long breath without waiting to ascertain whether or not it was forbidden by competent authority.

The similarity of Germany to our prisons, of course, is not complete; perhaps it is analogy rather than similarity. But something of likeness does exist, and—well, the present American tendency is not to increase it.

The Effect of Hughes Speeches.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I have frequently visited the Hughes Alliance Headquarters, at Broadway and Vesey Street, and have heard many speakers address the gatherings; and the more I hear, the more I am convinced that the citizens of this country should support President Wilson for re-election. A. K.

AUTUMN IN THE HILLS.

When blue haze drifts across the hills
Like solemn incense, and the trees
Are flaming altars, there is peace
More deep than dreaming Summer seas
Can bring, or the serene of Spring.

All day I love to wander there
Beneath the oaks and hear the wind
Among the leaves. And then, at dusk,
With the first star, I love to find
The welcome of my cottage light.

There, while the white frost mists the pane,
I lie at ease and hear the patter
Of chestnuts on the leaves, and the moon
Shines in. Oh, what does any duty matter,

WHEN ENGLAND HELPED US.

Poultney Bigelow Recalls Some Incidents in the Far East.

Malden-on-Hudson, Oct. 30, 1916.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

It cannot be true that American naval officers assisted Prussian submarines in their dirty work outside of Newport. No doubt Washington will soon clear up this ambiguous affair. Meanwhile pray permit me to add my mite of testimony regarding the attitude of Great Britain in 1898 when Imperial Germany sided with Spain and sought to bully our gallant Dewey in Manila.

The tale of how the British Captain Chichester stood up with our Admiral against the German Admiral has been told before—and finally by Admiral Dewey himself. This story I checked step by step in Manila by conversation not merely with our own Admiral and his British colleague but by other participants in that memorable fight. Moreover, the British authorities in Hongkong, although legally neutral, interpreted their duties in the manner most favorable to the American ships, and Dewey found no difficulty in fitting out to the best advantage prior to steaming across to the enemy in the Philippines. And as the Yankee fleet steamed past that of England in Hongkong the British bluejackets manned the rigging and cheered us heartily—a most unneutral and yet most generous act.

After the war I found myself in Cheefoo waiting an answer from the Russian commander at Port Arthur, to whom I had applied for permission to cross Siberia. The Palace revolution was in full swing at Peking and the fleets of the great powers controlled every bucket of coal in the treaty ports.

Then it was that our Consul Fowler ran up and down the streets of Cheefoo wringing his hands and begging for a few tons of coal—but not a lump could he buy. He showed me the cable in which he was ordered to coal our cruiser, expected every moment, on a hurry call to protect American lives and property in Tien-tsin. He told me he could do nothing—money could not buy an ounce of coal.

"Nonsense," said I, "the British Admiral has plenty of coal!"

"True," said Consul Fowler, "but what of that?"

Our Consul, you see, was another of that strange species who think that good things can be got by money only. Then I told him to state his case to Admiral Seymour at Wei-hai-wei, forty miles to eastward. He sniffed suspiciously, but finally yielded and together we concocted the cable to which in an hour came the joyful news: "Certainly—help yourself—as much as you wish"—or words to that effect. I wonder if England has ever been paid for that coal, for I'm sure that no bill would ever be sent by John Bull.

This story is here printed for the first time—not because it is of importance by itself, but because it is typical of hundreds of cases familiar to many Americans. POULTNEY BIGELOW.

WHOSE CANDIDATE IS HE?

New York, Oct. 30, 1916.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

One of the saddest spectacles in this Presidential election is the divergence of views among the American citizens with pro-ally sentiment.

L. L. Forman, in a letter to The Times, states that he, a Democrat, will vote for Mr. Hughes because President Wilson is "not interested in their (the Allies') cause."

The gentleman who, as Secretary of the American Rights Association, has seen with intelligent eyes the pernicious activities for the Fatherland of those with whom he is going to vote claims that Mr. Hughes is his candidate and not the candidate of that element whom Theodore Roosevelt stigmatized as "the professional German-Americans who want the candidate for the Presidency to be a viceroy of a foreign Government."

The Colonel, I admit, is himself a fervent supporter of Mr. Hughes, but the Colonel is a politician who may or who may not see in the far horizon a possible Presidential nomination in 1920.

With all due respect to Mr. Hughes, he is, whether he wants it to be or not, the candidate of those who, quoting Roosevelt, "terrorized the Republican National Convention."

It passes my comprehension that men of the intellectual calibre of Mr. Formen can go hand in hand with those whom they so severely and so justly condemned once upon a time.

The Armor-Piercing Bullet.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

On Oct. 24 an article appeared in the issue of your paper entitled "Army Officer Discovers a Rifle Bullet That Can Pierce Armor at Fifty Yards." The article was very complimentary in its description of the effect of the bullet against armor plate, but it was indefinite in respect to the development thereof.

I am writing you, therefore, to acquaint you with the fact that this bullet was developed at the Frankford Arsenal by Captain Wallace L. Clay of the Ordnance Department of the army. He conducted the necessary experimental work along novel lines, but in accordance with the well-established principle of the increased penetration given to armor-piercing projectiles by the use of a soft cap. The novelty of his work has been recognized by the Patent Office, and it has issued him letters of patent, which authorize the free use by the Government of this very efficient armor-piercing bullet.

Two Truth Societies.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Being an ardent believer in President Wilson and a firm supporter of his re-election, I am distinctly disturbed over a misunderstanding which may easily arise in connection with the propaganda of the disloyalists against him. It is possible that some have confused the American Truth Society, the organization under which Jeremiah A. O'Leary and his aggregation are conducting part of their activities, with the Catholic Truth Society. This should not be. The former is pro-German propaganda pure and simple, while the Catholic Truth Society has a distinctly religious purpose in disseminating the truth concerning Catholic teaching. JAMES MOREY.

O'Leary Not Representative.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I am occasionally astonished to note certain remarks which aim to convey the impression that the noisy J. A. O'Leary and his associates represent the sentiment of most citizens of Irish birth or ancestry. The ill-assorted combination which opposes the re-election of Mr. Wilson does not altogether consist of men who view the conflicting interests of a troubled world from the standpoint of a disinterested American. Money has been spent here to influence opinion, and the amount of eloquence and special pleading that is always openly on the market is practically unlimited. Nearly all the voters of Hibernian extraction whom the writer is acquainted with will vote for Wilson.

WATER COLORS ON VIEW.

Work of Wm. B. E. Ranken of Royal Institute in Knoedler Galleries.

An exhibition of water colors by William B. E. Ranken, at the Knoedler Galleries, has qualities to commend it both to artists and the public. Mr. Ranken is a member of the Royal Institute of Painters in Water Colors, a rival society to the Royal Society of Painters in Water Colors, which is to hold its exhibition shortly at the American Art Galleries. He paints for the most part in pure wash and thus achieves an effect of luminosity even where his architectural subjects are dark in color and ponderous in structure.

He paints interior scenes at Blenheim Palace and the Cabinet Meeting Room at 10 Downing Street with the same relish for character and he adds to the impression of accuracy and freshness that of ponderability, a quality highly characteristic of the fabric of aristocracy in England. His American subjects are Mrs. Havemeyer's drawing room, in Thirty-fourth Street, and her drawing room on Long Island; Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney's dining room, and a bedroom in the residence of W. K. Vanderbilt.

The most aesthetically successful of the water colors is the interior of the Mosque of St. Sophia at Constantinople, where the swimming light, coming from many windows, is the real theme of the picture and is gained without sacrifice of solidity in the architectural features.

EXPLAINS ABOUT BOY-ED.

British War Trade Minister Tells Why He Got Safe Conduct.

LONDON, Oct. 31.—In the House of Commons today Carlyon W. Bellairs asked Lord Robert Cecil, War Trade Minister, why the Foreign Office had granted a free conduct to Captain Karl Boy-Ed, formerly German Naval Attaché at Washington, at the time his withdrawal was requested by the American Government.

Mr. Bellairs also asked whether Lord Robert was aware that Captain Boy-Ed was "the head of an organization engaged in forgery, murder, and arson in the United States," and was "organizing occasional U-boat operations off the American coast from Lubeck."

Lord Robert replied that the safe conduct had been given to Captain Boy-Ed in deference to the officially expressed wish of the United States Government. The British Government felt that the Captain's capacity for injuring the interests of this country was at least not greater in Germany than in the United States. The Government had no reason to regret this view.

Regarding Mr. Bellairs's inquiry in regard to Captain Boy-Ed's present activities, Lord Robert said:

"I have no reason to doubt that all Mr. Bellairs says about Captain Boy-Ed is true. Some of it is officially known to be true, but I do not think anything would be gained by announcing that no further safe conducts would be granted."

EDISON CO. OPPOSES RATE.

Brooklyn Corporation May Appeal Against Commission's Order.

It was learned yesterday that the Edison Electric Illuminating Company of Brooklyn had practically decided, at a conference held last Saturday, to ask the courts to set aside the order of the Public Service Commission reducing the company's rates from 11 cents per kilowatt hour to 8 cents. The company was directed to put the new rate into effect on Dec. 1 and to maintain it for one year, when the hearing might be reopened to determine whether the rate worked an injustice to the company or whether it should not be further reduced.

A representative of the company said last night that the Directors felt the order was unfair. That part of the commission's report which fixed the value of the company's property at $22,000,000, which is $16,000,000 less than the value placed upon it by the company, aroused much bitter comment on the part of those having a big financial interest in the company.

If the company decides to appeal to the courts, an application will be made to the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court to set aside the commission's order aside.

CECIL PRAISES GERARD.

Expresses Gratitude for His Work for British Captives.

LONDON, Oct. 31.—Lord Robert Cecil, Minister of War Trade, announcing in the House of Commons today the transfer of the responsibility for matters relating to British prisoners in enemy countries from himself to Lord Newton, Under Secretary for Foreign Affairs, took occasion to express "in the strongest language at my command the deep debt of gratitude which, in my judgment, this country owes to Ambassador Gerard in securing better conditions for British prisoners." Lord Robert added:

"Whatever may have been true at the beginning of the war, I believe it is no longer true that British prisoners are treated worse than those of other nationalities, and this relative decency is due almost entirely to the exertions of the American Embassy. At the same time, I should not like to conceal from the House that conditions in some of the camps in Germany and other countries are still very far from satisfactory."

POPE PRESENTS PICTURES.

Autographed Photographs for G. B. Baker and H. C. Hoover.

ROME, Oct. 31.—Pope Benedict today received in private audience George Barr Baker of New York, a member of the American Commission for Relief in Belgium. Wishing, he said, further to demonstrate his appreciation of the work of the American Relief Committee, the Pontiff presented to Mr. Baker two autographed photographs, one for himself and one for Herbert C. Hoover, the Chairman of the commission.

The Pope expressed the hope that the plan of the commission to provide a supplementary meal for the Belgium children to save them from starvation and disease would be a success, and added that it would give a new proof of American generosity. He recently addressed an apostolic letter to Cardinal Gibbons recommending that the Roman Catholic Episcopacy, clergy and laity in the United States support the plan.

RUSSIAN BLACKLIST NOW.

Heavy Penalties Provided for Trading with Proscribed Firms.

PETROGRAD, Oct. 31.—A "blacklist," similar to the one in force in Great Britain and including the names of most of the foreign firms trading with enemies of Russia, will soon be published by the Ministry of Trade and Industry in accordance with a decision of the Council of Ministers which needs only the signature of the Emperor to become a law.

The maximum penalty for infraction of this measure will be one year and four months imprisonment, or a fine of 25,000 rubles.

Honor for 50 Years' Work.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—Thomas Griffin, stationery clerk of the Department of State, rounded out half a century of service in that department today, which was also his seventy-fifth birthday.

To commemorate this dual occasion, his friends in the department presented to him a gold watch bearing the inscription, "From Friends in the Department of State to Thomas Griffin, 1866-1916, Oct. 31, 1916."

NO RACE FAVORITISM IN THE U. S. ARMY

INGRAHAM WRITES TUMULTY

Acting Secretary Refutes Statement That Jews Do Not Make Good Soldiers.

Special to The New York Times.

ASBURY PARK, N. J., Oct. 31.—A letter indicating the attitude of the War Department on race favoritism in the Government service was given out for publication at the White House executive offices today. The letter, which was dated Oct. 21, was written to Joseph P. Tumulty, secretary to the President, by William M. Ingraham, Acting Secretary of War, regarding the department's action on certain passages in a recently published book written by Captain Le Roy Eltinge, entitled "Psychology of War."

Mr. Ingraham's letter was occasioned by criticisms of alleged anti-Semitism in a chapter of the "Psychology of Races," made by Louis S. Berlin, manager of the Sentinel Publishing Company of Chicago. In his communication the Secretary says that "the policy of the department is uniformly to discourage in the army anything calculated to reflect in any manner on men of any particular race or creed," and that Captain Eltinge will be directed to go over the book carefully and expunge all objectionable portions.

Mr. Ingraham's letters follows:

War Department.
Washington, Oct. 21, 1916.

Hon. J. P. Tumulty, Secretary to the President, Asbury Park, N. J.

My dear Mr. Tumulty: I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 14th instant, inclosing a letter from Mr. Louis S. Berlin, manager of the Sentinel Publishing Company of Chicago, relative to the article in The Chicago Sentinel on anti-semitism, in which exception is taken to certain extracts from a book written by Captain Le Roy Eltinge, U. S. A., on the ground that they are derogatory to the Jewish race.

In response thereto, I beg leave to inform you that the policy of the department is uniformly to discourage in the army anything calculated to reflect in any manner on men of any particular race or creed, and not to tolerate anything that would savor of race discrimination. The statements quoted in The Sentinel are correct quotations from Captain Eltinge's book, and are regarded as highly objectionable by the War Department. Captain Eltinge will therefore be directed to go over the book carefully and to expunge therefrom all objectionable portions.

The Jewish race has, undoubtedly, furnished many able officers and many brave soldiers to all the armies of the world, and the department is satisfied that many such are now in our own army. Their valuable services are appreciated, and it is gratifying to know that they are properly enjoying in the army equality of rights and privileges with men of other peoples and creeds.

Very sincerely yours,
WILLIAM M. INGRAHAM,
Acting Secretary of War.

The passage in Captain Eltinge's book to which Mr. Berlin objected especially reads as follows:

> Another large proportion of our population is made up from the Jews. It is said that there are today more Jews in Chicago than in Palestine. For centuries he has been without a country. He doesn't know what patriotism means. Recruiting officers find he does not average up with the other applicants physically. He has not been a soldier for over 2,000 years. For the same length of time he has preferred trading to doing work with his hands.
>
> The soldier's lot is hard physical work. This the Jew despises. He does not have any of the qualities of a good soldier; nevertheless, he is highly religious and very susceptible to the moral sentiments of his race. He has tenacity of purpose, and under pressure can patiently endure much. In a cause which appealed to his peculiar kind of mind, and led by officers who know how to get the best out of him, he might do surprisingly well as a soldier, but unless we can touch the latent mainspring of character that 2,500 years ago made him a soldier to be respected we will find him of little account.

Captain Eltinge is attached to the Fifteenth United States Cavalry.

NAVY TO OPEN MORE BIDS.

Will Consider Today Proposals for Cruisers and Submarines.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—Bids will be opened at the Navy Department tomorrow for four scout cruisers and twenty-seven coast type submarines, leaving only proposals for four battle cruisers to be received before construction of all the 1917 building program can begin. Bids for four battleships and twenty destroyers are now under consideration at the department, and awards probably will be made next week.

The scout cruisers are a new type for the navy, designed to make a sustained speed of 35 knots an hour. Each will be equipped with a catapult device for launching airplanes at sea, and will carry aircraft to extend its zone of daylight operations.

The submarines will be of the same type as the present O-boats of the navy, having in the neighborhood of 600 tons displacement. They are intended for work close to shore, although their fuel capacity will be sufficient to permit them to cross the ocean.

While awards for the four battleships will not be made for a week, it is known that examination of the proposals submitted a week ago has shown that the Newport News Shipbuilding and Dry Dock Company and the New York Shipbuilding Company have submitted the lowest figures. Each company probably will receive contracts for two ships. The Fore River Company of Quincy, Mass., submitted bids under various modifications, and included a plan under which a sliding scale would meet changes in the cost of labor during the construction of the ships. Officials of the department do not look favorably on this plan, although no recommendations have been made as yet to Secretary Daniels.

BUFFALO LAWS INVALID.

Court of Appeals Decides Against Vote on Municipal Lighting Plant.

ALBANY, Oct. 31.—Residents of Buffalo will not be permitted to decide by referendum on election day whether a municipal electric light and power plant shall be provided there and whether a proposed telephone merger shall be approved, the Court of Appeals ruled today.

The decision was reached in a taxpayer's action which questioned the legality of a Common Council ordinance intended to authorize the submission of the two questions to the voters. Chief Judge Bartlett wrote the prevailing opinion, which held the ordinance invalid. Judge Pound, although concurring in the general result, wrote a memorandum sustaining the ordinance, but holding that the questions were prepared for submission in improper form.

SENDS GREETINGS TO JAPAN.

President Felicitates Emperor on His Thirty-seventh Birthday.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—At President Wilson's direction the State Department today sent a cablegram to Emperor Yoshihito, of Japan, expressing greetings from this Government on the occasion of the official observance of the thirty-seventh anniversary of the Emperor's birth. Hope was expressed that the Emperor's reign would be "one of further progress and prosperity."

Although the Emperor was born on Aug. 31, his birthday is observed, according to custom, on Oct. 31, because of the excessive heat which prevails in Japan in August.

CARLSTROM HOPES TO START FRIDAY

ANOTHER SUCCESSFUL TRIAL

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Oct. 31.—Once more the vagaries of the weather have caused the postponement of THE NEW YORK TIMES nonstop aeroplane flight from Chicago to New York. Today, as yesterday, the difficulty was the unreliability of the wind, on which Victor Carlstrom, THE TIMES aviator, is depending for twenty-five to thirty miles of the 100 odd miles an hour which he hopes to make on the flight.

The disappointment today was heightened by the fact that for the greater part of the afternoon the wind in Chicago was ideal for Carlstrom's purpose, and, despite the warnings of the Weather Bureau that this was only transitory, and that variable winds such as would be of little use to the aviator must be looked for tomorrow, Carlstrom and Charles B. Kirkhan, who is in charge of the aeroplane for the Curtiss Aeroplane and Motor Company until its start, were hoping up to sunset that it might be possible to get away tomorrow. But at sunset the wind died away completely, and with no promise of more to follow immediately Carlstrom realized that the area over which the wind was favorable would be small, and that he would probably be flying through a calm or through chopy winds for most of his trip.

So the flight will not take place tomorrow, and probably not on Thursday. The weather forecasts given to Carlstrom by the local bureau indicate that fresh westerly winds will rise again on Thursday afternoon in the neighborhood of Chicago and will blow all day Friday. This means that if the aviator starts at sunrise on Friday he should have favorable winds all through his course, and there is as yet no reason to expect other than clear weather. So when Carlstrom decided this evening that it would be impossible to fly tomorrow he fixed on Friday tentatively as the date, with the reservation that if conditions should appear more favorable tomorrow night he might decide on Thursday instead.

Result of a Storm in Alaska.

Officials of the Weather Bureau explain the conditions about Chicago this week as the result of a storm in Alaska, which has produced two auxiliary disturbances here. The first and smaller of these caused the fresh winds of today, which lasted only a few hours. Perhaps forty-eight hours behind this disturbance comes the second, which will bring the strong westerly winds of Thursday night and Friday, and will be followed by a cold wave. The lower temperature following on the Alaska blizzard is expected to reach the Northwestern States on Thursday and to be in Chicago by Friday or Saturday, but the aviator, getting away on Friday morning before the disturbance has produced any manifestations except the wind, will be favored by the air currents and will, in addition, be just ahead of the uncomfortably cold weather which might make his flying at a height of six or eight thousand feet extremely difficult.

Carlstrom visited the army aviation field at Ashburn, from which his flight will start, this afternoon, and flew for a short time with the full load that the machine will carry on the cross-country flight. As in the previous trials, it stood up without indicating any weaknesses, and, so far as can be seen now, only unfavorable weather conditions can prevent the successful conclusion of the flight. This is the consensus of the judgment of outsiders, however; Carlstrom and Kirkham, used to the uncertainties of flying and realizing that in such an unparalleled strain there is always a chance of some unforeseen weakness making itself known, are too conservative to make confident assertions as to what will or will not happen. But Carlstrom stands by the statement which he made on the day of the announcement of the trial: "If I didn't think I could get away with it I wouldn't do it," and each day's delay, irksome though it is, is regarded as only another precaution to guarantee that the flight, when it actually takes place, will have every chance of success.

More Letters for Carlstrom.

Another of the special letters which Carlstrom will carry was given to THE TIMES correspondent today by Major Gen. Thomas H. Barry, commanding the Central Department of the United States Army. It was addressed to General Leonard Wood, commanding the Eastern Department, and will be delivered to General Wood at his headquarters on Governors Island, where the aviator will land at the end of his flight.

Governor Edward F. Dunne has also included in Carlstrom's cargo a letter to Governor Whitman and one to THE TIMES. The Governor's particular interest in the flight arises from the demonstration which its success will give of the possibility of the establishment of a commercially profitable aeroplane mail and express route between Chicago and New York.

COUDERT MARVELS AT BRITISH EFFICIENCY

Says English Have 1,500,000 Soldiers in France and 3,000,000 at Home.

Frederic R. Coudert returned from a nine weeks' visit to the front in France, where he was the guest of General Sir Douglas Haig and General Foch. He said that the wonderful organization of the British Army impressed him more than anything else on his French tour.

"Never before in the history of the world," Mr. Coudert said, "has there been such speedy preparation. The aviation, artillery, ammunition and commissary supplies of the British forces in France are miraculous when it is considered how they started with nothing when hostilities began. England will reach the acme of her preparation for war next Spring, when she will have five guns for every one she has in the field now. There are 1,500,000 troops in France now and 3,000,000 more training in England.

"The United States could learn a great lesson on preparedness by sending army officers to study the organization of the large base camps at Calais, Etaples, Boulogne and Rouen, which I visited. As the troops arrive from England they are sent to the finishing camps at Calais and Etaples for two or three weeks to get a touch of war experience to qualify them for active service. They are initiated into trench life, wearing gas masks against gas clouds and throwing and dodging hand bombs, which has become an essential feature of modern warfare. I put on a mask and entered a trench full of gas which was almost unendurable for any length of time.

"The Commissary Department of the British Army is the best equipped in the world for feeding the soldiers in the field. The men get chocolate, bacon, jams, pies, mutton, beef, vegetables, bread, tea, coffee, fruit and all kinds of little luxuries, and the Canadian troops even have chewing gum served out to them.

"The British have bases for making aeroplanes in France and turn out hundreds of machines there in addition to instructing pilots. In one place near Etaples that I visited I saw more than one hundred aeroplanes of all descriptions. It was a wonderful sight to see the aviators arriving and departing continuously to make scout flights over the German lines.

"The German prisoners I saw looked happy, and are well fed. I spoke to some of them who had been at Contalmaison, and they described the fire of the British artillery as 'irresistibly hellish.' The battle was over just as I arrived on the scene, but I was in time to see the attack at Thiepval.

"It was wonderful to go through the German lines after they had been evacuated and see how the British gunners had destroyed what was considered the strongest fortification in Europe. The Curé of Contalmaison told me with tears in his eyes that he had been unable to find any traces of his old parish church on account of the deadly effect of the gunfire.

"When the war began the Germans were afraid to surrender to the British because they believed they would be slaughtered; but now that letters have been written home by prisoners telling how well they are treated and fed, the men give themselves up gladly, and are surrendering in hundreds daily, for the German soldiers are tired of the war.

"I was amused to read in THE NEW YORK TIMES that von Hindenburg had said that France was dying. Verdun has been won by the French forces, and deserters are coming over from the enemy in swarms daily. The French Army has reached its acme of efficiency and is organized to take full advantage of its victories and to minimize the effect of its losses. Germany is not beaten yet, and, if her defeat has to be effected by military force, officials of the Allies predict that the war may last another two years yet. No matter whether it is two, three or five years longer, the British Army will go on in the stubborn, steady, slow, sure way to the end which is so characteristic of the race."

DRESSMAKERS AT ODDS.

One Sues Other for "Copying" Models Eliciting an Unkind Retort.

The Boue Soeurs, a firm of French dressmakers with a branch at 13 West Fifty-sixth Street, filed suit in the Supreme Court yesterday against Hickson, Inc., of 661 Fifth Avenue for $25,000 damages and an injunction to restrain the defendant from copying or exhibiting certain gowns alleged to have been obtained from their store by a woman posing as a customer.

The complaint states that the plaintiffs have been importing to this country exclusive models of gowns and capes designed by them in their Paris store at 9 Rue de la Paix which contain their mark, "Boue Soeurs," and that Hickson, for the purpose of "palming off" the plaintiffs' importations as its own, caused a woman representing herself as Mrs. R. Bill to purchase certain gowns and a cape which she said she was buying for herself.

The plaintiffs allege that the buyer of the wearing apparel delivered it to the defendant, which took out the plaintiffs' marks and exhibited the articles as its own importations and the work of persons other than the plaintiffs. This, it is alleged, caused them $25,000 damage, and they seek an injunction to prevent any further exhibition of the articles.

It was denied last night on behalf of Hickson that there was any truth in the plaintiffs' charges. A representative of the defendant said the suit was the result of spite work because Mr. Hickson had declined to engage the plaintiffs in his business. Max D. Steuer, counsel for the defendant, said:

"The filing of the suit is an effort on the part of the plaintiffs to obtain advertising at the expense of Hickson. We do not regard the suit seriously. No injunction has been granted, and none will be."

MAILS ON A SPACE BASIS.

Change in System of Paying Railroads Went Into Effect at Midnight.

Transportation of mails on a space basis of pay instead of a weight basis was begun at midnight on most of the railroads throughout the country. E. M. Norris, Superintendent of the Railway Mail Service in the Second District, said that, as the department had been working on the new schedules for weeks, he could see no reason why the mails should not be delivered as promptly as usual.

Mr. Norris had carefully estimated the amount of space needed on each mail-carrying train, and the contracts were made in Washington accordingly. Additional contracts will be made for extra space when it is required during the Christmas season. Supt. Norris said one advantage to the department of the new system would be the facilities offered for keeping records of the amount of mail handled in the different districts and over the various routes.

In order to handle the mails under the new space system, the Lackawanna Railroad has established a new bureau, known as the Mail Traffic Department, and has obtained as Mail Traffic Agent Henry Foulkes, now Chief Clerk to Supt. Norris.

Corporation Earns in Record Quarter Enough to Pay Annual Rate of $49.80 on Common Stock.

The Steel Corporation earned $85,817,067 net in the quarter ended Sept. 30, $4,691,000 more than in the second quarter, which established a high record. The showing was considered satisfactory in the financial district when made public yesterday, although expectations were voiced a few weeks ago of at least $90,000,000. These extra-optimistic hopes were toned down in recent days through the receipt of information from the steel trade that mill operations in July and August had been considerably restricted by hot weather.

The Directors declared at their quarterly meeting yesterday an extra dividend of 1 per cent. on the common stock, the same as three months ago. This was in line with predictions in conservative Wall Street quarters. The usual disbursements of 1¼ per cent. on the common and of 1¾ per cent. on the preferred stocks were ordered, the former, together with the extra, being made payable Dec. 30 and the latter on Nov. 29.

The tremendous strides taken by the steel industry in recent months were illustrated by the earnings reported by months. In July the net income of the corporation was $25,650,006, smaller by $2,500,000 than in June, but nearly $8,000,000 greater than the best month of the first quarter. In August the figure advanced to $29,746,903 and in September to $30,420,058, far and away the best month in the corporation's history. September brought in more by nearly $8,150,000 than the entire third quarter of 1914 and about $18,000,000 more than the first quarter of that year.

In the following table the quarter's results are set forth, with comparisons, and the net earnings by quarters for three years to date:

The balance of $63,296,256 left for common stock dividends after the preferred dividend had been set aside was equal to 12.45 per cent. on the junior shares. This meant that the corporation produced a profit in the quarter which, if maintained for a full year, would amount to $49.80 for each of the 5,083,025 shares. In view of this imposing display, it is seen that the Directors were acting conservatively in keeping the common stock dividend rate on what amounts to an annual basis of $9 a share.

Heavier wear and tear on plants from the pressure of business than in other quarters was indicated in the statement made by the reservation of $10,614,659 for the depreciation account, compared with $9,745,826 in the June quarter, and $8,664,853 in the September quarter of last year. Apparently this reservation represented the product of capacity operations in the second quarter, as the mills were not so active in July and August as in May and June. A number of plants in the early Summer, according to steel men, worked at 110 per cent. of rated capacity.

All of the eighteen Directors except J. P. Morgan and George F. Baker, attended the meeting, Mr. Morgan being in Europe. The meeting lasted only a quarter hour, the shortest session of the year.

NO EUROPEAN 'DUMPING.'

Dr. Pratt Says There Will Be No Flood of Low-Priced Goods.

The belief prevalent in many quarters that the United States will be flooded with low-priced European products at the close of the war was attacked last night by Dr. Edward E. Pratt, Chief of the Federal Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, at the annual banquet of the American Manufacturers' Export Association, held at the Hotel Biltmore. E. M. Herr, President of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company and President of the association, presided. With him at the guests' table were the members of the American Industrial Commission, headed by W. W. Nichols, Chairman of the commission and Assistant Chairman of the Allis-Chalmers Manufacturing Company; Chairman Edward N. Hurley of the Federal Trade Commission, and others.

Dr. Pratt said that he believed the dumping theory to be based on a worn-out and obsolete conception of American national economy and he presented the latest available statistics to prove this.

"As a matter of fact," said Dr. Pratt, "I believe that Europe will be less able to compete with the United States at the conclusion of the war than ever before. What are the actual conditions in Europe at the present time? Stocks of all kinds of goods are literally exhausted. I am informed that the shelves in wholesale and retail establishments are stripped and that machinery of obsolete design is being pressed into service."

SOCIETY'S CHARITY SHOP.

"Zahrah" to be Opened for Trade Tomorrow at 1 East 49th Street.

A novel undertaking, unique in the annals of charity affairs and sponsored by society women, will be formally launched tomorrow when a fashion shop, to be known as "Zahrah," opens its doors for trade at 1 East Forty-ninth Street. A company has been incorporated to run the establishment, and it is distinctly a charity organization, the proceeds to be divided among several American and European charities.

Mrs. Harry H. Duryea is President of the Company, Mrs. Benjamin S. Guinness Treasurer, and Mrs. Julian L'Estrange Vice President.

The shop is to be run on strictly business lines, and the idea is to give the public something for its money when contributing to the various charities. The profits are to be divided among the St. Mary's Free Hospital for Children, Virginia Day Nursery, the Millicent Sutherland Ambulance, and the Three Arts Women's Employment Fund of London, and other organizations. The books are to be duly audited, and will be open to those interested in the work of the charities.

GEN. HWANG SING KILLED.

Chinese Commander Who Was Prime Mover of Rebellion of 1911.

CHESTER, La., Oct. 31.—General Hwang Sing, commander of the First Army of the Chinese Republic, has been killed, according to a cablegram received here today.

General Hwang Sing was formerly Provincial Minister of War, Commander of the Southern Army, Military Chief of the Southern Fukien, and President of the National Senate. He was credited with being the moving spirit of the rebellion of 1911, but recognized Dr. Sun Yat-sen as head of the reform movement and accepted for himself the office of Vice President of the new republic. Later General Hwang opposed Yuan Shi-kai, the President, who was reported to have put a price of $100,000 on his head.

General Hwang fled from China and came to New York in 1914, for the purpose, as he said, of studying American governmental methods. Later General Hwang returned to China. While in New York he was severely criticised by Professor Jeremiah W. Jenks of New York University, who said the General had come here to raise money. General Hwang replied to Professor Jenks, and for a time the controversy was of interest to those conversant with Chinese affairs.

General Hwang was active from his earliest years in opposition to the Manchus and was credited with having brought about the overthrow of that dynasty.

Mr. Pratt's first completed symphony was produced in Berlin in 1871, and in the Winter of that year he returned to Chicago and organized the Apollo Club. He also organized and directed the Chicago grand opera festival. Later he removed to New York, and at the Columbian Exposition in Chicago was in charge of the American Day program, where he directed a chorus of several thousand voices.

PASTOR RUSSELL DIES IN TEXAS TRAIN

Brooklyn Tabernacle Divine Expires from Heart Disease on His Way to New York.

HIS CHURCHES WIDECAST

Minister's "Miracle Wheat," Which Was Supposed to Produce Wonderful Crops, Gave Him Publicity.

CANADIAN, Texas, Oct. 31.—Charles Taze Russell, pastor of the Brooklyn Tabernacle, and known all over the country as "Pastor Russell," died from heart disease at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon on an Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fé train, en route from Los Angeles to New York. He complained of feeling ill after leaving Los Angeles, his secretary said, and gradually grew worse. The end come while the train was stopped at Pampa, Texas, near here. His body is being sent to Kansas City, Mo.

Pastor Russell, who was President of the Watch Tower Bible and Tract Society of Pennsylvania, of the International Bible Students' Association of London and the Peoples' Pulpit Association of New York, was in his sixty-fifth year. He was an independent minister and was born in Pittsburgh, receiving his education from private tutors. Pastor Russell began his work as an independent minister in 1878, in Pittsburgh.

At the time of his death he was pastor of churches all over the country from Maine to California, devoting the greater part of his time to the Brooklyn Tabernacle. Pastor Russell traveled nearly 30,000 miles each year in pursuance of his pastoral duties, including a trip to London, Eng., in connection with the work of the London Tabernacle congregation, of which he was pastor.

He always disclaimed being the founder of a new religion and he interpreted the punishment of the Bible as eternal death and not eternal torture.

Pastor Russell first came to this city in 1909, when he removed from Philadelphia and bought the old Bethel Chapel, at 17 Hicks Street, under the Brooklyn Bridge, in Brooklyn, and called it the People's Church. Not long after his congregations overflowed this little edifice and he rented the Brooklyn Academy of Music for his Sunday services.

In addition to being pastor of many congregations, Pastor Russell's Sunday sermons were published in about 2,000 newspapers. He was the author of a series of books of "Studies of the Scriptures," of which more than 700,000 copies were published each year since 1886. Pastor Russell was also editor of The Watch Tower and Herald of Christ's Presence, a semi-monthly journal of large circulation.

He received much publicity for several incidents of his life. One of these was in connection with the "Miracle Wheat," which was supposed to give wonderful crops and which was said to come out of the Tabernacle by some mysterious process. There was a certain amount of scandal connected with this, and Pastor Russell sued The Brooklyn Eagle for $100,000 damages for a story published about it in that paper. During this suit it was brought out that the millennium was due in the Fall of 1914—at about the time the European war started.

In addition to other things, Pastor Russell came into prominence when his wife sued him for divorce, and on June 8, 1909, he paid her $6,036 alimony following a court order handed down in Pittsburgh. When he first arrived in Brooklyn Pastor Russell attracted favorable attention by abolishing Hell. In this doctrine he said that he was only indorsing the belief of "Honest Abe" Lincoln, the martyred President.

A. A. U. CODE URGES PURE AMATEURISM

MANY RADICAL PROVISIONS

Supervisors of Sports, as Well as Athletes, Affected—May Give Up Control of Women Swimmers.

Providing for a sweeping house cleaning of amateur athletics, which means practically every sport not controlled by any central body other than the Amateur Athletic Union, the Committee on Revision of the Constitution of that organization yesterday made public the new constitution which, with the report of the Legislation Committee, will be presented for adoption at the annual convention of the A. A. U. at the Waldorf-Astoria on Nov. 29.

Containing more radical provisions than even the most ardent amateur connected with track and field sports and other games controlled by the A. A. U. could hope for, the provisions of the proposed constitution go at least as far in the interest of clean and pure athletics as the stringent regulations adopted during the Winter and Spring by the pioneer Intercollegiate Association of Amateur Athletes of America, the United States National Lawn Tennis Association and the United States Golf Association.

In the sincerity of its efforts to eliminate every possible taint of professionalism from amateur sport, the A. A. U. Committee on Revision not only provides for "amateurism on the field of competition," but also for "the governing of athletics by amateurs." In other words, it would bar from handling the reins of amateur legislation or supervision any person not a strict amateur. It would keep from the A. A. U. conclaves any man designated as a delegate who was listed as a professional. This is one of the sternest regulations in the new code, and is probably one of the few about which a fight will be waged at the coming convention.

Lines Up with Previous Action.

In line with the sentiment expressed by the general sports conference called last December by the Intercollegiate Association, the Amateur Athletic Union Committee, of which Seward A. Simons is Chairman, has adopted the entire definition of an amateur, the acts of disbarment, and the pardoning power clauses which were ratified by the general convention. This entire act, changed only slightly to conform with its own needs, has been lifted bodily into the proposed A. A. U. constitution and designated as Article X.

Some of the most important new regulations proposed by the Committee on Revision, which have long been hoped for by lovers of true amateur sport and which were delayed until a wave of feeling recently swept the country, follow:

The barring from the councils of the Amateur Athletic Union of every delegate who cannot present a clean bill of amateurism.

The adoption of the following definition of an amateur, which was accepted by every organization represented at the I. C. A. A. A. A. conference: "An amateur sportsman is one who engages in sport solely for the pleasure and physical, mental, or social benefits he derives therefrom and to whom sport is nothing more than an avocation."

The acts of disbarment, which put under ban any athlete guilty of fraud, who competes for money, who coaches for money, the capitalization of athletic fame, and the engaging for financial benefit in any occupation in which an athlete's usefulness arises from publicity given to his reputation.

The adoption of the pardoning power clauses, which fit to the crime the punishment an athlete must suffer for being guilty of any act entailing disbarment.

This latter measure is ultra-radical from the A. A. U. viewpoint, for it will allow of the reinstatement of a professional coach after a period of five years beginning from the time he gives up the occupation, who heretofore has been ever under the ban of the Amateur Athletic Union.

The provision which will permit one member of the Board of Governors from any association to cast the full vote of that association—unless the other members decide against the action—in a letter to the Secretary.

The adoption of an additional provision which protects the right of college students to represent educational institutions in cases where the college term closes prior to June 1, and in instances where college attendance is not required in consecutive semesters.

Legislative Committee's Views.

The Legislative Committee of the A. A. U. of which Justice Bartow S. Weeks, also a member of the Revision Committee, is Chairman, has inspected the proposed code and has made several recommendations on its own part.

The most important of these is that the Amateur Athletic Union give up entire control of women's swimming, leaving the game where it was two years ago without a national organization. The code of the Committee on Revision provided for the continuance of supervision by the Amateur Athletic Union of swimming among women and for the registering of women swimmers. Justice Weeks's recommendation would do away with both.

The Legislation Committee also recommends that no member of the Board of Governors be allowed to cast more than one vote, which would nullify the suggestion of the Committee on Revision that any member be permitted to cast the full vote of his association.

One of the most important features of the proposed new code is that which would give to the Board of Governors, not the National Registration Committee, the power to reinstate any athlete who has lost his registration card through some violation of the rules, provided, of course, that he has done penance enough to be purged of his sin.

To many officials of the Amateur Athletic Union the question of barring as a delegate to the national convention any person other than a strict amateur is the most important and most radical provision made by the Simons committee. The regulation covering this point reads: "Every active member must elect annually six delegates to represent it at meetings of the union, and such delegates must be amateurs and members in good standing belonging to such member, and may also elect six alternates of such delegates, who must be amateurs and members of its own, or of any active member's clubs; except that no member of the Board of Governors shall be elected an alternate, and in no case shall any delegate or alternate represent more than one active or allied member."

Vexing Questions Would Arise.

This rule, which appears likely to raise a storm of disapproval from many A. A. U. quarters, would eliminate from the Amateur Athletic councils several of its most active workers. What will constitute an amateur when it comes to election of delegates is not prescribed, but the candidate will undoubtedly be subjected to the same stringent rules which will be applied to competing athletes. It is probable that most of the new code will be accepted, but not without opposition.

In practical terms, the proposed constitution would bar from the amateur ranks, temporarily or forever, as the act may warrant, any athlete coming under the following headings in respect to transgressions:

A. One who has competed in any competition under an assumed name, or who has been guilty of any fraud or other grossly unsportsmanlike action.

B. One who directly or indirectly derives pay or financial benefits as a reward or consideration for participating in any sport or in any public competition or exhibition, or who disposes of prizes for personal gain.

C. One who directly or indirectly receives pay or financial benefits for instructing or preparing any person for any exhibition or competition in any sport, when such act was not merely an incident to his main vocation or employment.

D. One who grants or sanctions the use of his name to advertise or promote the sale of, or to act as the personal solicitor for the sale, or as the actual salesman of sporting goods, prizes, trophies, or other commodities for use chiefly in or in connection with games or exhibitions in any sport.

Or, one who engages for financial benefit in any occupation wherein his usefulness or value arises chiefly from the publicity given or to be given to the reputation or fame which he has gained from his performances in any sport rather than from his ability to perform the usual duties incident to such occupation or transaction. This is capitalization of athletic fame.

This latter clause would put the ban on athletes who write signed articles for newspapers, who solicit trade for jewelry houses, and who hold various positions with sporting goods firms.

Clause Affecting Golf Players.

E. One who participates in an exhibition or competition as an individual and not merely as a member of a team against one or more ineligible persons, without having obtained special permission to do so from the organization governing such competition or exhibition, unless it is the general practice or custom in such sport for such character of competition or exhibition. (This means that an amateur golfer could compete in an open tournament against a professional, yet not bar himself from competition as an amateur on the cinderpath.)

One who competes on a team upon which there are one or more members who have received, do receive, or will receive money, directly or indirectly, for participating, without having before obtained the consent in writing from the National Registration Committee. (This refers to Summer baseball, a question which long has agitated and baffled amateur athletic authorities.)

One who participates in any competition or exhibition as a member of a team against another team one or more members of which are ineligible to compete as amateurs in the sport in which the participation occurred, unless the team competed against represents a well established organization, and also unless the contest or exhibition is in a generally recognized sport and either between groups or players participating at one time, or consists of a series of individual contests which, both as to the number and character thereof, constitute a generally recognized series of standard events.

The power of pardoning, which is wide in scope, is intrusted to the Board of Governors in the following terms: "The Board of Governors shall have the power to relieve a person of the effect of his commission of any of the acts by reason of which he would cease to be eligible to compete as an amateur, when it is shown to its satisfaction that such act was committed through ignorance (of the character, not the consequences, thereof,) inadvertence, or excusable error, or was committed in a sport in which there was at the time of commission no general competition by amateurs, or was made obligatory by military authorities.

The Unforgivable Transgressions.

The most important point in connection with the pardoning power is that the bars will never be raised for any athlete who is guilty of fraud or who competes for money—in the latter case, in any sport over which the A. A. U. has jurisdiction. In instances where the infringement occurred in a sport not governed bythe A. A. U., the Board of Governors may reinstate after five years.

In the case of coaches, where it is satisfactorily shown that the breach did not occur in a sport controlled by the A. A. U., a man might be reinstated at the discretion of the governors, or if the act did occur in an A. A. U. sport the coach might be reinstated five years after he has agreed to violate the rules no longer.

One who has capitalized his athletic fame may get back into good standing after he has proved good faith in giving up the illegal pursuits—illegal so far as amateurism is concerned. For violations of Clause E penalties of a year's suspension will be inflicted.

The main outstanding feature of the recommendations made by the Legislation Committee is that calling for the abolition of control over women's swimming. This measure will not be put through without a fight, however, for there are many who believe the sport has been ably controlled by the Amateur Athletic Union.

Justice Weeks's committee, in its recommendations for changes in the regulations of competition, advises the return to the old drawing system in boxing and wrestling, inasmuch as the Boston method has proved a failure. The committee wants the draw to take place after all the preliminary and semi-final rounds.

The committee would also suspend any boxer or wrestler who enters a tournament and then fails to compete; would have the extra rounds in a boxing bout three minutes instead of two; would substitute a five-mile run for the hop, step, and jump on the indoor track championship program, and would add to the official championship program the pentathlon, decathlon, steeplechase, all-around, and relays at a quarter, half, mile, two miles, and three miles.

The rating of officials is being tried for the first time this year by the Officials Committee. Officials are rated at A and B grades, the former being the more competent and experienced. The B men will be rated higher as their work improves.

WILL START BASKET BALL.

Coach Merner Calls First Columbia Practice for Tonight.

Carl J. Merner, the new coach of the Columbia basket ball team, who succeeded Harry A. Fisher, has called the first practice for this evening. Manager Henry E. Hochette has practically completed his schedule, and the first game will come early in December. Two members of the squad, Captain-elect A. B. Wilber and J. A. Healy, both veterans, will not be able to report regularly until after the football season. Healy is Captain of the gridiron team. Other veterans are Latour and Roberts, forwards; Leonard, centre, and Littauer, guard.

NICK YOUNG, ONCE LEAGUE HEAD, DIES

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—Nicholas E. Young, one of the pioneer figures of the national game of baseball in America and from 1881 until 1903 President of the National League of professional baseball clubs, died this morning at the home in this city of his son, Robert H. Young, 1,626 Newton Street, Northwest. Mr. Young, who was 76 years old, had been an invalid for the past four years. He attended most of the games played here by the Washington Club of the American League until his health failed, and never relinquished his interest in the sport he had so greatly helped to develop. As "Uncle Nick" Young he was known to lovers of baseball the world over.

Mr. Young was the son of Almarin T. and Mary Miller Young, and was born in Amsterdam, N. Y., Sept. 12, 1840. He moved while still a small boy to Old Fort Johnson, the former baronial home of Sir William Johnson, at Aken, N. Y., and built before the French and Indian war by that famous colonist. While living there he attended the public school and academy at Amsterdam.

His father was a miller and contractor on a large scale, and with him the son worked until 1862, when he enlisted in the Thirty-second New York Infantry and with that regiment and later with the United States Signal Corps served until the end of the war and engaged in all the important battles of the Army of the Potomac.

His taste for athletics, which was later to bring him such well-deserved prominence, was developed at an early age. He showed unusual ability on the local cricket club, playing against Canadian organizations both in this country and in Canada, and was but 18 years of age when selected as a member of the New York State team picked to play against the New York City Club in 1858.

He was a member of the Olympics and Secretary and manager of the famous old Nationals, for whom the present American League team is named. In 1872 he managed the Lord Baltimore Club of Baltimore and two years later the Chicago Club. In 1871 Mr. Young issued a call for the first meeting of professional clubs to be held March 17 in New York. The National Association was formed and he was elected its Secretary, which position he held until the National League superseded that organization. He then became Secretary of the latter, serving in that capacity throughout the Presidencies of Governor Bulckley, William A. Hulbert, and A. G. Mills.

In 1881 he was elected President of the National League, and served continuously until 1903, when he was succeeded by Harry Pulliam, then of the Pittsburgh Club. Mr. Young's Presidential term included the famous Brotherhood war of 1890, the conflict with the old American Association a year later, and the troubles incidental to the establishment of the present American League.

In 1872 Mr. Young married Mary E. Cross of this city. He is survived by her and by four children, as follows: Robert H. Young, Dr. Hulbert Young of Baltimore. Ford E. Young, and Mrs. Lee Crandall, Jr.

JOHNSON DISPUTES FULTZ.

Denies Players Are Not Paid When Incapacitated in Game.

CHICAGO, Oct. 31.—B. B. Johnson, President of the American League, today disputed the charge by David L. Fultz, President of the Baseball Players' Fraternity, that ball players in the American League were not paid while incapacitated through injuries received while playing. The charge was made by Mr. Fultz recently in his demands for new conditions made on the National Commission. Johnson today telegraphed Fultz to produce the contracts or retract the charges.

TO HONOR COLUMBIA NINE.

Dinner for Team Which Lost Only One in Nineteen Games Last Spring.

Recognition of Columbia's 1916 baseball team will be given by the Athletic Association on Nov. 22 at a complimentary dinner at the Columbia University Club, Gramercy Park. The nine last Spring went through a schedule of nineteen games with only one defeat and led all colleges in team averages.

Among the speakers will be Captain Robert W. Watt and George Smith, both of whom signed with big league teams after the close of the college season late in June. Smith is on the pitching staff of the New York Giants and Watt, the property of the Detroit Americans, was loaned to the Newport News club of the Virginia League.

ORDERED TO STAGE BOUT.

Boxing Commission Acts Forcefully in Moha-Weinert Case.

At a meeting in the offices of the New York State Athletic Commission at 41 Park Row yesterday afternoon, the Show Corporation, conducting boxing bouts in Madison Square Garden, was ordered to hold the match between Bob Moha and Charles Weinert before scheduling any other bouts, and to pay each of these boxers $500 in addition to what the original contract called for.

Chairman Wenck, Commissioner Dwyer, and Secretary Mathewson listened to long arguments by Harry Pollok, manager of Weinert, and Patsy Callahan, Moha's manager. Although every officer and employe of record in the Show Corporation had been requested to appear by Secretary Mathewson, none of them was in attendance.

Chairman Wenck said the State boxing law gave the commission all the powers of the Supreme Court in the matter of serving subpoenas and inflicting penalties for non-appearance. Mr. Wenck said he would discuss the failure of the Show Corporation officials to appear with the Attorney General's Office today before deciding what the commission's next move would be.

Edward E. McCall, receiver for Madison Square Garden, was also served with a notice to appear, but was not represented at the meeting.

The commission decided to award cards or badges to all former members of the State Athletic Commission, making them honorary inspectors for life, and entitling them to free admission to all boxing clubs.

COWLER WINS ON POINTS.

English Heavyweight Boxer Has Better of Brennan.

Tom Cowler, the big English boxer, upset all forecasts at the Broadway Sporting Club of Brooklyn last night when he hammered and battered his way to a victory over Bill Brennan, the Chicago heavyweight. His margin of victory at the final bell was slight, it is true, but it was there.

In the early rounds Cowler was slow in getting warmed up, and Brennan found him a comparatively easy mark for his stinging left hand jab. From the fourth to the sixth session honors were about even. In the seventh round, however, Brennan spurted and several times rocked Cowler's head with a right hand uppercut. He was slow in following up the advantage, and Cowler came back in the eighth and tenth rounds and earned the honors by his aggressiveness.

Columbia Cub Harriers Lose.

A. Schnars, formerly of the Hotchkiss School, finished first yesterday in the Columbia freshmen-St. Benedict's School cross-country run over a three-mile Riverside Drive course. He led all the way and finished thirteen seconds ahead of J. Nolte of St. Benedict's team. The school boys won on team points, scoring 20 to the freshmen's 35.

RUNES HEADS FAST FIELD.

LAUREL, Md., Oct. 31.—The most successful season of Autumn racing ever held at the Maryland State Fair track closed this afternoon with an excellent card, the feature of which was the National Handicap, to which the association added $2,500.

After the last race today Colonel Matt Winn was asked if he was satisfied with the sport and the way the patrons have supported his plant.

In reply the manager said: "Without exception this has been the finest season we have ever had since I have been connected with the Laurel track. The attendance has passed all previous records. As regards the racing, it has been better than we ever had before. The fields have been larger and the thoroughbreds of a higher class. The mutuel machines have proved entirely satisfactory, and the play at times simply astonishing."

The Mirasol Stable's Runes won the National Handicap, defeating James Butler's Spur and Harry Payne Whitney's Borrow, which came along in the order named.

RACING AT PIMLICO TODAY.

Seven Events, Including Steeplechase, to be Run Each Day.

BALTIMORE, Md., Oct. 31.—Under the auspices of the Maryland Jockey Club, racing will start tomorrow at the historic Pimlico plant, which is situated well within the confines of the Monumental City. The course is the oldest in the State, and the meeting always attracts many spectators who do not visit the other tracks.

With the slogan, "No purse less than $700," there is every likelihood that the fixture will get away to a good start. In several of the races the added place of fourth will warrant horses being raced right up to the finish in order to gain that award, which is not usually forthcoming to any outside the money.

With the best interests of the sport at heart, officials of the Maryland Jockey Club have eliminted those forms of selling races which have given opportunity for some persons by reason of their greater wealth, influence, or other advantages to violate successfully the correct principles governing such races, and in lieu are offering a variety of free selling handicaps and claiming races, which it is hoped will afford equality of opportunity to all who enter their horses in these events.

There will be seven races each day, including a steeplechase, the latter course being one of the best in the country. All the races for tomorrow have filled well, and the class of horses which will run guarantees some fine contests.

SOREHEADS IN ELI CREW.

Seven of Its Eight Skulls Bumped by Low Bridge.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 31.—While rowing at high speed up the harbor late today the coxswain of the second Yale freshman shell misjudged the unusually high tide and seven of the eight oarsmen struck their heads against one of the low arches of the Chapel Street bridge. The men were nearly knocked out of their seats, and the frail craft narrowly escaped capsizing. A medical examination disclosed that none of the injuries was serious.

TIGER THE TARGET FOR HARVARD'S AIM

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Oct. 31.—The Harvard football forces were gathered in the Stadium again this afternoon and were pointed in earnest toward the Princeton game, to be played on Nov. 11. The unusual importance of this year's Cornell match made the coaches willing to prepare for it with a single mind, but now the team enters into the last four weeks of the campaign, and with regard only for Princeton and Yale.

The Tigers' poor showing against the Dartmouth team last week did not serve to make the Harvard football mentors underestimate the work they have before them in order to beat the Jerseymen again this year. Last year the teams were evenly matched at Princeton, and that the Tigers have a veteran team this Fall while Harvard has a green one is by no means forgotten. Harvard expects the Princeton team to pick up fast in the next week and a half, and also feels certain that Yale will have its best team in years this Fall.

The work in the Stadium today was entirely between the 'Varsity players and the substitutes. So far Harvard has shown very little variation in its play, although there was a slight shift from straightaway football against Cornell.

The fact that the coaches regard both Yale and Princeton more seriously than for the past few years naturally means that the team here will make every effort to have a game ready that is not built up along the usual lines. Harvard's plans for the two coming games will be guarded closely.

This afternoon the first-string players had some hard work, but with no idea of scoring. The scrubs, as usual, are getting ready to demonstrate Princeton's plays, and these will be tried out in due time. In the line-up today Sweetser was at right tackle instead of Caner, while, with Clark back in his regular place on the right wing, Snow was at left guard in Dadmun's place. The Harvard leader, however, will be back soon after a good rest. Murray had charge of the team at quarter in Robinson's absence, while Bond and Willcox were in the first set of backs.

CORNELL BARS ONLOOKERS.

ITHACA, N. Y., Oct. 31.—None but the coaches and subs will be allowed in the Schoellkopf stadium for the remainder of the Cornell season, Dr. Sharpe announced today. This rule was put into effect for the first time this afternoon, and will be strictly enforced for the remainder of the season. The chief reason given for this drastic move is that there have been too many scouts hovering around the Cornell camp. In the Harvard game the Crimson team seemed to solve the Cornell formations with ridiculous ease.

The 'Varsity team this afternoon, with several changes, went through a tough scrimmage practice, and started the working out of the later season plays to be aimed at Michigan and Pennsylvania. Gillies, left tackle; Benedict, left half back, and Miller, left guard, were out of the line-up today. In Benedict's place Speed played; Sutton was at tackle, and Babe Taylor played at guard. These changes and others may become permanent as the result of the poor showing of a number of the regulars in the Harvard game.

NEW QUARTER AT PENN.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 31.—Fighting hard for a chance to direct the field play of the Penn eleven, little Jimmy Bryant, a sophomore, from Battle Creek, Mich., showed surprising ability when he was tried for the first time as 'Varsity quarterback, in practice, on Franklin Field this afternoon. Jimmy injected what his mentor, Bob Folwell, called pep, as he sent the gridiron warriors through their plays. No sooner was one manoeuvre completed than he started another, and the players were kept on the alert every second.

Folwell is now thinking seriously of starting Bryant at quarter against Lafayette. Bell and Light have had chances in preference to the Westerner, who made good the few minutes he was in play against Pittsburgh last Saturday. Howard Berry was at full back in the practice. His punting was up to his average and he said he felt no effects from his injured leg.

ARMY TRIES NEW PLAYS.

Special to The New York Times.

WEST POINT, Oct. 31.—The Army resumed its heavy work on the gridiron today. Tackling and punting occupied the attention of Daly and his advisers in the early part of the matinée, and for an hour the team was sent driving up and down the field. During the scrimmage work the 'Varsity showed dash, but lapsed into raggedness on several occasions. Place and Vidal carried the ball most of the time. The new formations and plays designed for the Notre Dame game on Saturday were thoroughly tried out, but it was evident that they need some polish before they can be used effectively. An improvement in the interference for the runner was noticeable today, when the backfield man carrying the ball was taken well past the line of scrimmage each time in the brush with the scrubs.

AMHERST DEVELOPING LINE.

Special to The New York Times.

AMHERST, Mass., Oct. 31.—Well satisfied with the showing against Wesleyan on Saturday, Coach Riley started his men on a hard week's work, which, it is hoped, will result in a defeat of Trinity, Amherst's next opponent. Perfecting the line play, developing a substitute backfield, and getting an effective forward pass into working order are expected to be the chief activities of the week.

Little scrimmage beyond dummy line work against the scrubs was on today's program. The line was coached carefully in the defensive game, and held its ground well. In practice in forward passing Forbes showed ability on the receiving end as well as hurling a number himself. Washburn and Loomis, a sub, caught Bodenhorn's fast throws in good style. In the backfield, Schmid, centre the early part of the season, has apparently cinched a place at half back, after playing that position in the Wesleyan game with only one day's practice. Captain Goodrich and Full Back Melcher were given a rest, and Perkins went through signal practice as a half back.

Mrs. Ryan Wins at Baltusrol.

Women golfers of the Baltusrol Golf Club held their weekly tournament on the club's links yesterday afternoon, competition for three prizes constituting the program. In a bogie contest Mrs. F. B. Ryan, Cranford, carried off the honors, finishing 1 up. Mrs. Roberts, Short Hills, accounted for the putting prize. The prize offered for the smallest number of putts on the various greens went to Mrs. S. F. Nash.

SIGNS OF FATIGUE AT YALE.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 31.—Slight signs of overwork and fatigue were apparent in the condition of several members of the Yale eleven today, largely produced, it is believed, by the unseasonably hot weather. Galt and half back Legore were laid off, Alfred Rosener, the former end, replacing Galt, and Joe Neville filling Legore's place. Since half back Bob Bingham has not returned from his week's vacation, caused by an attack of sore throat, Harold Carey was at left half back.

Neville and Carey figured in the chief ground gaining exploits, Neville taking the ball across the goal line for the only two touchdowns scored, going through guard on both occasions for about ten yards. Carey broke through the line for one gain of twenty-five and another of fifteen yards, and Smith got around end for one fifteen-yard gain. Because of the players' tired condition only ten minutes' scrimmaging was ordered. During the first minute the 'Varsity, which was opposed by the third eleven, was held on downs, but after a lecture by Head Coach Tad Jones, they carried the ball fifty yards in consecutive small gains for the first touchdown, and ninety yards for the second.

Guard Galt went to the infirmary this afternoon, and either Rosener or John Callahan, the former centre, is expected to be tried out at right guard Saturday. It was learned that the case of water on the knee which sent full back Emil Jacques to the infirmary yesterday will prevent his playing before next week.

McCABE TRIED AT QUARTER.

Metcalf Testing Substitutes for Raimondo at Columbia.

Coach Metcalf tried out a substitute quarterback at the Columbia practice yesterday, initiating McCabe as a possible understudy for Raimondo, who was injured in the Williams game. Raimondo was on the field in uniform, but his damaged shoulder will not permit him to engage in hard practice for several days and perhaps not for the Stevens game on Election Day.

Metcalf also alternated Cochran, right half back, with Fred Dunn, the right end. Dunn played in the rear line last season on the Freshman eleven and Metcalf plans to continue the new combination for a thorough test for the next few days.

Van de Water, who was injured before the first game and who was out for three weeks, got his first assignment to the 'Varsity line yesterday. There was no scrimmage, but Metcalf kept the entire squad out on South Field so late that a white ball had to be employed.

FORDHAM SHOWS POWER.

With its scrub team showing as much strength as any of the other college elevens it has met this year, even including Lafayette, the Fordham 'Varsity displayed a form yesterday that makes the Maroon chances look considerably brighter for its big game of the season against Georgetown at Fordham Field next Tuesday. Starting with the kick-off of the practice game, which took up most of the session, the regular team paraded down the field for a score. The second team men tried hard, but they seemed powerless before O'Connell, the Maroon full back, and Erwig and Sweetland, who rounded the ends almost at will.

After the first touchdown Gargan gave the 'Varsity the ball at the 15-yard mark, and again it was carried across on four plays. Six times the same tactics were used, and resulted in scores. In spots the scrub team went beyond the expectations of the coach, Paul Conklin at tackle showing up exceptionally well. It is probable that a change may take place by Tuesday. The 'Varsity used several of its new plays for telling gains. Before the practice game the squad was put through a secret drill in the inclosed 'Varsity field. Later in the afternoon experiments were tried in developing a goal kicker, the big need at Fordham. Dempsey and Corcoran both scored from the 45-yard mark.

N. Y. U. SUB BACKS SPEEDY.

Despite a backfield composed virtually of substitutes, the New York 'Varsity team yesterday found the scrubs no greater opposition in the short scrimmage held on Ohio Field. The regulars penetrated the second team's defense time and again for substantial gains. Ted Cann played a half back position on the 'Varsity, and made the first score on a line plunge from the 15-yard line. Here Coach Eustis had the 'Varsity work up the field. Before darkness ended the practice they crossed the scrubs' goal line again, when Carroll, the left end, fell on a fumble from a play on the 1-yard line, following a 10-yard plunge by Cann. The backfield lined up as follows: Hammerschlag, Horigan, Cann, and Mackenzie. Mackenzie was the only regular in the quartet. Howard Cann, the Violet's kicker and backfield mainstay, was in togs, but his injured shoulder prevented any participation in the practice.

WESLEYAN WORKOUT HARD.

Strenuous Preparations Begun for Game with Williams.

Special to The New York Times.

MIDDLETOWN, Conn., Oct. 31.—After the light workout of yesterday the Wesleyan University football team settled down to real work this afternoon in preparation for Williams. Practice this afternoon consisted of a hard dummy drill by the whole squad, where plays and formations of offense and defense were tried out. Coach Kenan has this year inaugurated a system of dummy drill, in which man-like dummies replace the men of the squad. In this way injuries have been kept at a minimum, and every man is in excellent shape.

Near the close of the afternoon a real live scrimmage was held with the freshman eleven. The 'Varsity showed the same fight which has been characteristic thus far this season, and made many gains through the line and around the ends. No new formations or plays will be developed for the Williams game, but every effort will be made to perfect those already on hand. Saturday's game revealed another dropkicker in Captain Deetje when he booted the ball over from the thirty-five-yard mark.

New Head for Y. M. H. A. League.

After serving as the head of the Metropolitan League of Young Men's Hebrow Associations since the formation of the organization several years ago, Felix M. Warburg retired at the annual meeting held Monday night at the Ninety-second Street Branch Headquarters. As successor to Mr. Warburg as President the league elected Abraham Shiman of the Mount Vernon Division. Other officers chosen were: First Vice President, Cecil B. Ruskey; Manhattan; Second Vice President, William Sugarman, Borough Park; Treasurer, Lewis K. Goldman, New Rochelle; Secretary, Charles P. Kramer, West Side.

Offer to Match Howison and Wright

An offer was made last night at Maurice Daly's Billiard Academy to match Leonard Howison, former Canadian balk-line champion, with Chick Wright of San Francisco, for $500 a side. R. B. Benjamin, manager for Hoppe, has ranked Wright next to Hoppe as a balk-line player. Howison is now connected with the Racquet and Squash Club of this city.

COACH RUSH DRIVES TIGERS UNTIL DARK

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., Oct. 31.—A hard workout was in order for all the members of the Tiger squad today, and it was almost entirely dark when Coach Rush called a halt and sent the players to the showers. For nearly three hours the 'Varsity was sent through a long practice, which included dummy scrimmage, signal practice, and then scrimmage. Four teams were used, and practically every candidate had an opportunity to show his worth at some time during the practice.

Several of the Tigers have not yet recovered from the bruises which they received on Saturday, and several new men were in the first team lineup as a result. Ames was not out on the field today, as he is still suffering from the results of the contest, and Jack Eddy, although he was out on the field, was not allowed to take any part in active work. Captain Hogg also had a rest, and viewed the work of his teammates from the sidelines. None of the players is suffering any serious effects from the game against the Hanoverians, and the entire squad should be in condition by tomorrow or next day.

With the exception of Cyril Haas, who is now coming out in uniform, there are no men who are suffering from injuries of a serious nature. Billy Moore, who was kept out of the game for over two weeks, was able to go into the Dartmouth game for a few minutes, and is now taking his share of the daily hard workouts. He was on the field today, but was kept on the second team most of the time. Latrobe, who has been out of condition for a number of days, is also rounding into shape, but he will find a harder struggle on his hands to get back his old berth at tackle.

COLGATE IS WORKING HARD.

Special to The New York Times.

HAMILTON, N. Y., Oct. 31.—The Colgate squad had its first scrimmage of the week this afternoon, when the 'Varsity faced the scrubs for twenty minutes. Larry Bankhart is hard at work whipping his team into shape for the Yale game Saturday. The results of the Springfield game last Saturday were far from satisfactory. Colgate showed lack of ability in intercepting forward passes, a point which is now being drilled into the squad, to strengthen it in that respect.

Bubbell and Spencer are both on the hospital list, which leaves a big hole in the present line-up. Hayes received a slightly sprained ankle, and will be out of the practice for at least two days. The second team pushed the first-string men hard and rushed the 'Varsity on straight line plunges for a touchdown. Wyer carried the ball.

WOLVERINES TAKE IT EASY.

Special to The New York Times.

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Oct. 31.—For the second time in as many days Yost let his Wolverines off with only a light workout. With nothing to fear from Washington University Saturday the coaches are not risking overwork for the two remaining big games with Cornell and Pennsylvania. Only about half of the team appeared today for practice. Of those out, Morrie Dunne spent most of his time booting dropkicks.

Contrary to prevalent opinion Right Half Back Sharpe will not face the St. Louis team this week. Yost is taking no chances of having Maulbetsch's running mate injured again and will save him from the Cornell game next week. The same is true of Sparks, who was forced to quit the Syracuse fray early suffering from the injuries which had kept him out of practice all last week.

PENN TO PLAY CALIFORNIA.

Invitation Is Extended and Folwell Expects to Accept It.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 31.—Coach Bob Folwell of the Penn football team said on his arrival in Philadelphia that he considered the Pittsburgh eleven the strongest in America.

"I have played a lot of football myself," said Folwell, "and I consider the Pitt team the best 1916 eleven, and probably as good a machine as was ever produced. They have in Jimmy De Hart and Red Hastings two of the best half backs I have ever seen. Herron and Carlson are as good a pair of ends as can be found on any gridiron, while Bob Peck is an All-American centre.

"The Penn team was beaten by Pitt, but in another two weeks I will have my machine moving so smoothly that they would even give Pitt a battle. I don't want to rob Pitt of any glory. They are the best team I have ever looked at, but I do think that it should be said that I have labored under great handicaps.

"Once I get my machine set I will show one of the fastest football teams in the country. Penn's season is not entirely lost, for we yet have to face Lafayette, Michigan, Dartmouth, West Virginia, Wesleyan, and Cornell. I expect to win four of the five games, and the Red and Blue may yet beat Dartmouth even if the Green team did outplay the Tigers. I am starting today to rebuild my back field, and I think that when Penn goes to California on Dec. 22 my eleven will have a record which will compare favorably with that of almost any team in the country, bar Pittsburg."

If the Penn team makes good in its final games the football fans throughout the country will have a splendid opportunity of comparing the football strength of the East with that of the West. It may be possible for Penn to play two games while on the coast, but as the matter now stands it is only allowed to play the winners of the Pacific Coast championships at Pasadena on New Year's Day next.

Andy Smith, the coach of the University of California team, has written asking that, even should his team not win the championship, Penn consider a game with them at Frisco. Folwell said, "I am willing to play this game if arrangements can be made so that my eleven can return to Philadelphia by Jan. 7. This is the time limit the Faculty will allow for the Western trip, and if an extra game is to be played it must be played not later than Jan. 2. Penn will be ready for two hard games with only two days' rest by that time."

HOPPE HAS EASY TIME.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 31.—Willie Hoppe defeated George Sutton, 500 to 217, in the second block of a 1,500 point 18.2 balk-line billiard match for the world's title here tonight. The count now is 1,000 to 413 in favor of Hoppe.

Hoppe counted up 132 in the first two innings of the block, and then played listlessly the rest of the time in order that the game might have the semblance of a contest. In the sixth inning he made 41, in the ninth 39, and in the eleventh 52.

A couple of 32s and a 69 was the best Sutton could do, As on the previous night, both men seemed to be off form. Sutton was nervous and repeatedly missed easy ones, while Hoppe, although at all times the master of himself, lacked the finish that he has displayed in recent practice work in St. Louis.

ASKS GARRIE FOR DETAILS.

Supreme Court Justice Pendleton signed an order yesterday directing that a bill of particulars be filed by Daniel T. Garrie in a suit for $100,000 against the Consolidated Stock Exchange, in which Garrie alleges that members of the Exchange entered into a "wicked and malicious conspiracy" to expel him from the Exchange, and found him guilty on charges of "bucketing" an order given by his firm. Garrie also asks $5,000 damages because his next of kin have lost their interest in the Exchange's gratuity fund.

Miguel E. de Aguerro, President of the Exchange, in asking for the particulars, requested that Garrie be compelled to furnish details of his allegation that he didn't have a fair trial before the Board of Governors, the precise nature of "certain heinous crimes other than larceny" of which the plaintiff alleged he was accused, the names of the Governors who made the accusations against him and then acted as judges and voted to sustain the charges, and the names of witnesses whose examination was hindered and from whom testimony was excluded which would have shown the falsity of the charges against the plaintiff.

Court Takes German Name Away.

Supreme Court Justice Pendleton signed an order yesterday permitting the Misses Nathalie Estelle Grumbach and Marguerite Grumbach of 536 West 113th Street to change their name to Grenbar. The petitioners said that their parents were French, and that they had been subjected to ridicule from persons with whom the associate because they bore a German name. Miss Marguerite Grumbach said that she was a French teacher, and that bearing a German name had been a source of financial loss to her.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Trading Slows Down, with Irregular Price Changes—Steel Earnings Below Expectations.

There were more gains than losses at the closing of the market yesterday afternoon, but there was a marked falling off in speculative activity, and a pronounced tendency on the part of traders to proceed more cautiously. Ordinarily, the sinking of the Marina, with the indications pointing to the raising of fresh complications owing to the presence of Americans on board, would have sufficed for a sharp break in prices. That it brought about only a moderate decline is evidence that the public has taken a lesson from previous submarine scares, and refuses to be stampeded.

Nevertheless, the latest attack could by no possible twist of the facts be construed as a bullish argument, and with the election so near at hand the market was left more to the hands of professional operators. It was the first five-hour session in some weeks to show a total under a million shares, and the spectacular advances of specialties was less noticeable. The more conservative Stock Exchange leaders have been advising their customers to make sure of at least half of their profits and to limit their purchases to such a point that they will not have to sacrifice stocks if a severe break should take place. There is, as a matter of fact, little over-extension in this market, owing to the uncertainties of the situation and the refusal of most houses to carry buyers except on very wide margins.

The Street talked of little else yesterday but the forthcoming Steel quarterly statement, and by cutting down the optimistic forecasts that had been accepted last week got itself into a frame of mind where it was prepared for a moderate showing. Net earnings for the September quarter were $85,817,067, an increase of less than $5,000,000 over the preceding quarter. This was near the lowest estimate given credence in the preliminary discussions, which had not taken into account the contraction in output during the hot weather. The fact that September showed a balance of $30,420,000, against $29,747,000 in August and $25,650,000 in July, points to a considerably larger total for the current quarter. As it was, the surplus after charges, depreciation, and bond interest, was four times the $17,741,000 required for the payment of the regular quarterly dividends of both classes of stock, and the 1 per cent. extra declared for the second time on the common.

The Assay Office was in receipt of the usual $5,000,000 in gold, bringing the total for the year up to $477,000,000. Yesterday's consignment was bought by the Federal Reserve Bank, making $15,000,000 taken into its vaults in the past few days, with $10,000,000 more to be purchased.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Steel Deliveries in Winter.

It remains to be seen whether ultra-optimistic expectations in regard to earnings of the Steel Corporation in the last quarter will be borne out. Weather conditions worked to check mill operations in July and August and the weather may have opportunity to affect income in December. The hot, humid days of the Summer caused the workers to let down their exertions, and snow problems for the railroads are a possibility in the Winter. In order to receive payment for its goods the corporation must deliver the products contracted for, and heavy snows would have an adverse influence on this end of the business. This phase of the steel situation received comment in Wall Street circles after the third quarter results were made public yesterday. It could not be said, however, to have formed the basis for plans by the bears to sell Steel short in the near future.

The Trader's Paradise.

The trader in stocks could ask for nothing better than the opportunity offered him in the last two weeks. If he was not fortunate enough to select one of the specialties which have enjoyed unusual advances, the other industrials have afforded play for nimble operations. The railroads have not done much either way, but in issues like Central Steel, Republic Iron and Steel, Central Leather, Crucible, Utah Copper, Inspiration, and International Nickel there has been plenty of action, with chances of catching profits in both directions. Such a market, naturally, does not appeal to the buyer or seller who is content with nothing under 3 points and prefers to keep his contracts open for several days.

High Freights to South America.

In exporting circles comment is heard to the effect that excessively high freight rates are harming our trade with South America. It is understood that several vessels of lines running to South American ports are to be switched into the North Atlantic traffic because they cannot find cargoes for the south. A shipping man yesterday mentioned an instance showing how freight charges are halting shipments. An exporter, he said, arranged the sale of a bill of goods to a South American merchant, the sale price being $5,000. When the prospective shipper sought cargo room he found that the freight would amount to more than the value of the goods. The deal was called off.

By Electricity Over the Divide.

The St. Paul has added 110 miles to its electrically operated lines in Montana, completing the third big unit. The new section extends from Deer Lodge to Alberton, Mont., and brings the electrified mileage up to 336. The 226 miles between Harlowton and Deer Lodge were put under electric operation some months ago. Work on the fourth and last unit, between Alberton and Avery, Idaho, is now being completed and will probably be opened to traffic about Jan. 1. The St. Paul will then have 440 miles of electric line in operation across the Rockies, 6,850 feet above sea level; the Bitter Root, 4,200 feet, and the Belt Mountains 5,768 feet. Officials of the company say that the change has robbed the Continental Divide of most of its terrors for railroad men. The new power is said to insure fewer delays, smoother riding and greater cleanliness. C. A. Goodnow, assistant to the President, says that the electrification work already accomplished has proved such a success that the St. Paul has almost forgotten that the Divide exists. In the severe weather suffered in the Winter of 1914-15, when the thermometer stood at 40 degrees below zero the electric locomotives were called upon to clear the tracks and start traffic again when steam engines were stalled. Steam engines lose much of their power through heat radiation in cold weather, which does not effect the electric motors. The St. Paul now has the longest electrified division in the country.

Interpreting the Davison Statement.

The statement of H. P. Davison of the Morgan firm was the chief subject of comment in banking quarters, where attention was directed to "construing" or "interpreting" it, as one would a judicial decision. Analysis of the motives and of the effects of the banker's utterances resulted in many and varied conclusions. Some expressed the opinion that Mr. Davison, just back from Europe, was deeply affected by what he had heard in London and Paris, and that in discussing the credit standing of the allied nations, especially its bearing on Government loans, he was giving the foreign viewpoint and intended his comments regarding the question of collateral for foreign consumption. Others jumped to the conclusion that Mr. Davison's statement conveyed the idea that Great Britain was rapidly exhausting its supply of mobilized securities. Still others were inclined to regard the statement as the beginning of a campaign calculated to prepare the American public for an unsecured loan in the near future. Whether it would be possible to float an unsecured loan is a question that bankers are considering. The general belief is that in the event of the issuance of another loan without collateral, the borrower would undoubtedly be obliged to pay a higher interest rate.

New British Loan Going Well.

Banks and investment houses report the receipt of a large number of subscriptions to the new $300,000,000 British Government secured loan, the demand for the five-year notes being greater than for the three-year maturities. The preference for the longer term issues is accounted for by the fact that the yield is higher, and also because a great many institutions and private investors seem to favor five-year securities. Bankers say they are gratified with the response of the investing public, and some report that the subscriptions to the new loan will be in excess of the applications for the first secured loan of $250,000,000, which was issued last August. The Morgan firm is preparing a list of collateral that will be pledged by the British Government, and it is expected that the data will be made public within a few days.

Mott Vice President of Irving Bank.

Howard S. Mott has been elected a Vice President of the Irving National Bank, and will act as consultant on investment matters for the bank's customers. Mr. Mott has been acting as analytical consultant for some time. Before coming to the Irving Bank he was in charge of the investigation of securities for the Bankers' Trust Company, and previously had been a member of the firm of Carleton & Mott.

NEW RUSSIAN LOAN SOON.

Bankers Report Negotiations to be Progressing Rapidly.

So much progress has been made in the negotiations for a $50,000,000 five-year Russian Government loan that interested bankers said yesterday that an official announcement of the terms would be made soon. The price and interest rate have not been decided, but there will be no speculative exchange and the Government will pledge no collateral.

Bankers expect a good demand for the bonds because of the attractive price. It has been decided to distribute the loan through a large syndicate of bond dealers, who will receive a handsome profit.

Trading Quiet on Paris Bourse.

PARIS, Oct. 31.—Trading was quiet on the Bourse today. Three per cent. rentes, 61 francs 10 centimes for cash. Exchange on London, 27 francs 81¼ centimes. Five per cent. loan, 90 francs. The Bourse will be closed tomorrow and Thursday.

GOOD TONE IN LONDON.

Money in Moderate Demand and Easily Supplied.

LONDON, Oct. 31.—Money was in moderate demand and easily supplied today. Discount rates were quiet.

The stock market displayed a good tone on the Rumanian news. There was a fair amount of activity despite the holiday tomorrow. Consols and the war loan were features in the British section, and now that the French loan is out of the way, foreign issues were in good demand, with Japanese bonds the firmest.

Diamond shares were supported, but shipping stocks were irregular. American securities were quietly steady early, but the closing was below the best.

WHAT TO DO TODAY.
When the security markets reopened late in 1914 it was not so difficult to select profitable purchases, because prices were then at low levels.
What to do today with profits assured and losses eliminated is a problem that requires more than one's own judgment to solve correctly. Write for our opinion on the present Investment Situation.

PLAN TO REORGANIZE PERE MARQUETTE

Readjustment Calls for Reduction of $8,340,000 Capital and $2,439,000 Fixed Charges.

$16,000,000 TO BE RAISED

Project Expected to Preserve Road as a System and to Safeguard Rights of Security Holders.

The Pere Marquette, in receivership since April, 1912, will soon be reorganized and started off afresh, if a plan announced last night is accepted by security holders. This is the second reorganization for the property, which went through a readjustment without foreclosure in 1907.

J. & W. Seligman & Co., Robert Winthrop & Co., and Eugene V. R. Thayer, as reorganization managers, have obtained approval for the plan of the several protective committees, with twenty-eight members. The managers were assisted in formulating a new plan by L. F. Loree, President of the Delaware & Hudson, and J. W. Kendrick. The readjustment of securities provides for a decrease of $8,340,000 in capitalization, from $113,840,000 to $105,000,000, and a decrease in fixed interest charges of $2,489,000, from $4,127,000 to $1,687,000.

The new plan is expected to accomplish these things:

The preservation of the railroad as a system and such control for the reorganized property as shall safeguard the rights of security holders.

Reduction of fixed charges to a limit believed, under all conditions, to be safely within the net earning capacity of the reorganized property.

Adequate capital provision for present and future requirements.

Payment or adjustment of all debts and provision for existing equipment trust obligations.

The plan provides for the sale under foreclosure of various mortgages of all the property of the company. The new company will have an authorized issue of $75,000,000 first mortgage bonds; $11,200,000 5 per cent. cumulative prior preference stock; $12,429,000 5 per cent. preferred stock, cumulative after Jan. 1, 1919, and $45,046,000 common stock. All three classes of stock will be held for five years by a voting trust consisting of James S. Alexander, Francis R. Hart, Frederick Strauss, Eugene V. R. Thayer, Robert Winsor, and Beekman Winthrop.

The estimated cash requirements under the plan are $16,000,000, to provide for which a purchase syndicate consisting of J. & W. Seligman & Co., Robert Winthrop & Co., and Kidder, Peabody & Co. will purchase $6,000,000 first mortgage Series A 5 per cent. bonds, $11,200,000 5 per cent. prior preference stock trust certificates, and $25,675,400 common stock trust certificates. The syndicate will pay for these securities $16,000,000 and accrued interest on the bonds and will receive a commission of 5 per cent. on the maximum syndicate obligation of $16,000,000. No provision has been made for underwriting the cash required for payment to nonassenting holders of bonds or of any of the issues provided for in the plan.

The Guaranty Trust Company will form a loan syndicate of which it will be the manager. This syndicate will advance to the purchase syndicate funds up to 80 per cent. of the par amount of prior preference stock and common stock not subscribed for by security holders. It is expected that these advances will be payable not later than Jan. 1, 1919.

The reorganization managers will receive as compensation three-quarters of 1 per cent. on the aggregate principal amount of the new bonds about to be issued and one-half of 1 per cent. upon the aggregate par value of the three classes of new stock. The reorganization managers may participate in any of the syndicates.

Connecticut Brass Corporation Sold

John E. Liggett of the banking house of Liggett-Hichborn & Co.; Russell A. Cowles, Vice President of the Buffalo Brass and Rolling Mills; A. J. Skinner of the Commercial Trust Company, Springfield, Mass; eGorge R. Walker, New York, and E. B. Schoemaker of the Coe Stapley Manufacturing Company, Bridgeport, have acquired through purchase the control of the Connecticut Brass Corporation, whose mills are at Cheshire, Conn. The company does a large business. The bankers in the transaction were Boughton & Co., 120 Broadway.

CONSOLIDATED EXCHANGE.

Early in the day the market on the Consolidated Exchange appeared to be readily able to throw off the unsettling influence of the overnight advices regarding the possible loss of Americans on the latest ships sunk by submarines. Prices dipped a little, but, in many cases, rallied with vigor later on. In the final dealings, however, there was a degree of irregularity. There were a number of special movements in various stocks.

LAKE TORPEDO BOAT.

The bids for 20 Submarines, to cost $17,051,040, will open today. Last year on the opening of the bids Lake stock rose from 14 to 26½.

I am informed that a foreign Government has opened negotiations with the Lake Company to build a fleet of submarines.

Well defined rumors are circulating in Bridgeport that the issue of 30,000 shares of new 1st preferred stock, last June, increasing the capital to $4,200,000, were taken by a subsidiary of the U. S. Steel Corporation.

I am informed from another source that the 30,000 shares of 1st preferred stock was taken by the E. W. [illegible] Co., as an investment, and that they have since added to their holdings in the open market.

Heavy concentrated buying took place in the preferred stock yesterday, one house taking over 2,000 shares from 11⅝ to 13⅛.

WILL GUARD TRADE WITH THE AMERICAS

AIDING NEW INDUSTRIES

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—In an advance statement issued today, John Barrett, Director General of the Pan American Union, who recently returned from England and France, where he went to study the European viewpoint of the influence of the war upon Pan American commerce, gives a summary of the report which he has prepared. While abroad he conferred with leading officials and representative financiers and manufacturers connected with foreign trade. By invitation of the British and French authorities he also spent a week at the battlefront in France, from Verdun to the Somme. The report reaches the following conclusions of concern to the commercial and financial interests of the United States and Latin America:

1. Not a Government official, banker, general business man, or army officer would express a positive opinion as to the duration or end of the war, except that the majority plainly believed that it would last well into 1918 or even longer.

2. A most powerful semi-official organization and movement has been quietly but effectively started in both England and France, not only to make now an extraordinary effort to maintain their present trade with the Americas and regain what may have been lost during the first two years of the war, but to prepare ahead for a greater effort after the war in building up this trade than they ever made before.

3. Under conditions which amount to encouragement and almost to actual Government aid, a large variety of industries heretofore little developed, and hence figuring slightly in the foreign trade of these countries, is being rapidly developed, and will surely play a prominent part in their future commerce and in competition with the United States and other countries.

4. A vast practical army of very skilled but reasonably paid labor is being trained and developed all over Great Britain and France in the form of women workers, who will increase immensely the efficiency of manufacture and the volume of output of foreign commerce, despite the loss of male and skilled labor resulting from the war.

5. Notwithstanding the extraordinary financial burdens of the war, the British and French financial and commercial interests, recognizing the plainly injurious effect upon their foreign commerce of their present withdrawal from financing Government loans and private undertakings in Latin America, and that the United States is rapidly supplanting them in this respect, are now planning to co-operate in caring for this field in the future as they have done in the past.

6. Everywhere, however, in both official and private circles, there is not only an expressed belief that there is abundant room in South and Central America for the financial and commercial efforts both of the United States and of England and France, but a sincere desire to co-operate as far as possible with the commercial and financial interests of the United States in order to avoid a ruinous competition that would be harmful to all concerned. Everywhere, moreover, strange as it may seem, there is decided optimism rather than pessimism about the effect of the war on the capacity of England and France to care successfully for their foreign trade under war conditions, and again under the conditions which will follow the war.

Reserve Bank Governors Meet.

An informal conference of five Federal Reserve Bank governors was held at the New York Reserve Bank yesterday. It was said that the check collection problem, among other subjects, had been considered. Those present were Deputy Governor Robert H. Treman of New York, Governor C. J. Seay of Richmond, Governor Alfred L. Aiken of Boston, Governor J. B. McDougal of Chicago, and Governor E. R. Fancher of Cleveland. James F. Curtis, general counsel of the New York Reserve Bank, and Assistant Cashier E. R. Kenzel were called into consultation.

BUSINESS

The following is based on statements taken from a letter of Joseph W. Jones, President Gryphon Rubber and Tire Corporation, and from other sources which we regard as reliable:

The Company manufactures Standard High Grade Automobile Tires and Inner Tubes. The tires are guaranteed for 5,000 miles service and are to be offered for sale at a medium price. The market demand to-day for such an article is greater than the supply. A well defined sales policy is in force that creates a business of assured profits.

PROPERTY

A newly built factory, modern in equipment and arrangements, erected at a cost of about $150,000, is located at 192nd Street and Bailey Avenue, New York City. The building is exceptionally well placed on high ground adjoining the tracks of the New York Central Railroad and overlooking the Harlem River at Kingsbridge. It represents at the present time the only tire factory in the City of New York. The advantages that obtain in a business location like this are unsurpassed; ideal shipping facilities, cheap electric power, large area for free advertising purposes, suitable housing for labor, readiest access to markets for raw materials required, and enviable position for sale of its manufactured products. Its real estate holdings are such as will enable the Company at any time to increase its capacity consistent with the market demands.

MARKET

No doubt exists as to the value in this day of rubber stocks. The demand is everywhere unprecedented. Statistics of eighteen (18) well known tire Companies show without exception that Rubber is a sound and attractive investment. Attention is called to the fact that the car registration in the United States for the year 1915 exceeded 2,000,000, and that the production of new cars for 1916 is estimated at 1,250,000. Estimating the average yearly consumption of tires at six for each car, means that 19,500,000 complete tires will be required to meet the market demand for the coming year.

ESTIMATED ANNUAL EARNINGS

Gross Earnings	$1,856,280.40
Operating Expenses, including taxes, etc.	1,312,279.80
Surplus applicable to dividends	$544,000.60

It will be noted from the above statements that the Company's estimated earnings are equivalent to about twenty-two times the Preferred Stock dividend requirement.

In conclusion we desire to state that we believe the Preferred and Common Stock of the Gryphon Rubber and Tire Corporation offers exceptional investment opportunities and we recommend the same to conservative investors for income and appreciation.

LEGALITY

George R. Walker, Counsellor at Law, 59 Wall Street, New York City, has passed on the legality of this issue.

The Union Trust Company of New York has leased for a term of years the banking floor of the Century Building adjoining its Main Office at 80 Broadway. The additional space is to be used by the Trust Department of the Company, but the entrance will be through the Company's own building.

The Growth of the Trust Department has been steady and consistent. In forty out of the fifty-one years since the company began business the aggregate amount of property held for personal trusts has shown increases, and since 1900 this aggregate has been more than tripled.

The fact that the Company is now caring for property for the third and fourth generations of those who originally entrusted their property to it clearly indicates satisfaction on the part of its clients.

THE SITUATION IN SUGAR

Next to Steel, Copper and Oil, Sugar rules, as the war has created in this industry a parallel situation to that prevailing in the others.

This product's enormous demand, and resultant sale at war-time prices, has meant greatly increased revenues for sugar companies. And among those which have prospered most is

Little Speculators Do Big Business in Wall Street.

Street vendors did a thriving business downtown yesterday selling the newly minted dimes at two for 25 cents. The coins were issued for the first time by the Sub-Treasury and from the moment the door opened at 10 o'clock until noon a line of people extended far down Pine Street, awaiting turns at the Cashier's window. The speculators obtained the dimes in amounts varying from $2 to $10 and immediately began to cry their wares in Wall Street.

Wesley S. Twiddie, Chief Clerk, said at the end of the day that 350,000 of the new coins had been distributed. No intimation came from Washington that the issue might be recalled because the initials of Adolph A. Weinman, the designer, adorned the face. A limit of $200 was put upon the amount which one person or institution might take at face value, but only a bank called for such large amounts.

Many customers of the retailers were willing to pay the heavy premium because of the chance that the issue might be recalled, or limited as to the number put out with the initials. A considerable lot of Lincoln pennies, issued a few years ago, were similarly marked, but the Treasury made no effort to get them back.

BANKS SHOW GAINS WITHOUT PARALLEL

DEPOSITS MAKE A RECORD

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—Under the conditions of business throughout the United States and the operation of the Federal Reserve Bank Act, the aggregate resources of the national banks, State banks, and trust companies have increased 25.51 per cent., according to a statement issued tonight by John Skelton Williams, Controller of the Currency.

The comparison is made from the returns showing the condition of all banks on June 30, 1916, and those for June 30, 1913, which was a few months before the Federal Reserve Act went into effect. The Controller points out that the increase surpasses all records and has no parallel in the financial history of this or any other country.

"The increase is," he says, "greater than the total resources of the national banks in January, 1904. A distinguishing feature of the returns is the widespread and general distribution of the money and available capital and credit of the people. The growth and increase in banking resources are confined to no particular district or section of the country, but have been universal.

"The resources of the 25,993 banks and trust companies in the United States in July, 1913, a few months before the passage of the Federal Reserve Act, were reported at $25,712,000,000. On July 1, 1916, there were 27,513 banks and trust companies whose aggregate resources amounted to $32,271,000,000. Increase, $6,559,000,000, or 25.51 per cent.

Business Activity.

"This stupendous increase in banking assets and available capital has been accompanied by an unprecedented quickening, which has amounted in many places to an outburst of business activity in every State and in practically every part of every State. Coincidentally, there has been marked reduction in interest charges in every section, and especially in the distant and more remote regions, where the interest charges in the past have been heaviest and where the farmer and small business man especially experienced the greatest difficulty in obtaining the funds required for their legitimate operations and actual needs.

"The banks and trust companies are now lending to the people $3,243,000,000 more money than they were lending three years ago before the inauguration of the new currency system.

"During these three years the deposits in all the banks of the country increased $6,242,000,000; the increase in the national banks was 33.56 per cent., and the increase in the State banking institutions, including State banks, savings banks, and trust companies, was 29.26 per cent.

"The percentage of increase in the resources of all reporting banks in this three-year period was 25.51 per cent. The New England States increased 21 per cent., the Eastern States 32 per cent., the Southern States 12 per cent., the Middle States 32 per cent., the Western States 31 per cent.

"The growth of the deposits of all banks and trust companies since July, 1913, was only $318,000,000 less than the huge increase shown in their total resources, and amounted to $6,241,000,000, or 31 per cent.

"The increase in deposits in the New England States was 23 per cent., in the Eastern States 39 per cent., in the Southern States 18 per cent., in the Middle States 26 per cent., in the Western States 37 per cent., and in the Pacific States 19 per cent.

"Although the banking resources of the Eastern States increased in these three years $3,347,000,000, or 32 per cent., and although the resources of the banks in the New England States increased $667,000,000, or 21 per cent., there has been a distinct and growing tendency, especially in recent months, toward decentralization and toward the distribution throughout the country of the excessive reserves which have heretofore been piled up in Eastern centres.

"In the last four and a half months, or from May 1, 1916, to Sept. 12, 1916, the deposits of the banks in New York City showed an actual reduction of $222,000,000, and the national banks of Boston a reduction of $36,000,000, and in Philadelphia a reduction of $13,000,000, while in the same period in the country banks and in the banks of the interior Reserve cities, deposits increased heavily.

"In the Eastern States the largest increase was in New York State, $2,646,000,000, 41 per cent., followed by Pennsylvania, $467,000,000, or 17 per cent.; New Jersey, $130,000,000, or 17 per cent., and Maryland, $65,000,000, or 17 per cent.

"It is interesting to note that every State in the Union shows a material increase in the deposits in its national banks. The only three States which show a reduction in the deposits of their State banking institutions are Alabama, Mississippi, and Oregon. In Alabama the State banks' deposits declined .11 per cent., while the deposits of the national banks for the same period increased 23 per cent. In Mississippi State bank deposits showed a reduction of about 3 per cent., while the deposits of the national banks in the same State increased over 34 per cent. In Oregon the reduction in deposits of the State banks and trust companies was 14.70 per cent., while the national banks of Oregon for the same period increased their deposits 11.66 per cent.

"The four States showing the highest percentages of increase in deposits were Oklahoma, 54 per cent.; Arizona, 53 per cent.; North Dakota, 52 per cent., and Wyoming, 49 per cent."

Bonds Worth $20,000 Stolen.

Acting on a request of the Boston police, the Police Department of this city yesterday informed banking circles to watch for the sale of twenty $1,000 bonds, issued by the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern Railway, which are reported to have been stolen in Boston on Oct. 27, according to the information forwarded by the Boston police. The bonds mature in twenty-five years and yield 4 per cent. No particulars of the robbery were given to the New York police except the serial numbers of eighteen of the bonds, which are as follows: 166, 167, 168, 6,845, 14,507, 15,755, 15,760, 15,761, 15,764, 20,504, 20,771, 20,773, 25,048, 33,338, 48,477, 48,748, 48,479, 48,481.

BULLS FORCE COTTON OVER 19-CENT LEVEL

GAIN OF $3 PER BALE

Buying Encouraged by Report That Germany Would Continue to Adhere to Submarine Pledges.

Bulls took hold of the cotton market yesterday and gave such strong support that the local short interest was forced to cover in competition with active buying for long account. Trading was not on a broad scale, but the undertone was very stiff and offerings were limited until prices had worked up practically $3 a bale over Monday's closing. Every active option on the list was forced across the 19c level, and around the high point of the day prices had scored a maximum recovery of 80 points, or $4 a bale, from the extreme of Monday's depression. Final prices represented a net gain of 53 to 59 points.

Buying was encouraged by the report that Germany would continue to adhere to her pledges regarding submarine operations, as well as by the general apprehension of crop shortage. The estimate of Clement, Curtis & Co. of Chicago on the size of the crop was not issued yesterday, but is expected today. Advices from the South are practically unanimous in respect to the stubbornness with which farmers are holding and the phenomenal strength of the spot situation.

The monthly canvass of the Journal of Commerce indicates a poor prospect for a top crop in Arkansas, Tennessee and Florida. The weather is said to have been ideal for picking, but very little cotton is being held. The Texas traveler of Weld & Co. estimates that about 80 per cent. of the Texas crop has geen ginned and 60 per cent. of the Oklahoma production.

Houston, Texas, wired that spots had not met the decline in futures and that actual cotton was hard to buy.

The next report from the Census Bureau on the ginning of cotton will carry operations up to the close of business yesterday and will be issued at 10 o'clock on the morning of Nov. 8.

COMMODITIES MARKETS

WHEAT.

The wheat market showed a nervous undertone and at times prices were heavy under liquidation. There was active switching from December to the later months, and this brought about a loss in the December premium. It was said that the pressure in December was due largely to the fact that elevator interests in Chicago were having difficulty in getting insurance on their wheat, which has increased so rapidly in value, and that, consequently, longs in December were disposed to transfer their interest into May and July. This action was largely responsible for the irregular price movement, and at the close December was 1⅝c lower. May was down ⅛c, and July was ⅛c higher. In the local cash market, No. 1 durum was quoted at $2.17; No. 2 hard, $2.03; No. 1 Northern Duluth, $2.09; No. 1 Northern Manitoba, $2.00¼, all free on board, New York.

CORN.

Contrary to the action of the wheat market, corn was rather firm early in the day, selling up about half a cent over the previous night. Heavier receipts of new corn at the interior had some effect on the cash article, and in the later trade there was a decline of about a cent a bushel from the early high point, a part of which, however, was finally recovered, the close being ¼c net higher to ⅛c lower. Late Liverpool cables were reported firm. The cash market here was steady, with new No. 2 yellow quoted at $1.12¼ to arrive, cost, insurance, and freight, New York.

OATS.

There was rather a narrow market in oats, with the undertone easy and prices at one time about half a cent net lower. Spot oats here were firm and higher, as follows: Standard, 59@59½c; No. 2 white, 59¼@60c; No. 3 white, 58¾@59c; No. 4 white, 58@58½c; fancy clipped white, 62@64½c; ordinary clipped white, 61@62c, all elevator.

PROVISIONS.

Net price changes in the provision market were comparatively narrow, but after showing some heaviness early, the market rallied, and at the close was at about the best of the day. The hog movement in the West was heavy, and hog prices were lower, but this was offset by a fairly good cash demand, and reports that the Belgian order will be placed within the next day or two. Receipts of hogs at Chicago were 35,000; estimated for Wednesday, 45,000. Kansas City received 22,000 and Omaha 8,000.

COTTONSEED OIL.

The market for cottonseed oil was very nervous throughout the day and price changes were very irregular. There was a good deal of liquidation early in the day, which carried the market down 5 to 13 points for the active positions, but toward the close a firmer tone prevailed, and final quotations were 7 points lower to 8 points net higher. Total sales were 57,100 barrels. Range of prices:

COFFEE.

The action of the coffee market again suggested the presence of cotton trade interests, for an opening decline was followed by an advance which seemed to develop coincidently with the sharp upward movement in cotton. After selling at 8.50c during the early trading, May contracts worked up to 8.62c, and the market closed steady at a net advance of 5 to 8 points for the day. Sales were reported of 40,750 bags. The local spot market was quiet, with quotations on the basis of 9¼c for Rio 7s and 10⅞c for Santos 4s. Range of prices:

The local market for refined sugar was unchanged, fine granulated being listed at 7.50@7.75c. There were fair withdrawals on old contract, but new business was light, and there were no important sales reported for export account. Raw sugar was nominally unchanged at the close of the market, with refiners showing less interest in offerings. Early in the day a local refiner bought about 40,000 bags Cubas, first half November shipment, at 5⅛c cost and freight basis, and also took 1,500 tons of Brazilian sugars, prompt clearance, at 5¼c, equal to about 5⅜c cost and freight for Cubas. The market was a little easier, with offerings in a moderate way of sugars at 5⅛c cost and freight. Nominal quotations follow: Centrifugals, 6.52c; molasses, 5.65c.

BUTTER AND EGG MARKET.

BUTTER.—Receipts yesterday, 17,096 packages. There was active trading on the Exchanges and prices were advanced ½c to ½c on nearly all grades of creamery. Buyers are following the rise fairly well, though there is a more conservative feeling in some quarters. Renovated up a little, and there is a very firm market for ladles and packing stock. Creamery, higher scoring than extras, per lb, 36¾@37½c; extras, (92 score,) 36@36½c; firsts, (88 to 91 score,) 34¾@35¾c; seconds, (83 to 87 score,) 33¼@34½c; thirds, 32@33c; creamery, unsalted, higher than extras, 38@38½c; extras, 37@37½c; firsts, 35½@36½c; seconds, 34@35c; creamery, held, higher than extras, 35½@36c; extras, 35c; firsts, 34@34½c; seconds, 33@33½c; thirds, 31@32c; State dairy, tubs, finest, 35½@36c; good to prime, 33½@35c; common to fair, 30@33c; renovated, extras, 32½@33c; firsts, 31½@32c; lower grades, 29½@31c; imitation creamery, firsts, 31@32c; ladles, June make, firsts, 31@31½c; current make, firsts, 30½@31c; seconds, 29@29½c; lower grades, 28@28½c; packing stock, current make, No. 1, 29@29½c; No. 2, 28½c; lower grades, 27@28c.

EGGS.—Receipts today, 10,732 cases. The scarcity of new-laid eggs continues, and any lots showing a good to large proportion of such are meeting a good demand at advancing prices. The medium and lower qualities, which comprise a large part of the supply, are still plentiful and meeting only a very moderate demand at very irregular prices. Storage eggs are quiet, but generally held with confidence. Nearby white eggs continue in light supply, and most of the receipts are mixed with more or less shrunken held stock; this makes a wide range of values, and there is only a small part of the supply for which top quotation can be realized; a large part of the business is ranging from 55c downward. Fresh gathered, extra fine, per dozen, 40@42c; extra firsts, 38@39c; firsts, 35@37c; seconds, 31@34c; thirds and poorer, 29@30c; dirties, No. 1, 29@30c; No. 2 and poorer, 27@28½c; checks, good to choice, dry, 28@28½c; undergrades, 25@27½c; refrigerator special marks, fancy, storage and insurance paid, 32c; firsts, 31¼@31½c; seconds, 30@31c; lower grades, 25@29½c; refrigerator, State whites, 33@35c; State, Pennsylvania, and nearby Western, hennery whites, fine to fancy, 58@65c; ordinary to good, 40@57c; gathered whites, ordinary to fine, 38@50c; Western and Southern, gathered whites, 38@50c; State, Pennsylvania, and nearby, hennery browns, 43@50c; gathered, brown and mixed colors, 36@42c.

REPLOGLE ACQUIRES WHARTON ORE LANDS

Northern New Jersey Tracts with 60,000,000-Ton Content Figure in Steel Co. Deal.

MILLIONS TO BE EXPENDED

The Wharton Steel Company, which owns iron ore lands in Northern New Jersey with an estimated content of 60,000,000 tons, has been bought by J. Leonard Replogle, Vice President of the American Vanadium Company, according to information current yesterday in steel market circles. The transaction was put through in behalf of Mr. Replogle by Ernest Hillman of the coal and coke firm of J. H. Hillman & Co. of Pittsburgh, the papers being signed by representatives of the estate of the late Joseph Wharton in Philadelphia on Monday. The company has $10,000,000 capital stock, all of which will come into the hands of the buyer, as it is owned in entirety by the Wharton estate.

Steel men have predicted of late that the vast iron ore deposits of the Lake Superior region would be exhausted in a few years at the present rate of mining. There is only a comparatively small acreage of ore lands in this country outside the holdings of the large corporations, and it is believed that Mr. Replogle made his investment in the Wharton Company with an eye far into the future of the steel industry.

He declined yesterday to discuss the deal. It was learned in other quarters that a corps of engineers will shortly begin work on the property at Wharton, N. J., drilling test borings to determine the actual amount of ore in the 5,000 acres held by the company, and selecting sites for a number of new by-product coke ovens and an open hearth steel plant. Mr. Replogle will have associates in expanding the company's operations, and it is understood that between $8,000,000 and $10,000,000 will be spent on additions and improvements.

The valuable mineral holdings of the company, it was learned, formed the foundation upon which the transaction was built. In addition to the large acreage of magnetite ore in New Jersey, the Wharton Company owns lands near Spragueville, N. Y., with an estimated content nearly as great as the New Jersey deposit. Also, 7,500 acres of coking coal property in Indiana County, Penn., is included among the assets. The company's mines and mills at Wharton are on the main line of the Lackawanna Railroad, and are connected with the Jersey Central, the Erie, and the New York, Susquehanna & Western Railroads by the Wharton & Northern, a twenty-two-mile private line.

This is the third important transaction the young steel man has had part in within the last eighteen months. He entered the limelight in the Summer of last year, when he and a number of friends bought 210,000 shares of Cambria Steel Company stock owned by the Pennsylvania Railroad at $60 a share and later turned them over to the Midvale Steel and Ordnance Company at $81 a share. Last August he participated in a syndicate which bought the American Vanadium Company, and at about the same time he became associated with the du Pont interests in the formation of the Sun Shipbuilding Company.

The Coat Salesman's Trouble.

Overprosperity is the main trouble at present of the salesmen for the coat and dress concerns. They are in the ticklish situation of being able to sell almost any quantity of merchandise; but some of the orders have to be refused because the capacity of the factories is taxed now to their utmost. The salesmen, to quote one of their number, have to be "not only salesmen but diplomats" to hold eager customers in check.

Collective Buying of Materials.

A plan to purchase together many of the materials needed in their business has been taken up by a group of thirty manufacturers in the coat and suit trade. A meeting has been held to discuss the scheme, and another conference will take place this evening. Opinion in the trade is somewhat divided over the benefits to be derived from collective buying. Some of the larger manufacturers believe that the plan, if adopted, would tend to destroy initiative in the industry. Representative mill agents do not take the proposition seriously.

Furniture Sells Well at Retail.

One of the features of current retail business in this city is said to be the unusually good demand for furniture of various kinds. While unable to account for the amount of buying that is being done by consumers, an executive of one big store said yesterday its furniture department was so busy that it was practically impossible to get sufficient experienced salesmen to handle the business. In addition to this, he asserted that deliveries of furniture already sold were being delayed somewhat as a result of a scarcity of cabinet makers, polishers, and other skilled workers needed in this department.

Goods Cannot Be Redyed.

While the dress goods mills that took up the manufacturing of wool velours when it seemed they would be good have enjoyed a very active business on those fabrics, there is a "fly in the ointment." The switch in colors found quite a few of the mills with shades that were not so much in demand. Ordinarily it would be a simple matter to have the goods redyed to the colors desired. With wool velours, it is explained, the construction and finish of the fabric make any attempt to redye the goods unsatisfactory. In some way or other, it is said, the finish is spoiled.

Woolens Continue to Advance.

Advances are almost a daily occurrence in the local piece goods trade. This is a rather unusual condition in view of the fact that it is the dull period for the mills. Most of the mill agents, however, are working on the theory that it is better to shove up prices in anticipation of business than to put them up after the production has been largely sold up. One of the features of present operations that serves especially to give the market a strong turn is the free movement in stock goods. Anything that is at all adapted to present needs is grabbed up by buyers.

Spring Shoe Buying Active.

Spring buying of shoes has so far been very heavy, though confined in good part to staple or semi-staple styles. The best selling models to date have been men's shoes in dark tans and blacks, women's eight-inch boots in solid colors, and with black vamps and colored ooze tops, plenty of white shoes in kid and buck, and children's shoes in solid black, white, and tan. Light, dainty pumps with circular vamps and small tongues are selling well in solid colors, though a few are being sampled with dark brown or black vamps and white quarters. White sport oxfords with rubber or leather soles are moving well for men, women and children.

Coal Prices Jump Sharply.

The Coal Trade Journal will say today that in the anthracite trade buyers are seeking the sellers with greater earnestness as cold weather draws nearer. This is resulting in a series of price advances the like of which has seldom, if ever, been equaled, even in strike years. Within the last few days sales of domestic sizes have been made at $11 per ton f. o. b. New York harbor ports, which is equivalent to $9.60 at the mines, and coal has been sold for line shipment on nearly as high a basis. The whole range of quotations on speculative coal is up from $2 to $3 as compared with a week ago. The most violent advances have occurred at tidewater, where the tonnage in the hands of middle-houses is very small. Bituminous prices have also advanced sharply in the last week.

Gray Goods Sales Limited.

Trading continued small in the local gray goods market yesterday in spite of the recovery in cotton and the chances that cloth prices might advance again as a result. Most of the printcloth business taken was for this year's delivery, and it included some 80 squares at 10½ cents and 68-72s at 9 cents. Other printcloth sales were more or less scattered and featureless. Among the sheeting sales recorded were 40-inch 2.85s, which moved at 11¼ cents for November-January shipment. There was little in the other coarse goods business done to warrant special mention. Closing printcloth figures were:

*Asked.

He Should Have Accepted Them.

A certain jewelry manufacturer in this city is of the opinion that every wholesale seller of goods should think twice before refusing to accept merchandise returned to him by a retail customer. This is the reason why he thinks so: A few years ago this jeweler sold a bill of rings to a well-rated retailer in a Southern State. Not very long afterward the rings were returned, with no explanation. The manufacturer verified the firm's rating, reshipped the rings, and wrote a rather hot letter in which he took the buying house to task for sending the goods back, and cited the smallness of the profit in the transaction for him as a reason why they should be retained. The letter had the desired effect, and the rings were kept when received the second time by the retailer. The hard part was that the retail firm failed badly very soon afterward, and the manufacturer neither got his rings back nor his pay for them.

GERMAN POTASH SALES.

BERLIN, Oct. 31, (by Wireless to Sayville.)—At a meeting of the stockholders of the Potash Syndicate, President Kempner said that the shipments of potash during the first nine months of 1916 surpassed by 230,000 tons, or 43,000,000 marks, those of the preceding year. The total shipments for this year are calculated to reach 900,000 tons, with a valuation of 160,000,000 marks.

Shipments in 1913, which included great amounts for exportation, totaled 1,100,000 tons. During the first nine months of this year German farmers were provided with 1,760,000 tons of kainite hardbalt and 870,000 tons of potash fertilizing salts.

ROOSEVELT, JR., IN OIL DEAL.

Helps to Buy Control of an Oklahoma Company.

ARDMORE, Okla., Oct. 31.—Harry F. Sinclair, President of the Sinclair Oil Corporation.; Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., and associates have bought a three-fourths interest in the Crystal Oil Company for $1,500,000, it was announced here today, following a visit to the Healdton fields by the buyers.

No plans regarding the future operations of the company were announced.

Inquiries were made last night at Mr. Roosevelt's home, 165 East Seventy-fourth Street, regarding his plans in the purchase of an interest in the Crystal Company. Mrs. Roosevelt said that her husband was in Oklahoma, and that she had heard no details of the transaction.

Crossbreds Sell at Full Prices.

LONDON, Oct. 31.—The 7,500 bales offered at the wool sales today were mostly crossbreds, which were readily absorbed at full prices. A few Victorian scoured merinos sold at 3s. 11d.

Speyer Pays $150 for Auto Accident

James Speyer, the banker, settled yesterday for $150 a suit brought against him by Andrew Dewan, 17 years old, who was knocked down by Mr. Speyer's automobile and had his chest injured. Dewan's attorney got permission from Justice Pendleton to compromise the suit because it was a question for the jury whether the boy had been guilty of contributory negligence.

SLINGSBY HEARING PUT OFF.

Appeal in Celebrated British Case to be Argued Dec. 1.

LONDON, Oct. 31.—The House of Lords today granted postponement until Dec. 1 of the hearing of the appeal of the Slingsby legitimacy case from the judgment of the Court of Appeals. The application for postponement was made on the ground that the appellant is not in possession of the necessary funds to prosecute the appeal.

The Slingsby case involves the question whether an infant born in San Francisco and declared to be the lawful son of Charles R. Slingsby and his wife Dorothy is the rightful heir to the Slingsby estate in England. A Californian court ruled that the child was the legitimate heir, and a court in England upheld the decision. The Court of Appeals, however, reversed this ruling in a decision handed down last March. It sustained the contention of Charles Slingsby's brothers, who introduced evidence to show that "Teddy" Slingsby was not the child of Charles and Dorothy Slingsby, but was obtained by them after an advertisement had been inserted in a San Francisco newspaper for a newborn male infant.

Dutch Liner Drops Kirkwall Stop.

ROTTERDAM, Oct. 31.—The Holland-America liner Nieuw Amsterdam, which sailed for New York early today, is the first steamer from this port to make the trip without a compulsory call at Kirkwall, Scotland. The change in course, however, does not materially shorten the voyage, as the new course is northward to the Shetland Islands, around the Hebrides, and then to Falmouth, England. The reason given for the change is that the rocky coast of North Scotland is most dangerous in the Winter season and that the British authorities will be satisfied with one inspection of the liner's cargo and passengers at Falmouth.

Since last Thursday the Federal Reserve Bank has bought $15,000,00 gold and further consignments are expected to go to the Government institution. So far $84,500,000 has been imported this month and $477,000,000 during the year.

RUGS ARE SOLD AT GOOD PRICES

PUBLIC IS BEHIND BUYERS

The second day's auction of rugs and carpets by the Alexander Smith & Sons Carpet Company yesterday totaled about $600,000. The sale was characterized by sustained buying at prices which, while comparatively high when measured by the standards of less than six months ago, appeared to be accepted in a more or less matter of fact way at this time of uncertainty and advancing values.

Before the auctioneer started the day's proceeding, and at the luncheon hour, the talk of the buyers was centred on the "empty" shelves in their respective sections, and of the need to replenish stocks in order to keep up with the increasing purchasing power of the American public. "These wonderfully prosperous times," said one out-of-town buyer, "are making it possible for every home to have more and better floor coverings than ever before. Thus, the bigger demand on the part of the people for rugs and carpets makes it imperative that merchants maintain adequate stocks. The present auction was well-timed to meet the requirements of distributers. Prices are very high, but we've got to have goods. The public simply will have rugs and carpets regardless of cost."

R. F. Goulder, of the Sterling & Welch Company, Cleveland, who is 83 years old and generally recognized as the dean of the buyers at all New York rug and carpet auctions, said yesterday that the present sale was the greatest in his recollection. He has been attending Smith auctions since 1886. "It's a good thing for the company," he said. "They are making tremendous sales at the highest prices I have ever witnessed. The explanation is to be had in the fact that dealers need the goods, and the public is standing solidly back of the distributers."

Yesterday's sale started off with 8-4 Smith Axminster rugs. A big variety of this class of goods went under the hammer in a hurry, while the other offerings of the day included Palisades, Colonials, Wilton Velvets, Ardsley, Saxony and mats. Prices fell somewhat on the larger sizes of rugs, while complaint was general that there were not enough of the smaller rugs to go around. This scarcity was demonstrated by the small difference between the high and low prices paid.

Taken altogether, the strength in prices paid for goods continued to be a matter of surprise to many. It seemed that many of the lines were selling at practically the new advanced prices named on Monday. The fact that a few of the larger sizes showed slumps was attributed to the circumstance that the larger size rugs are unsuitable for city use, demand for these particular goods being accordingly limited.

One of the interesting developments of the day was the volume of buying by the Canadian contingent. Several of the largest houses in Canada were represented and these firms, as well as factors from all sections of the Dominion, bought heavily all day. They paid good prices, and made it plain that their stocks were badly depleted, and must be replenished at this auction.

Today's sale begins at 9 o'clock, the first goods to be offered being J Saxony rugs. The visiting buyers tonight will attend the annual dinner to be given by the Carpet Association of America at the Waldorf-Astoria.

LATEST CUSTOMS RULINGS.

Crude Rubber and Button Shanks Among Things Classified.

Lunham & Moore were sustained yesterday by the Board of General Appraisers in the claim that crude rubber in sheets was entitled to free entry under the provision in the tariff law for crude India rubber. The Collector was reversed in taking duty at 15 per cent. as unenumerated manufactured articles.

According to a decision by Judge Fischer, button shanks composed of brass and plated with silver come under the tariff provision for "parts of buttons and button molds or blanks." This was the contention made by Edward Benneche & Brother in a protest filed with the board. The Collector held that, as the articles were plated with silver, they were dutiable at 50 per cent. The decision said that the provision for "parts of buttons" was absolutely unlimited and unrestricted, and took precedence over the plated article paragraph.

Samstag & Hilder Brothers, Strauss Brothers & Co., and A. Steinhardt & Brother protested the Collector's return on steel pins with tops of plate glass. The Collector assessed the articles with duty as manufactures of which paste was the component material of chief value, this calling for a tax of 30 per cent. Testimony was taken in Germany, the manufacturers of the goods testifying, which showed that metal predominated in the makeup of the pins. Under these circumstances, Judge Sullivan in his decision for the board sustained the claim for entry at 20 per cent. as manufactures in chief value of metal.

After testimony had been taken in Switzerland at the factory of Richard Brieger & Co. of Zurich the board reversed the Collector at Chicago in his assessment of duty on signs composed of tin, celluloid and cardboard. He classified the articles as in chief value of celluloid and took 40 per cent. duty. The evidence given by the manufacturer abroad convinced the board that a mistake had been made in the classification. The Collector was reversed, and a reliquidation ordered, giving entry at 20 per cent. under the metal paragraph.

F. H. Shallus, Baltimore, lost in a contention relating to the duty rate on steel ingots. Duty was levied at 15 per cent. under the provision for "steel ingots made by the crucible process." The importer claimed free entry as for steel ingots made by the Bessemer or open-hearth process without the use of alloys. The protestant failed to submit testimony in support of his claim, and, as the record put in evidence from the Custom House showed no error on the part of the classifying officials, their return of duty was affirmed.

Kronfeld, Saunders & Co. were sustained in a claim that certain oxidized bag frames were dutiable at 20 per cent. under the plain metal provision. As to some of the goods, the Collector was reversed in levying 50 per cent. as plated metal articles. He was affirmed as to the balance.

The Thursday Hospital After Care Circle, which has for seven years provided after treatment and help for crippled patients at the Post Graduate Hospital, has opened a new annex at Twenty-first Street, between First and Second Avenues, where children crippled by infantile paralysis are provided with braces and other necessaries and treated three times a week.

The circle will hold a bazaar and entertainment at Delmonico's on the afternoons and evenings of Dec. 15 and 16 to raise the additional funds necessary to continue the increased work due to assuming the care of paralysis victims.

Four-year-old Ellen Anderson of 43 Manhasset Place, Brooklyn, a victim of infantile paralysis, broke a bottle of milk in City Hall Park yesterday on a new ambulance of the Militia of Mercy to name it before it is sent to Boston to aid in carrying specialists to aid paralysis victims there. THE REAL ESTATE FIELD.

Hotel Essex Deal Pending—Builders Buy East Seventy-fourth Street Apartment House Site—Tower Hill $175,000 Estate of the Late Andrew Freedman Sold to Uzal H. McCarter.

Negotiations are practically closed, it was said yesterday, for the sale of the Hotel Essex, on the northwest corner of Madison Avenue and Fifty-sixth Street, by the heirs of the Francis S. Kinney estate. The Farmers' Loan and Trust Company is trustee for the estate, but the latter office declined to confirm the deal. The property has been under the management of Francis G. Cart since 1908 under lease from the Kinney estate and the lease still has some time to run. The sale will occasion no immediate change, Mr. Cart said yesterday, in the management.

The Hotel Essex is a twelve-story building erected several years ago and has always been conducted as a high-grade apartment hotel. It covers a plot 75.5 on Madison Avenue by 75 on the street and is assessed at $525,000, of which $235,000 is land value. The remainder of the Madison Avenue block frontage, including the Fifty-seventh Street corner, is owned by Henry H. Rogers, the corner dwelling having been the home of the late H. H. Rogers. Last week Mr. Rogers took title to the adjoining house at 24 East Fifty-seventh Street.

The buyer is the 112 East Seventy-fourth Street Corporation, composed of S. Morrill Banner and H. E. Mitler, and they are having plans prepared to improve the property with a nine-story apartment house.

The sellers were Jesse I. Straus of 112 and 114, S. Rosenblatt of 116 and Mrs. F. Heider of 118. The plot is opposite the Episcopal Church of the Resurrection and at 101 to 105 a nine-story apartment has recently been completed.

CABRERA EXPLAINS TO COMMISSIONERS

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Oct. 31.—The American-Mexican Joint Commission announced tonight that the discussions today were of such a nature that there was nothing which could be made public at this time. The talk was along the general lines which have occupied the commission from the start. A statement was made, as follows:

"At the session of the American and Mexican Joint Commission held this morning the Hon. Luis Cabrera, Chairman of the Mexican Commission, explained the circumstances leading to the publication of the supposed interview which appeared in the newspapers on the morning of Sunday, Oct. 29. Mr. Cabrera, in explaining the matter to the commission, said:

"Mr. Edmunds came to me and talked of The Mexican Review, on the staff of which he is employed. He spoke to me of the method of promoting its circulation and increasing its influence. As he was leaving the room, and with his hand on the knob, he asked we how we were getting on with the work of the commission. I told him that we had talked that day of the conspirators on this side of the border who were assisting the enemies of the de facto Government, and that we had taken up the possibility of deporting such conspirators, under the provisions of the immigration laws of the United States. That was all of our conversation.

"He then asked me if I wished him to tell the newspaper men of this, and I told him that it was not necessary, as it had been given to them in the official press statement issued by the commission.

"I wish to make a complete and full denial of this interview. Not only was it unauthorized, but I never said what was ascribed to me therein. Any one who knows me knows that I do not speak that way. I have always been careful to give nothing to the press except with the knowledge and consent of my American as well as my Mexican colleagues."

It was decided to adjourn on Friday morning, and possibly on Thursday, in order to enable the Mexican members to be present when President Wilson speaks in New York. The question as to where the commission will convene on the Wednesday after election probably will be settled tomorrow.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—Eliseo Arredondo, Mexican Ambassador Designate, called on Secretary of State Lansing today and disclaimed responsibility on behalf of his Government for the statements contained in an interview that was attributed to Luis Cabrera. He also denied the authenticity of criticisms of the Wilson Administration attributed to Generals Carranza, Obregon, and Gonzales and Foreign Minister Aguilar. Secretary Lansing said that Mr. Arredondo had made a most acceptable statement and that both incidents were considered closed.

ROFRANO WITNESSES BULLDOZED, HE SAYS

OFFICIALS TESTIFY FOR HIM

Michael A. Rofrano, on trial for the killing of Michael Gaimari, surpassed his previous attacks on Assistant District Attorney Brothers and his assistants yesterday by asserting that his only reason for concealing the identity of the persons who had sheltered him while he was a fugitive from justice was to protect them from being "threatened, browbeaten, and bulldozed" by the District Attorney's office. On one occasion Rofrano, after shaking his finger in Mr. Brothers's face, refused to permit him to see some checks which he later handed to the jury, and he accused the prosecutor of having lent himself to the alleged political intrigue headed by Tom Foley.

Martin W. Littleton, Rofrano's counsel, later called as witnesses Maurice E. Connolly, Borough President of Queens, and Public Service Commissioner Hayward in an effort to prove that his client was in Albany on Jan. 4, 1915, the day on which, according to testimony introduced by Mr. Brothers, Rofrano was alleged to have held a "murder conference" over the telephone with Rocco Carnevale, one of the gunmen involved in the murder of Gaimari. Mr. Connolly was vigorously cross-examined by Mr. Brothers, but he insisted that to the best of his recollection he had dinner with Rofrano in Albany on the day mentioned. Mr. Hayward was not as positive as to the date as Mr. Connolly.

Woman Testifies for Rofrano.

Mary Dunn, a telephone operator at the Municipal Building, testified that she had received orders several weeks before Gaimari was slain never to connect Rofrano on the wire with "Moore," which was the American name that had been adopted by Rocco Carnevale. The purpose of this testimony was to destroy the effect of the many telephone slips introduced by Mr. Brothers intending to show that Carnevale had talked frequently over the wire with Rofrano while the latter was in his office in the Municipal Building. This witness was introduced by Martin W. Littleton, counsel for Rofrano, after Mr. Brothers had finished his cross-examination of the defendant, and after Rofrano had told of threats said to have been made against him by Foley and by Detective Cuniffe, one of the detectives employed by the District Attorney.

"I met Foley one Sunday afternoon in front of my house, either in 1914 or 1915, and he told me, 'I'll fix you yet before I get through with you,'" said Rofrano. "I also had a conversation one day with Cuniffe, in which he also said he would fix me. This was some time in February, 1915. I had just left the Municipal Building, and I met Cuniffe, who was then in uniform, in front of Hall's Hotel, Park Row and Duane Street.

"He asked me to intercede for him with Deputy Police Commissioner Clem Driscoll, and to ask him to return Cuniffe to detail, (as a detective.) When I told him I could do nothing he said, 'I know better, and I'll get even with you if you don't do this for me. I'll fix you if I don't get back into the Detective Bureau.'"

Before relating the origin of the alleged conspiracy against him, Rofrano made frequent use of the diary which he said he had kept in the Tombs as a protection against "stool pigeons" and informers in the service of the District Attorney. His refusal to recall conversations without first consulting this record frequently irritated Mr. Brothers, who intimated that the diary had been "prepared" by Rofrano after discovering that he had been trapped by Heffler.

Says Witnesses Were Intimidated.

The antagonism between the prosecutor and the defendant flamed into expression when Mr. Brothers asked Rofrano why he persisted in his refusal to tell where he had gone into hiding following the murder of Gaimari.

Leaning well forward in his chair and shaking his finger at Mr. Brothers, Rofrano said:

"I refuse to tell where I was because I do not a want a friend of mine, who knows nothing of the merits of this case, to be dragged over here, threatened, browbeaten, and bulldozed, as you have done with every person whose name has been mentioned here by me.

"You have subpoenaed my witnesses and brought them to your office on the pretense of taking them before the Grand Jury, so that you could frighten them into withholding the truth about me. You have subpoenaed Miss Mace, Vincent Pepe, and because of your conduct Mrs. Campagna is ill at the Buena Vista Hotel."

A little later Rofrano produced some checks to explain certain financial transactions in which he had been interested at a time when he had testified he was in financial difficulties and was hard pressed for money.

"Will you permit me to see those checks?" asked Mr. Brothers.

"No!" shouted the witness. "I'll let the jury see them, but you can't see them."

Rofrano's reference to witnesses for the defense having been interrogated privately by Mr. Brothers had to do with the appearance of the persons mentioned in the office of Assistant District Attorney John T. Dooling on last Monday. Mr. Dooling, following what was said to have been an old custom in the office of the District Attorney, had questioned Miss Theresa Mace, a stenographer formerly in Rofrano's employ; Vincent Pepe, a real estate dealer, and others.

The nature of the interrogation was brought out when Miss Mace took the stand yesterday, following the cross-examination of the defendant. She testified that Mr. Dooling had asked her about some letters and affidavits alleged to have been dictated by the defendant on a certain day when he was said to have had conferences with the conspirators in the murder of Gaimari.

"Mr. Dooling asked me once if I was sure I was not lying, but most of the questions were the same as those you have asked me," said Miss Mace to Mr. Littleton.

"Do you charge me personally with hounding you?" Mr. Brothers had previously asked Rofrano when he complained that Mr. Dooling's interrogation of Miss Mace was an example of the "brow-beating" methods employed in the District Attorney's office.

"Yes," retorted the witness. "You and the others are hounding and pounding me all the time, Mr. Brothers."

Borough President Connolly testified he had known Rofrano for six, seven, or eight years.

"I fix Jan. 4 as the date when I saw Mr. Rofrano in Albany by the fact that it was on the morning of that day that I called at the office of the Degnon Construction Company," he said. "I arrived in Albany shortly before 6 o'clock in the afternoon and had dinner with Mr. Rofrano in the grill room of the Ten Eyck Hotel. We later went to the railroad station together and returned to New York on the same train. After reaching New York we stopped for a few minutes in the grill room of the Belmont Hotel and then separated."

The defense believed it strengthened its case when Mary Dunn, the stenographer, testified that it had not been unusual for persons other than Rofrano to use his telephone in the Municipal Building. The prosecutor questioned her sharply about an entry by her in a book of outgoing calls, which appeared to indicate that Rofrano called the Democratic Executive Committee's office in Queens on the telephone on Jan. 4, 1915, when he was supposed to be in Albany, according to the testimony of Borough President Connolly.

Miss Dunn said it was her practice to charge all outside calls to the various Commissioners, whether they personally made the calls or not. She said she took it for granted that if the calls were made by some one else they had been sanctioned by the Commissioners.

The importance of this testimony lay in the fact that Maurice Geronimo, secretary to the Sheriff of Queens, intends to go on the stand for the purpose of testifying that it was he who called the Queens number on that particular day.

Justice Bartow S. Weeks denied a request of the jury that night sessions be held. He said it did not appear as if the case could be concluded before next week, and that it would be a hardship on counsel to hold sessions after 6 o'clock each day.

59 DIE IN STREET IN OCTOBER

Police Commissioner Woods made public last evening statistics of street accident fatalities for the month of October. The number of known deaths due to accidents within the month totaled 59. This was a big drop from the September record, which was 79 at the end of that month, and grew to 87 by after-mortality in October. Last year the record for October was 61 at the end of the month, and 77 when the after-mortality had finally become known.

Although the automobile was still the chief cause of death, the October charge to its account, (20 deaths,) was far below the September total of 34. There were fewer falls from vehicles—3, compared with 11—and fewer miscellaneous vehicular accidents—3, compared with 12. The principal increase was in the number of persons killed by motor trucks—12, compared with 9.

brokers, or middlemen, were in part responsible for the car shortage and consequent high prices, because, instead of unloading the cars, they were holding the coal for speculative purposes. M. S. Conners, General Manager of the Hocking Valley Railroad, a coal-carrying road, said many of the cars needed for the Ohio and West Virginia mines were being held up outside the State.

It has developed that Ohio railroad officials have adopted an espionage on their cars to ascertain whether coal is being held up by brokers awaiting a better market price for the coal. One railroad discovered fifty-six loaded cars in Columbus today in the hands of about fifteen different consignees and has taken steps to see that the coal is disposed of promptly and the cars returned to the mines.

One large coal company with headquarters here received word today that one of its mines in West Virginia was without cars and had to close down. Only one of the company's four mines in Meigs and Jackson Counties, Ohio, is operating, because of lack of cars.

"We can't get mine cars which we ordered last January," said the Manager of that company.

He attributed the car shortage to the "unbounded prosperity" and the fact that many factories were working night and day.

One Kentucky mine which markets its coal in Ohio has a daily output of twenty-one cars, but in the last three weeks it has only been able to get one car a day. There has been some coal shipped into Ohio from Indiana and Illinois.

Because of the high price of coal asked by dealers, the city of Conneaut, Ohio, has gone into the retail coal business and today was selling its municipal lighting plant's reserve fuel to householders at $4.50 per ton.

At Youngstown the Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company has announced that it will furnish coal to its employes in need of fuel as long as necessary. Coal is being delivered by the corporation at $4 a ton.

At Cleveland a conference was held today under the auspices of the Chamber of Commerce to devise ways and means to end the alarming coal situation. The Cleveland City Council last night adopted a resolution calling on County Prosecutor Locher to investigate the shortage of coal and prohibitive prices in Cleveland and to take steps to end these conditions. The coal receipts for Cleveland yesterday were estimated at 275 cars, a normal day's receipts being 750 cars.

It was estimated that there were 800 cars of coal on railroad sidings in and near Cleveland yesterday waiting for shipment in boats. Soft coal today sold at Cleveland at $6.50 to $7.50 a ton and hard coal at $9.25 to $9.75.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—Interstate Commerce Commissioner McChord left tonight for Louisville, Ky., where on Nov. 3 and 4 he will hold informal conferences with representatives of Eastern, Southern, and a few of the Western railroads, State Railroad Commissions, and shippers concerning the general car shortage, which is tying up traffic and affecting the prices of coal and other necessities.

"The conference has been arranged," the commission announced, "because of the many complaints received by the commission from all parts of the country in relation to the inability of the shippers to obtain cars in which to transport their commodities."

In his telegram to the Eastern trunk lines, asking them to have representatives at the conference, Commissioner McChord pointed out that the shippers had charged that the carriers received cars for export without assurance of water-shipping facilities, and permitted the use of the cars for storage.
